Municipal Departments Petition Appropriations Committee

"Blessed are they who expect nothing, for they shall not be disappointed." This benediction in all probability will be quoted to the different heads of departments who may appear before the committee on appropriations next Monday evening, when that important and much sought committee (at this time of year) holds its meeting.

In the first place the police department has selected the auto truck it wants and all that is now needed is an appropriation of $6,000, which it will request from the committee at the coming meeting.

The fire department also has the auto bug to the extent that it desires an appropriation of $13,000 for two auto combination wagons and a wagon for the chief. This department also wants $500 for additional fire alarm.

Inspector Dow of the buildings department will appear before the committee and explain the need of the fire department for a boiler at the Central fire station at a cost of $800.

The committee also has before it requests from the health department for $25,000 for a new stable and for $1,700 for other expenses.

Recently Councilman Chapman induced an order for $10,000 for the development of the new Shedd park in the Oakland and the committee on appropriations to which the matter was

The vaults are fireproof construction, and as a matter of further safety, in case of fire, the CENTRAL FIRE STATION is across the street. Boxes cost from $5.00 to $50.00 per year. Boxes are handed only by the box holder and he or she holds the only key to box. Their control is absolute at the Middlesex. HAMILTON WALL IN POLICE COURT

May Give Way to Business Block
Small Docket Quickly Disposed of

The famous old Hamilton wall, some perhaps would place the letters "in" before famous, is soon to come down for the Hamilton Mfg. Co. has placed the space outlined by the wall, on the market.

Several offers already have been received and it is not improbable that a modern business block will soon be erected on the site.

It was the plan of the Hamilton company when the print department of the mill was sold to the Pacific mills of Lawrence, to build a business block in Central street, but since that time several offers have been made for the property, and it is learned from an authentic source that the Hamilton company has decided to dispose of the property if the right figure is submitted.

The plans of the Hamilton company with reference to building for manufacturing purposes will be carried out, and a weaving mill will be built with capacity for the employment of a greater number of operatives than were employed in the old print works.

The Massachusetts Chimney
The junction of the Merrimack and Concord rivers is soon to be marked by a monument to the textile industries along their banks which for height will overtop the Bunker Hill monument, with its 221 feet of granite blocks for the Massachusetts Mfg. Co. is to erect a chimney which will be the second highest in Lowell.

It will be 250 feet in height including the cap, and the flue will be 15 feet in diameter. The highest chimney in Lowell is that of the Merrimack Mfg. Co., built in 1872. This chimney is 232 feet 6 inches in height with a 12-foot flue. The Merrimack chimney is built of common brick, while that of the Massachusetts is constructed of perforated radial brick, fashioned specially for chimney construction.

The highest chimney in the world is located at Great Falls, Montana, and is 506 feet high. It is used by a mining company.

The chimney for the Massachusetts is being built by the Alphons Custodi Chimney Construction company, and the cost above the foundation will be $13,000.

Church Addition
An extensive addition is to be built to the First Baptist church at the corner of Church and George streets at an estimated cost of $20,000. A class room 19 by 24 feet, one story high will be built with a flat roof. Harry Prescott Graves is the architect.

HELD IN $1500 THE AWAKENING OF SOUTH AFRICA COMES WITH OPENING OF FIRST PARLIAMENT, NOV. 4

On Charge of Using
Mail to Defraud

MANCHESTER, N. H., Oct. 29.—Pres. John A. Dellese, Treas. Theophile Boudreau of the Oxford Gold Mining company, with an office at 21 Amory street, McGregorville, and Leo Richard, a former secretary of the company, were given a hearing before U. S. Commissioner John S. Crawford yesterday afternoon, charged with using the U. S. mails in a scheme to defraud.

The hearing lasted several hours and resulted in each of the respondents being held in $1500 for the next term of the U. S. circuit court.

The trio was arrested last night by U. S. Marshal E. P. Nute of Farmington, assisted by Inspector H. H. Smith and Officer Hampton of the Manchester police.

Charles W. Holt of Nashua, U. S. district attorney, was ready to open the prosecution yesterday, but the inspectors wanted a postponement in order that they might visit the office and seize documents and papers which might be found there. After a conference of an hour or more this delay was granted and the hearing was postponed until afternoon. The inspectors, with Marshal Nute, drove to McGregorville and returned with five mail sacks filled with books, papers and stationery.

It was alleged at the hearing that the respondents purchased 240 acres where the mine is located for $1200, and it was asserted that they had sold each from 10 cents a share to $3.00, and altogether had received $108,094 from the sale of stock. It was alleged that a sample of ore sent to smelters in New Jersey showed it to be worthless. The respondents pleaded not guilty and furnished bail.

BOARD OF HEALTH

Considers Several Matters of Sanitation

The matter of granting a permit to the American Hide & Leather company for the erection of a tanning plant in Perry street was not touched upon at the regular meeting of the board of health held yesterday afternoon. Previous to the meeting it was stated that action relative to the granting of the permit would be postponed until the stenographic report of last Friday night's meeting is before the board. The report will be ready on Tuesday. That the board will grant the permit, however, there is little doubt as the board seems inclined to accept the statement of the company's officials that the plant will be odorless and inoffensive. That thought the board members brought back with them from Milwaukee after visiting a plant in that city. The respondents do not believe any such thing and have suggested that if the company means what it says, it should furnish a bond as a guarantee of good faith.

The board at its meeting yesterday afternoon received reports of conditions in certain Merrill street houses with reference to the question of sanitation. It was voted to order vaults out of certain houses there.

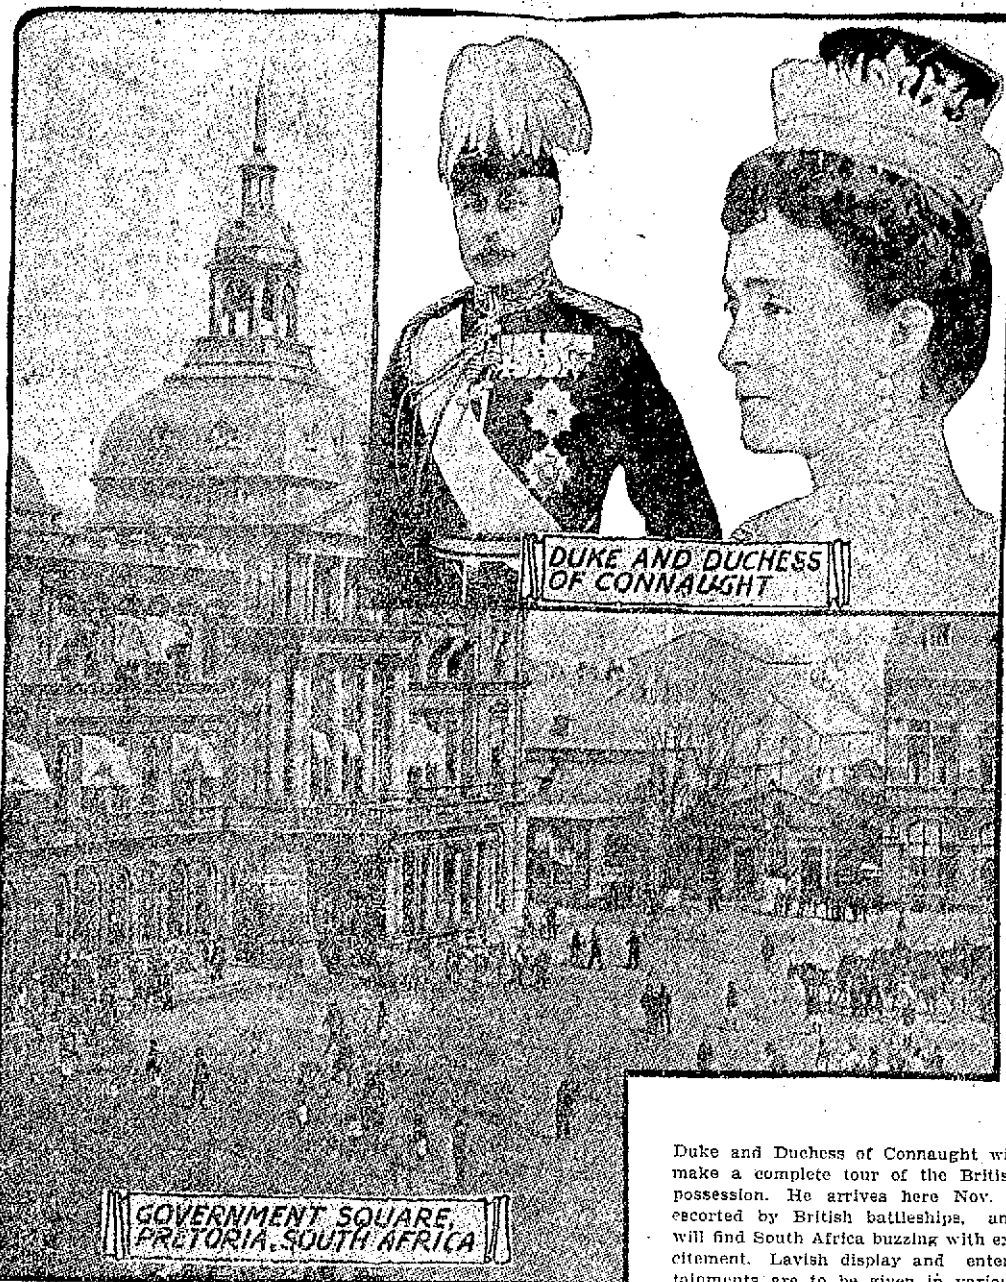

Dr. Huntress spoke of a complaint from Albin Owen Brannen as to conditions in Hale's brook near Chambers street and it was agreed that an inspection should be made at an early time.

The board voted permission to Mrs. Raulley and Mrs. Regina Desrochers to take care of infants.

Albert Porter and W. A. Shinklin received swill licenses.

Irwin Barlow was granted a permit to collect decayed fruit.

The milk license of Louis Lampros was revoked, Mr. Lampros having recently sold out his milk route. Inspector of Milk Melvin Master submitted a report of his recent visit to Amherst Agricultural college, where a meeting of the state association of milk inspectors was held. Inspector Master gave an interesting summary of information obtained by attending the meeting, and as it came from recognized experts, the board agreed to consider it later at greater depth. Suggestions to both milk producers and health boards were contained in Inspector Master's abstract.

loward Newmarket and necessitated the building of a new culvert 60 feet long and 20 feet wide across the Oyster river, just opposite the old one over which trains run now. The culverts are end to end.

Yesterday noon a work train with a number of cars laden with sand was backed onto the culvert, and the foundation at one side suddenly gave way. Three cars were thrown into the river. An Italian workman jumped as the culvert began to sink and escaped injury. The locomotive was in no danger. The rail of the track disintegrated and made it impossible to take off two other cars on the rails in the middle of the culvert. This accident happened at noon.

About 2 o'clock some New Hampshire college students and a professor came down to inspect the ruins. They went beneath the culvert and were looking upward when they heard a low rumble. They ran from beneath the culvert and some feet away, just escaping about three tons of sand and cement and the other two standing freight cars laden with sand. The roof of the culvert had fallen in and almost caught the students and the professor.

The loss is estimated at $10,000. The traffic on the division was not delayed, although trains went at a slower rate on the rails across the old culvert.

COL. ROOSEVELT

Admits That He Was in Error

ROCHESTER, N. Y., Oct. 29.—Theodore Roosevelt last evening gave out a copy of another letter which he has written to Judge Simon E. Baldwin, democratic nominee for governor of Connecticut, in which he discusses further the attitude of Judge Baldwin regarding labor legislation, which Col. Roosevelt criticized in his speech at Concord, N. H., last week as "retrogressive."

The first letter of Col. Roosevelt to the judge was based on reports of the letter from Judge Baldwin to him. When the Baldwin letter reached Mr. Roosevelt he found that in some respects his (Col. Roosevelt's) information had not been entirely accurate. Meanwhile he had obtained fuller information from other sources, and on this he wrote the letter of yesterday.

The letter of yesterday discusses Judge Baldwin's decision in the case of William Hoxie vs. the New Haven railroad, and ends with the declaration that in the opinion of Col. Roosevelt Judge Baldwin's decision "is retrogressive in the highest degree."

BASTHAMPTON, Oct. 29.—Eugene N. Foss at the democratic rally here last night said in part:

"Gov. Draper said last night that he has been governor for two years and he knows what that office has to do with the tariff and reciprocity. Mr. Foss is using reciprocity as a fake issue and he knows it."

"Now Gov. Draper means to be fair I think, and will be as fair as he can when blinded by partisan politics. Will he not take us into his confidence and tell us why he appointed a commission on the cost of living, had the state spend $15,000 on it, and print its report, a report that advocated reciprocity with Canada, untaxed food supplies and a lower rate of taxation on the necessities of life? Why did he waste the state's money if the information arrived at couldn't be used or in any way influence national action as it must in order to be effective?"

"A fake reciprocity! Will Gov. Draper explain the fake in my proposition? While I believe that we ought to have absolute free trade between the United States and Canada, I have suggested that we ought immediately to lower our rates to the level of Canada's, as an earnest of our good intentions, and expressed the belief that Canada would be fair and would be willing to meet our advances in good faith."

"For years we have rebuffed Canada, until now she has secured other markets and we have lost much. Every day's delay makes it harder to come to an agreement. Boston ought to be the clearing house for most of the business of Canada. Instead it goes elsewhere."

"To show how much 'fake' there is to my reciprocity arguments I want to call Gov. Draper's attention to the speech of Sir Frederick W. Borden member of the Canadian cabinet, to the members of the Intercolonial club in Roxbury last night.

"His statements tally exactly with my public utterances for the past 10 years, Canada in spite of our ill-treatment of her would welcome any fair move that we might make. His suggestions are exactly in line, are, in fact, identical with mine. I suppose that in Gov. Draper's eyes it is a 'fake' reciprocity that Sir Frederick Borden suggests, but sometimes Gov. Draper doesn't see just straight."

"Gov. Draper wants to talk about state issues and I am going to accommodate him shortly."

"I want to talk to him about some of these various commissions that seem to consider themselves as above the law and certainly so beyond the reach of the public that they may no attention to public sentiment and adopt the Vanderbilt policy of 'The public be damned.' And these other little matters of perhaps a more personal nature—I am willing to submit to honest criticism honestly made, but not to unfair criticisms made to misrepresent. I fight in the open. I call a spade a spade and stand responsible for my public utterances. I deal not in innuendoes nor in hidden suggestions, and I don't propose to let any man deal that way by me. I will force them out into the open and ask them to make good their insinuations."

"But just now there are other matters of greater importance. I will deal with the things that are in the minds of the people first, for I do not forget that I am fighting their battles for them, aided by my associates most heartily."

"The republican campaign seems to have broken down. They are running wild trying to find something on which to base a campaign and check the rising tide that is burying them as it advances. They decide on a campaign of publicity, call it off and then whirl around in their tracks and think they'll begin it early next week."

"I look in vain for any intelligent discussion of the great questions of the day. Congressman Gardner hobs up long enough to want to know something about that old fake letter of last year, thinks on the whole he'll send out what purports to be a fac simile letter. Why, that was all over long ago, only of course he hasn't found it out."

"They don't want to discuss the tariff. They make sneering allusions to what Foss can do on the tariff, and they try to dodge all honest, candid, intelligent discussion of it. They don't want it touched, and they bring up this fake tariff board into view and say let us revise the tariff scientifically some time in the future."

"But the people want it settled now, and they are going to force a settlement by their votes this fall."

"It matters little if a man's wage be $3 per day, if the cost of sugar and flour, potatoes and meat is so high that his $3 can't procure sufficient for the comfort of his family and those dependent upon him, or if the cost of woolen clothing and cotton goods is so high that he cannot afford to suitably protect himself and family from the rigors of the climate."

"You are to decide this question, my friends. The responsibility rests on you. I can point out the way. It is now up to you, and I know that you will vote and vote right on the 8th of November."

FIRST TRINITARIAN CHURCH

The third illustrated lecture in the series by Rev. George F. Kennigott will be given in the First Trinitarian Congregational church, Dutton street, Tuesday, November 1st, at 8 p. m. The subject of the lecture is "Where Rolls the Oregon." The lecture will have a large number of snap-shots taken along the way, with a particular reference to the Nez Perce Indians in Idaho, the work of Marcus Whitman, and finely colored pictures of the Great Northwest.

Mr. John F. Sheehan, baritone, of Boston, will sing "The Lord is my Light," by Altiton, and "Cross and Crown," by Adams, on Sunday at 6.45 p. m. in the First Trinitarian Congregational church, Dutton street. The Ladies' chorus will sing several anthems, and Mr. Kennigott will preach a brief sermon on "The Making of a Good Man." The service promises to be of great interest and all are invited.

A NOBLE RECORD

Of many hundreds of thousands of cures forms a well sustained basis for every claim put forth by the makers of DR. PIERCE'S GOLDEN MEDICAL DISCOVERY as a remedy for many of the troublesome affections which afflict mankind; yet it is not extolled as a "cure-all" by any means. No extravagant promises are flaunted before the public to arouse false hopes in the afflicted. Your neighbors probably know of some of its many cures; ask them.

Through strengthening and arousing the stomach, liver and bowels into vigorous action, digestion is promoted, whereby the blood is enriched and purified, disease-producing bacteria destroyed and expelled from the body, and thus a long list of skin, scrofulous and kindred affections are overcome and sound, vigorous health established.

The "Discovery" contains no alcohol and no habit-forming drugs, and has its every ingredient printed on its wrappers. This OPEN PUBLICITY places it in a class distinct from the ordinary secret nostrums with which it has no relationship. Physicians, therefore, do not hesitate to prescribe it in bad cases of indigestion, torpid liver or biliousness and in skin and blood affections. People of intelligence and keen discernment employ it. The "Discovery" is a pure glyceric extract of native medicinal roots of great curative potency, and can in no case do harm to either child or adult. The aged find it a great invigorator.

You can learn more about this time proven and popular "Discovery" from the People's Common Sense Medical Adviser, by Dr. R. V. Pierce, a newly revised, up-to-date edition of which is now offered, in cloth covers, post-paid, for 31 cents in one-cent stamps, to cover cost of mailing only; or in paper covers 21 cents. WELL SUSTAINED

TAFT FOR LEWIS

He is Determined to Appoint Colored Man to Office

WASHINGTON, Oct. 28.—Persons close to the president say he has fully made up his mind to appoint W. H. Lewis of Boston to be an assistant attorney-general of the United States, or if that is impossible, to give him a place almost equally as good, the alternative position suggested being that of assistant treasurer of the United States at Philadelphia, provided Senator Penrose of Pennsylvania will consent to a "carpet bag" appointment. Inasmuch as Mr. Lewis is a Massachusetts man and not a Pennsylvanian, Mr. Penrose, who has his own troubles just at the present time, owing to the tangled state of the republican party in Pennsylvania, may make vigorous objection to such a far federal plum as the assistant treasurer going to an outsider. Senator Penrose is coming to Washington in a few days to talk over matters with the president. There is opposition to the appointment of Mr. Lewis as an assistant attorney-general because of his color, and the president has been told that it would lead to embarrasments. Assistant attorney-generals rank in the official table of precedence with assistant secretaries of departments, and as such are invited to official functions at the White House.

It would be distasteful to southern senators and members of congress, the president has been told, for them to have to meet Mr. Lewis socially and more or less friction would be sure to follow.

Already there are intimations that if the president persists in appointing Mr. Lewis an assistant attorney-general, efforts would be made to defeat his confirmation, but the president will not be deterred by these threats. Southern senators could of course delay the confirmation, as senatorial courtesy requires that every senator shall be permitted to talk to the limit, and as the coming session is very short, a vigorous opposition might prevent action on the nomination before March 4. In that case the president could recommend Mr. Lewis as a recess appointment and the nomination would then be taken up on its merits at the following session.

If it could be shown that Mr. Lewis was without the requisite fitness for the place or that he was not a proper man for the appointment, it would be easier to defeat his nomination, but no such suggestion is made. On the contrary, it is conceded that Mr. Lewis is a man of ability and character and fully qualified to be either an assistant attorney-general or assistant treasurer at Philadelphia or elsewhere. A. C. Wickersham, in whose department Mr. Lewis would have an office if he should be appointed an assistant attorney-general, said, again yesterday that he knew nothing about the appointment, adding: "I do know Mr. Lewis. He is a good man, a good assistant district attorney and a good football player."

On the recommendation of Representative Gardner Dr. F. H. Coffin has been appointed pension examining surgeon at Haverhill to succeed Dr. M. D. Clarke, resigned.

THE SUFFRAGISTS

Closed Campaign With Open Air Meeting

The woman suffragists closed their campaign in this city last night with an open air meeting on the South common. The campaigners had a few strenuous days in Lowell, and those who came in contact with them could not but admire their persistency and their enthusiasm.

The young women talked to a large crowd on the common and the crowd listened attentively and respectfully. The meeting was probably the largest held during the week. The four young women who conducted the campaign were Miss Annie Withington, Miss Margaret Foley, Miss Alice Carpenter and Miss Florence Lusk, and last night was a busy night for them.

After addressing the crowd on the common, Miss Margaret Foley and Miss Withington spoke before the Plumbers association. The young women made many friends during their stay in Lowell.

CHELMSFORD

The annual fair of the Unitarian society took place in the town hall on Thursday afternoon and evening, and was a grand success. The fair was managed by the Ladies' Circle and Alliance, of which Mrs. Amasa Howard is president. From 4 to 6 an excellent supper was served and a large gathering assembled about the tables. The hall was decorated prettily and the tables adorned with yellow and white chrysanthemums and autumn foliage. The tables furnished a variety of attractions and were liberally patronized.

Before and after the entertainment, beginning at 8 o'clock, the Adams orchestra gave enjoyable selections. The entertainment, arranged by Richard Davis, consisting of a one-act farce, entitled "Chums," was given a good presentation by young people of the society. The cast was as follows: Mr. Reed, a Vermont squire, Fred Chandler; Harry Reed, a R. H. H. son, Hosmer Sweetser; Thom Burnham, leading lady of the Pi Eta Theatre, Richard Davis; Flora Strong, Mrs. Reed's niece, Rachel Marshall; Mrs. Reed, Eliza Spaulding.

The committee and those in charge of the various tables were as follows: Candy table, Mrs. A. L. Hill, chairman; Mrs. W. H. Hall, Mrs. A. C. Forham, Mrs. V. L. Parkhurst, Pancy table, Mrs. J. E. NEEDLESS ALARM

BROUGHT FIRE DEPARTMENT TO WEST SIXTH STREET

An alarm from box 132 shortly before five o'clock last night gave a portion of the department a needless run. The box is located in the vicinity of the pumping station of the Lowell water works in West Sixth street and when the apparatus arrived on the scene there was not the least sign of the fire. It is thought that some boys "pulled" the box just for fun.

DRACUT

The warrant for the special town meeting which is to be held Monday night at the Grange hall in Dracut Centre has been posted and includes the following articles:

Article 1. "To choose a moderator."

Article 2. "To see what action the town will take in the matter of the suit of Ora M. Snell vs. Inhabitants of the town of Dracut."

Article 3. "To see if the town will vote to pay J. Edwin Kennedy, Philip Grant and Edwin Richardson the sum of $52.50 for services rendered as building committee of the East Dracut school."

Under the second article of the warrant, the action of O. M. Snell against the town is to recover the amount of a bill contracted for the surveying and other civil engineering work done by him on the site of the state highway now under construction along the Merrimack river on the Lawrence road, so-called.

AYER

A political rally under the direction of the democratic town committee will be held in the town hall on Wednesday evening, Nov. 2. These speakers have been engaged for the occasion: Thomas F. Boynton, ex-mayor of Everett; Charles T. Daley of West Medford; Philip A. Kely of Lynn, candidate for senator in the seventh Middlesex district; Hon. John J. Mitchell of Marlboro, candidate for congress in the fourth district; James J. Irwin of Everett, who is running for district attorney; W. L. Tuck of Winchester, candidate for sheriff; Edward Fisher of Westford, who is opposing James H. Wilkins for representative in the 11th Middlesex district, and John Martin of Lowell, candidate for county commissioner.

Hon. Joseph H. Hubbard of Lowell, republican candidate for senator in the Eighth Middlesex district, was looking over the field Tuesday. His opponent, Hon. Fisher H. Pearson, also of the Springfield City, was also in town early in the week.

John J. Mitchell of Marlboro, candidate for congress in the fourth district, has been busy looking after his campaign in this section and is to be one of the speakers at the rally next Wednesday evening.

James H. Wilkins of Carlisle and Edward Fisher of Westford, candidates for representative on the republican and democratic tickets respectively in the Eleventh Middlesex district, are also after the voters for their support on Nov. 8.

Philip A. Kely, democratic candidate for senator in the Seventh Middlesex district, is making an active canvass in this vicinity.

OFFICER A. J. PAGE

Our Oldest Patrolman Has Served Forty-one Years

Patrolman Alonzo J. Page, of the police department and whose duties are to look after the keeping of the

the department, both in point of service and age.

While it is a common thing to meet a patrolman on duty during the day or night, the writer's attention was attracted to Mr. Page because the latter was wearing eight blue stripes on either sleeve of his uniform. Each one of those stripes signified that the bearer had been in the service of the department for five years and when a man spends over 40 years in any position it is certain that it is only exemplary conduct that keeps him there.

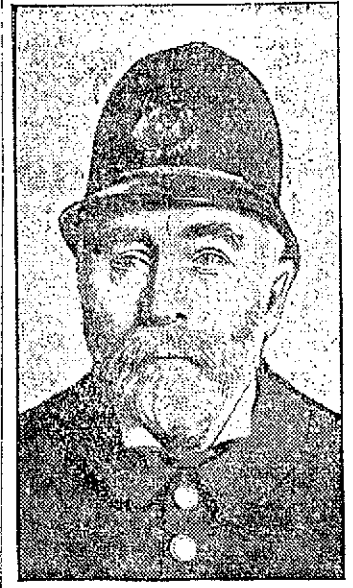

Patrolman Page is very uncommunicative and thinks that he is only doing his duty when he makes important arrests. He is considered one of the best members of the department despite his advanced age. Of course he is not as active as in previous years, but his reputation as a trustworthy and faithful officer is known and he is now resting on his laurels as it were.

Patrolman Page was born in East Livermore, Maine, in August 1869 and came to this city in June, 1890. He was appointed a patrolman in January, 1870, by Mayor Jonathan P. Folsom and the board of aldermen who were in office at that time the members of the department being elected by the mayor and board of aldermen.

Mr. Page has patrolled almost every portion of the city, his principal endeavors being in the Belvidere, Centralville and Highland districts, although he spent considerable time in patrolling Merrimack street.

Two years ago in July he was assigned to city hall work and since that time he has looked after the interests of the public to the general satisfaction of everyone.

One of the most important arrests that Patrolman Page ever made was that of Miss Mank who in the early 70's shot and killed Charles Ricker.

When Michael McDonald was at the head of the police department, he appointed Patrolman Page, a sergeant, but when Mr. McDonald was succeeded Mr. Page was reduced to the ranks.

Everyone who knows the officer is of the opinion that he has been one of Lowell's most faithful servants, a man of good judgment, and one of the best members of the police department.

PEOPLE'S CLUB

OPENING OF THE WOMEN'S BRANCH LAST NIGHT

The women's branch of the People's club opens its classes on Tuesday evening, November 1st. Four classes in plain sewing commence on this the opening night. The small sum required as an entrance fee, and the very practical nature of the work, make this a most popular class.

On Thursday, the dressmaking class hold its first session. These are under the direction of Miss Alice E. Chase and Mrs. A. L. Sears, as last year.

On this night also opens the military class. The registration thus far is very large and there are only a very few vacancies for this term.

This year a new departure for the club is a Christmas gift class. This class comes on Thursday night, also. Many requests were made last season, but too late for the formation of such a class. The articles made will be practical, dainty and inexpensive, and is under the direction of a skilled teacher.

On Friday and Monday night occur the first sessions of the embroidery class—which always appeals to those having a love for beautiful things.

Another class on Monday evening is that of dressmaking under the direction of Miss Carrie Brownell, another of our old and experienced teachers.

Notice of the cooking class under Miss Carolyn P. Webber will be given later.

The above are the outlines of class work for the season until February 1st. From time to time entertainments are given to the pupils and their friends, and after February first a series of public entertainments will be given.

BOWLING GAMES

Many Exciting Scores
Last Night

There were several close and exciting games played on the alleys last night. In the Electric Light League the Office and Station teams clashed, the former team being too strong for the boys who work in Perry street.

The Cotton Side and Print Works of the Merrimack mills met, and the latter team demonstrated its accuracy by winning the game by a margin of 27 pins.

The Helmers and Butler Vets of the Minor league managed to put up high scores, but the victory fell to the former team.

The Tigers and Cubs met in a friendly contest, but there was very little excitement, for the Tigers gave their opponents an awful trouncing.

The scores:

BOSSSES WIN
After a very lively game between two teams from the Lowell Bleachery on Les Miserables alleys, the Bosses won from the Ship team by 12 pins. Tom Fox was high with 103.

OUR GRAMMAR SCHOOLS

VARNUM SCHOOL

Its History, Principal and Graduates

The Varnum school is situated in Myrtle street, Centralville, and is one of the largest schools in the city. It has little to boast of so far as architectural beauty is concerned but its 17 class rooms are well lighted and all of its appointments are modern and up to date. It holds the record for Carney medal scholars in the High school and it embraces enterprises that have attracted the attention of educators. These enterprises include cobblering and the cane seating of chairs. These have been introduced as a part of the manual training of the school.

The cobblering is under the direction of Miss Rose A. Dowd and Miss Agnes T. Fay has charge of the cane seating. These two women have the distinction of being the only public school teachers to give instructions in this practical work. About 200 pairs of shoes are repaired and 76 chairs are re-seated during the year.

The little cobblering buy their own stock from the wholesalers, and take great pride in mending the footwear of their friends and neighbors. As a

himself. At the municipal election the following December, the large vote he received as a candidate for the office of school committee from old ward two attested the esteem in which he was held by his fellow citizens.

He was succeeded in October, 1878, by Mr. A. K. Whitcomb, who brought to his work the good health, strength and energy that come from a well spent boyhood on a farm, and a mental grasp and understanding of educational needs and principles far above the ordinary. With a singleness of purpose that knew no diversion, he applied himself to the work so well begun by Mr. Galloupe of educating the boys and girls of Centralville. To such good purpose did he labor that his talents received the recognition so justly their due and he was elected to the position of superintendent of schools in 1891, a position which fortunately for the schools of Lowell he still holds.

To take his place, Mr. George W. Howe was transferred from the Colburn school, and well did he fulfill his duties until summoned away six years ago by the still hand of death.

He was succeeded by the present incumbent. If a school may be judged at all by the later records of its graduates, then the Varnum school has much to be proud of. Take any of the older families living in Centralville and you will find the names of its members upon the registers of this school. THE VARNUM SCHOOL result of the cobblering work which has been done there, three of the pupils of the class have gone into the work for themselves and are doing an excellent business.

The annual trip to Whittier's birthplace is a pleasant feature of school life at the Varnum school. The trip is made by the graduating classes and is generally an all day outing.

History of the School
At the anniversary exercises of the Varnum school, March 6, 1901, Principal Henry H. Harris read a very interesting paper concerning the history of the school. The paper, in part, was as follows:

Centralville was annexed to Lowell, in 1851, a building known as the "Dracut academy" stood upon the site of the present Varnum schoolhouse. This academy building was taken and made an integral part of the public school system, and put in charge of a young graduate of Harvard college, Alonzo W. Boardman, who kept it two years, then, going back to the Harvard law school to fit himself for the honorable position in the state that he has since filled. Mr. Boardman was living in Melrose at the time he heard of the situation, and he well remembers the alacrity with which he hurried to harness a horse to drive to Wilmington to take the steam cars for Lowell, and also the bitterly cold drive home for his successful application for the place. Mr. Boardman greatly endeared himself to the people of Centralville during his two years' stay, and many have since followed with interest his later fortunes. He was a member of the Massachusetts senate in 1871 and 1872, and of the Boston board of health from 1873-1878, inclusive, and is now a successful lawyer in Boston. He was succeeded by one who for a quarter of a century impressed his character upon the school and gave it a standing second to none in the city. Lucius P. Galloupe was one of the best known figures in Centralville for more than 25 years. He took charge of the school in 1855 and soon began to agitate for a new schoolhouse to take the place of the old academy building which was inadequate to the needs. He was finally successful, and in 1856 the old building was moved away and devoted to manufacturing an entirely different product from educated boys and girls. It now stands on Bridge street near Sixth, and is occupied by Woods, Sherwood & Co. for the manufacture of wire goods and plating. A fine brick building took its place, for which the contractor, Josiah G. Peabody, received what seems but a small sum, $11,222.66, and which is not much more than was paid 30 years later for a two-room addition to the same building. But the prices of labor and materials were much less in the fifties than they are today. Mr. Galloupe in October, 1878, was obliged to resign on account of an affection in his throat which made it difficult for him to discharge his duties satisfactorily to Pearsons, the Reads, the Allens, etc. To name them individually would require much space, but among them you would find such names as that of the first woman to be appointed to any municipal position in the city of Lowell, Mrs. Charles D. Palmer; of Capt. Warren Howe, of whose life and services in the War of the Rebellion there is an interesting sketch in the public library; of Col. Philip Read; of the Honorable Fisher H. Pearson; of Leavitt R. J. and Daniel H. Varnum; Frank K. Stearns; Mrs. G. C. Brock; Edward M. Huckle, Esq.; Mrs. Thomas Nesmith; the late Mayor Courtner; Frederick W. Stickney, the architect who planned the heating and ventilating of the present building; Dr. George H. Col. Percy Parker; Mrs. E. M. Tucker; Mrs. Joe V. Meigs; Dr. G. Forrest Martin; Mrs. Sylvester Hovey; Edwin H. Cooke, superintendent of mails of the Lowell postoffice; the late Prentiss Webster; the late George B. Allen; the list could be extended for a long time.

And now a final word about the growth of the school. The first class to be graduated from the building in 1857 numbered 17, and the school was taught by the master and three assistants. There are now a master and 16 assistants. In 1858 the eight rooms in the old building were overcrowded and two new rooms were added to the old structure, making 10 in all. In February, 1891, it was necessary to open an overflow on Lakeview avenue, and in 1895 a second overflow in the same building. In February, 1896, a thirteen room was opened in the Fourth street engine house; in February, 1897, a fourteen room store on Bridge street. At last the city council arose and met the growing needs of the district by putting up the present commodious and satisfactory addition, giving more yard and basement room, and the long wished for assembly hall. A fifteen room month ago room was fitted from the kindergarten to provide for a sixteenth room. This makes five new rooms that have been added to the Varnum grammar school in the past six years. This schoolhouse is the largest grammar school in the city, containing 17 rooms in daily use. Architects have been outside, at least, the effect of the addition may not be pleasing, but within, the school is, with very few exceptions, conveniently arranged, and is giving satisfaction. Electric clocks, telephones and bells were put in all the rooms, whether new or old, and the building, according to the 1898 school report, "is one of the best and best equipped in the city."

Principal Harris
Henry H. Harris, principal of the Varnum Grammar school, was born in Lowell in 1868. He attended the Varnum school two years and was graduated from the Green school in 1884. He graduated from the High school in 1888 and was a Carney medal scholar. He attended Harvard college and graduated in 1891 with the degree of A. B., and with special honors in natural history and in 1892 he took his A. M.

While in college he was Harvard correspondent for the Boston News, New Haven News, Cambridge Tribune and was editorial reader of the Youth's Companion.

Mr. Harris is a member of the board of trustees of the public library. He is a Knight Templar and 32nd degree Scottish Rite Mason and Past Sovereign Master of Lowell Council of Priests of Jerusalem. He has travelled extensively abroad, having been six times to different parts of Europe.

Carney Medal Schools
The record of the Varnum school in relation to the Carney medals at the high school is one to be proud of. Six of these medals have been granted each year for 42 years or 252 medals in all. In the whole time there have been 16 occasions when one medal was awarded a Varnum school graduate: 13 occasions when two medals were received, and five occasions when three received the honor. This makes a total of 65 medals out of 252, over 25 per cent that are now being held by those who received their grammar school education at the Varnum school.

Varnum School Teachers
Principal Harris' assistants at the Varnum school are, Elizabeth C. Kennedy, Mary F. Wynn, Agnes Bullock, Daisy E. MacBrayne, Grace W. Isbell, Annie V. Donoghue, Mary A. Fay, Agnes T. Fay, Rose A. Woman Passed Away Suddenly Yesterday In East Merrimack St. is Completed

Mrs. Annie O'Hanlon, aged 45 years, wife of John O'Hanlon, of 65 Livingston street, was found dead in her bed yesterday. Last night she went to bed apparently as well as ever and her husband and children were shocked to learn of her sudden demise without scarcely a moment's notice.

Medical Examiner Jos. V. Meigs was called by the family physician and the members of the family, and heart failure seemed to be the cause of the sudden death.

She leaves to mourn her loss her husband, John, and four children, James, Annie, Mary and Margaret, and six sisters, Mrs. Mary McArdle, Mrs. Margaret Fagin, Mrs. Sarah Kelly, Mrs. Kate O'Loughlin, Mrs. Elizabeth Montgomery and Miss Nellie Donnelly, and a brother, Michael Donnelly, all of this city. Friends are requested not to send flowers.

CORNELL STUDENT DID NOT DIE OF FOOTBALL INJURIES

ITHACA, N. Y., Oct. 29.—That Lauren B. Paine of Duluth, Minn., the freshman who died at the Cornell infirmary Thursday night, did not die from injuries received in football practice, was made known last night after an autopsy upon the body by Dr. Charles A. Benize, the Buffalo pathologist.

The findings confirmed the opinion of the football coaches and remove all doubt as to playing the balance of the schedule this year. The findings were contained in a telegram sent by President J. C. Schurman to Franklin Paine, the boy's father, saying that the patient died of an unavoidable acute dilation of the heart, associated with arterial disease and a gastro enteric colitis.

There were no signs of any football injury.

MINERS DROWNED

Steamer Wrecked at Shoal Bay

NORTH SYDNEY, N. S., Oct. 29.—Six passengers were drowned when the crew of 19 men when the steamer Regulus was wrecked at Shoal Bay, N. S., last Sunday, according to statements by passengers on the steamer Bruce, which arrived here yesterday from Roundhead. Previous reports stated the loss of life was confined to the crew. The passengers drowned were miners.

In Sudden Emergencies

like illness, it is often necessary quickly to raise the temperature of a room. For instance, in those hours between midnight and dawn, when the day temperature has been allowed to drop, if you are called upon to get up, the room is chilly and cold. It takes a long time to start up a furnace or fire and raise the temperature by ordinary means.

You can instantly heat a room to any desired temperature with a

PERFECTION

SMOKELESS OIL HEATER

Absolutely smokeless and odorless

It quickly gives heat, and with one filling of the font burns steadily for nine hours, without smoke or smell. Has automatic-locking flame spreader which prevents the wick from being turned high enough to smoke, and is easy to remove and drop back, so the wick can be cleaned in an instant. It has a cool handle and a damper top.

An indicator always shows the amount of oil in the font. It has a filler-cap which does not need to be screwed down; it is put in like a cork in a bottle, and is attached to the font by a chain.

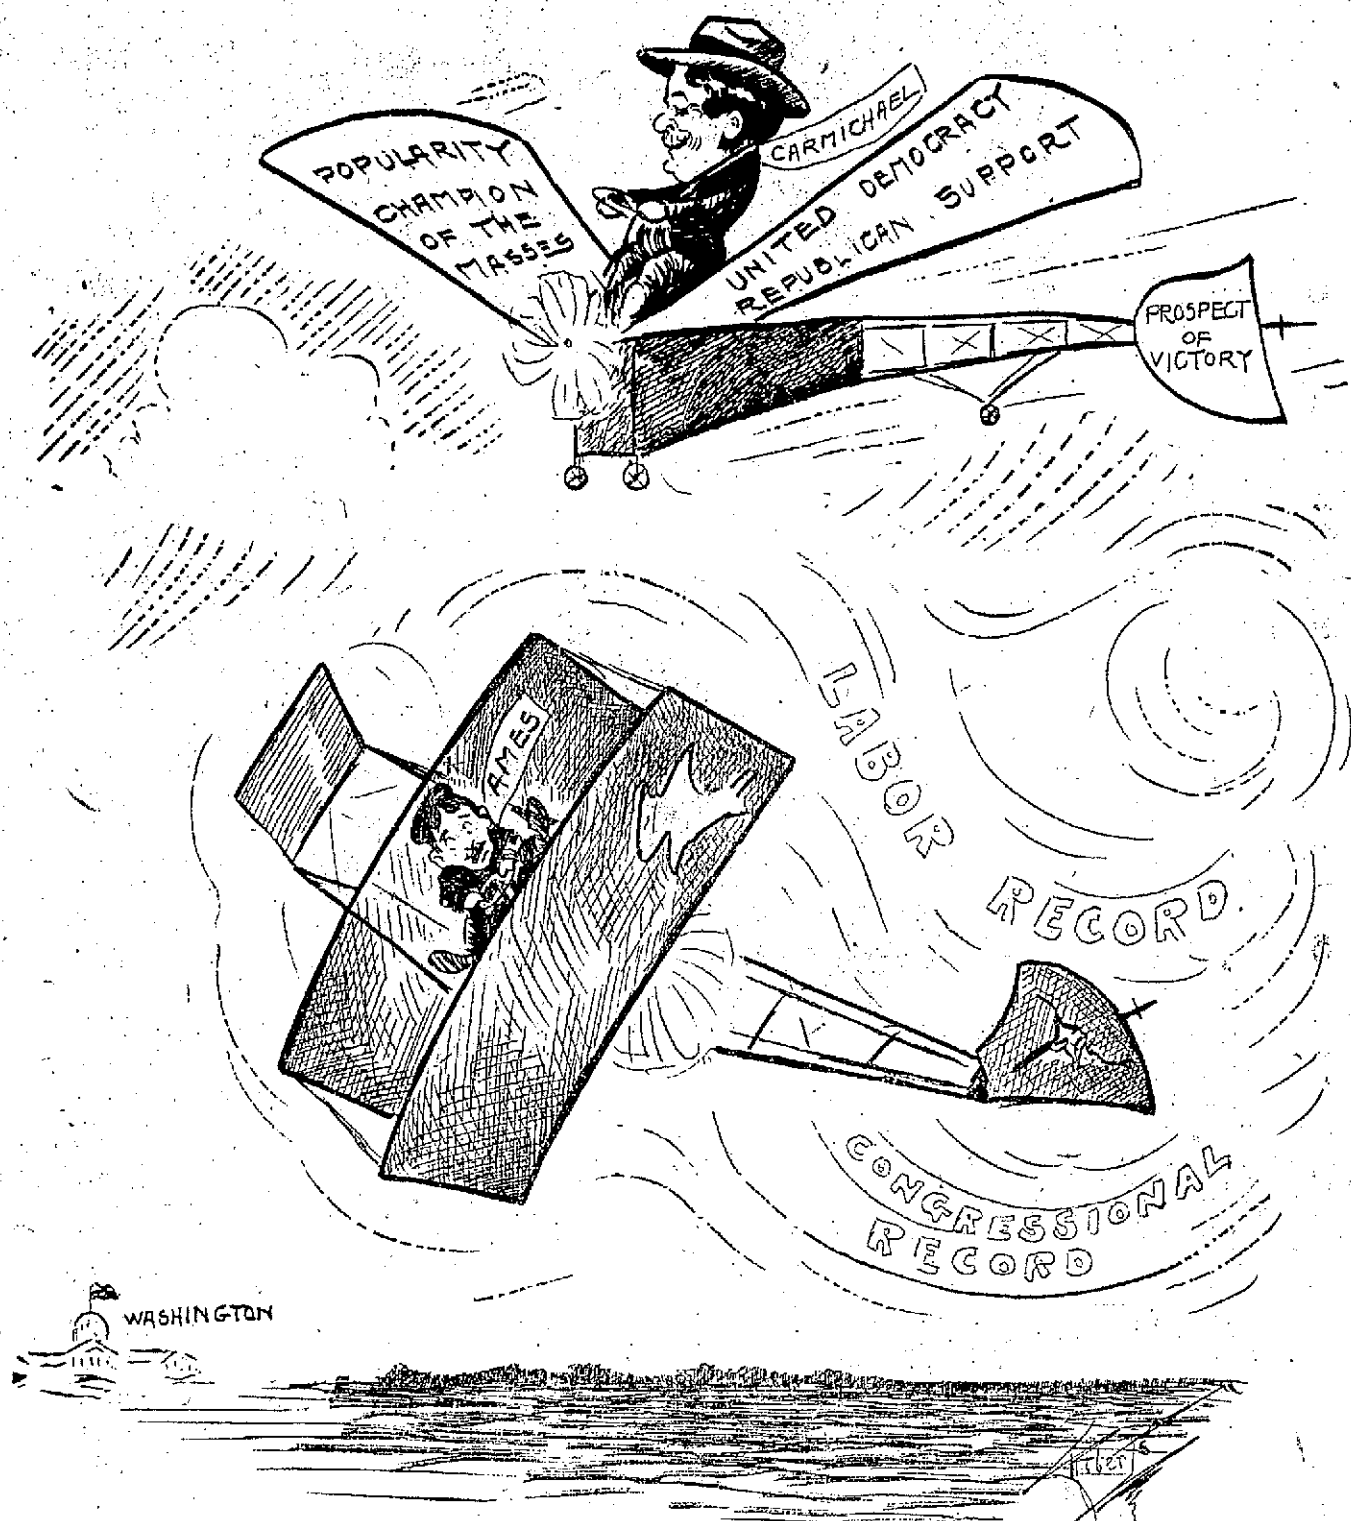

The burner body or gallery cannot become wedged, because of a new device in construction, and consequently it can always be easily unscrewed in an instant for reworking.

The Perfection Oil Heater is finished in Japan or nickel. It is strong, durable and well made, built for service, yet light and ornamental.

FARR PARDONED

But He Will Stay in Prison

ROCKLAND, Me., Oct. 29.—"I am truly grateful to everybody who has helped me get this pardon, which makes it possible for me to spend my few remaining years in freedom. I hope nothing in my future conduct will ever cause anybody to regret that the governor and council have been so kind. I can say nothing more at this time."

This was the statement of John G. Farr, life convict, when informed by Warden Norton last night that the pardon had been granted. There was another pathetic scene upon the arrival of the venerable prison chaplain, Rev. C. A. Plumer, who had been before the governor and council yesterday earnestly pleading the prisoner's cause. The convict embraced his benefactor, sobbing his joy.

Although free to go where he will after 29 years' confinement, Farr will not take immediate advantage of his opportunity. In fact, he will probably remain at the prison during the winter in the employ of Warden Norton. The warden says Farr has been one of the best prisoners in the institutions, needing neither reprimand nor punishment. He worked in the kitchen as long as he was able and cared for the prison flower garden and did other small jobs. He is now 69 years old and in far from robust health. Friends in another part of the state have declared that he shall never know want. Here in Rockland there has been much sympathy for him.

MORSE PARDON

Friends Find Way it May be Granted

WASHINGTON, Oct. 29.—Friends of Charles W. Morse believe they have found a way for President Taft to let the convicted New York banker out of the Atlanta penitentiary without actually pardoning him. In effect it would be to parole Morse, but that end would be accomplished by issuing a "conditional pardon."

The banker's friends claim precedent in their favor and point out that President Cleveland pardoned a federal prisoner conditionally, with the proviso that he report to the U. S. district attorney every year for five years.

While the plans of Morse's friends are not known at the department of justice, it was said that there is nothing to prevent the president from issuing a "conditional pardon" and that in such an event the federal board of parole would be charged with the responsibility of looking after Morse.

Any proposition to parole Morse under the terms of the law passed at the last session of congress, as has been suggested, is out of the question, say the attorneys. The law says a federal prisoner may be paroled after having served one-third of his sentence. Morse was sentenced to 15 years and would not be eligible for parole under that statute, therefore, until January, 1915.

WOMAN INDICTED

Accused of Murder of Husband

ST. ALBANS, Vt., Oct. 29.—Mrs. Frank C. Averill of St. Albans town was indicted, charged with the murder of her husband, by the Franklin county grand jury late yesterday. The jury, which had been especially summoned to consider the case, had been hearing testimony since Thursday afternoon.

Mrs. Averill has been under arrest since Saturday last, when she was held following an investigation by State's Atty. Johnson.

Averill died at a hospital in this city Oct. 21 from gunshot wounds. He was taken to the hospital late the night before, and in his few moments of consciousness told the officers, who had been called in, that he had been shot accidentally.

The Averills were well known residents of St. Albans town. Mrs. Averill since her arrest has maintained her innocence, and no motive for anyone to have shot Averill is known.

YOUNG MAN IS CHARGED WITH FORGERY

BOSTON, Oct. 28.—Waiving examination in the municipal criminal court, Frank J. Segendman, 22 years old, who had for several months maintained an elaborately furnished suite in Roxbury, was yesterday held in $5000 bail on the charge of forgery and uttering.

Since last February he had been employed by the Hub Wire company of 178 Washington street. His employers made the complaint, alleging that they have lost heavily through his peculations.

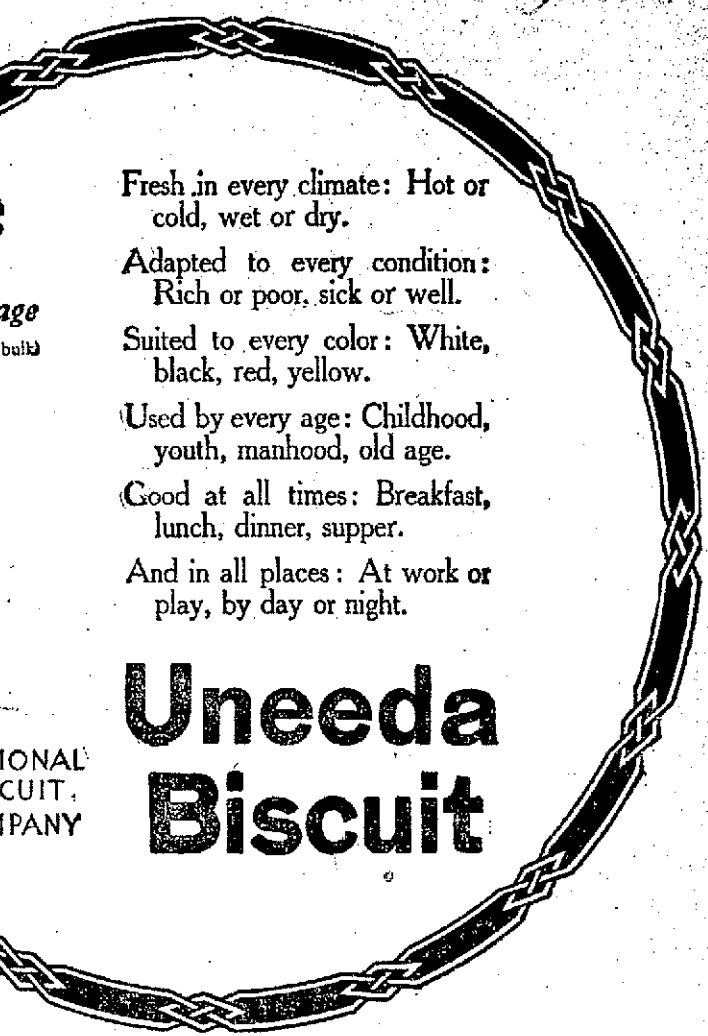

According to the police the young man received a salary of $40 a month, but maintained a suite in a Roxbury apartment house that cost him $45 a month for rent and had other heavy expenses.

He is charged with having forged the name of the treasurer of the concern to checks received from customers. These checks, he is alleged to have deposited to his own account in the South End national bank, drawing against them whenever he needed extra pocket money.

CHAIRMAN HUPPUGH

Replies to Statement Made by Candidate Stimson

NEW YORK, Oct. 29.—Chairman Huppugh of the democratic state committee issued the following statement last night, together with what he said was a copy of a letter written to the directors of the American Sugar Refining company by its counsel, John C. Johnson, John B. Stanchfield, James R. Sheffield and Henry B. Closson:

"In view of the statement made by Mr. Stimson yesterday that he had collected from the sugar trust all that was due to the government when he consented to take from the company about $2,000,000 in full settlement of all claims against them it is very interesting to read the letter addressed to the trust's directors by their counsel, who were thoroughly familiar with the facts and who admit a liability to the government of about nine millions of dollars."

"The letter was dated April 26, 1909, is addressed 'to the directors of the American Sugar Refining company.' It follows, in part:

"A compromise having been made by which the government has agreed to accept in full of its claim against the company, the sum of $2,000,000, in addition to payment of the judgment, viz: $134,000 already entered, we think it proper, in view of the very large amount that has been made the reasons which so induced us to advise."

"Here the letter reviews the history of the case, and continues: 'While we thought, and still think, that no forfeiture could be sustained unless the company itself, or its board of directors, or its executive officers, had been aware of the fraud, Judge Holt entertained a different opinion and charged the jury that if the fraud was known to the then superintendent of the dock on which were located the scales, the company was responsible."

"Since the trial, the government, acting through its special attorney, Mr. Stimson, has filed reliquidations of importations between 1901 and 1907 by which the company has been brought in further debt to it to the extent of $1,239,000."

"Reliquidations of importations to the same refinery from 1894 to 1901 were threatened and also importations to Jersey City which would have brought the company into debt to the government. If sustained, to the extent of upwards of $1,000,000 additional, making a total of about $3,000,000."

"In addition to this, the government also threatened to bring forfeiture proceedings for all importations during the last three years, outside of those involved in the suit which had been tried. The claim under these forfeitures would have amounted to about $5,000,000."

"If the government was right in its contentions of fact and law, it was entitled to collect not only the amounts involved in the reliquidations, but also additionally the forfeitures for the value of the goods imported."

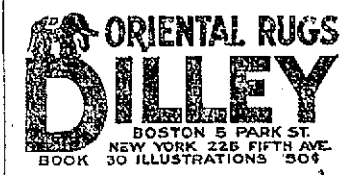

"The total amount for which the government threatened to sue amounted to nearly $9,000,000."

Y. M. C. A. CONVENTION

TORONTO, Ont., Oct. 29.—The afternoon session of the international convention of the Young Men's Christian Association of North America, was taken up with the reports of officers and clubs, all showing a healthy growth in the work and outlining a campaign to carry it forward in foreign lands.

The triennial report placed the endowment fund on January 1, 1910, at $1,174,885. This report said the associations of North America now have a membership of 496,000 men and boys, a gain of 13 per cent. since the last convention.

It further showed the value of all association property in America to be over $60,000,000.

of any newspaper in Lowell.The Greek letter fraternities still flourish at Tufts and other colleges.
While they may be permissible at colleges, they should be barred from high schools where such secret societies can accomplish only harm for the members and the school.It appears that the purchase of an opposition "plant" by the United Shoe Machinery company has not ended the troubles of that concern, as another party is getting ready to attack the monopoly. It is not likely, however, that the company will buy up every rival that enters the field.

GIVE US WIDE PUBLIC THOROUGHFARES

The narrow public thoroughfare constitutes an irreparable injury to any progressive city. Of this Boston is a striking example. In order to relieve some of the principal streets in that city, subways were constructed that the car traffic might be put under ground.The same may be true of Lowell at some time in the future when it is found necessary to relieve congestion on such streets as Gorham and East Merrimack which, owing to the location of large buildings close to the sidewalks, can never be widened unless these buildings and a great many others be ruined. There is the most urgent need of widening Rogers street from the junction of Nesmith to Boylston street.The construction of the new park along that line makes this improvement doubly imperative. At present there is barely room for a wagon to pass safely on either side the car tracks.To allow this street to remain at its present inadequate width would be to discount the advantages of the beautiful park that will attract multitudes in the near future.There should be some authority in the city to insist that all new streets shall be of liberal width. It is well to have plenty of room. There is no scarcity of land, and it would be better for a city to purchase land for wide streets than allow them to be laid out on a scale that will prove too narrow when buildings are located on either side, when sidewalks are cut off and car tracks laid in the middle.Any movement for the "City Beautiful" should include in its program wide streets, wide sidewalks, spacious squares and occasional street parks to relieve the monotony.Our city is steadily being beautified in all these directions, and our street department should lose no opportunity of favoring wide streets wherever possible.Since the arrival of the automobile the demand for wide public thoroughfares is greater than ever before. We want more state highways, more boulevards. Indeed it may be said that while the high speed auto is injurious to roads, we never had good roads until the demands of the autoists were heard all over the land, and the whole people began to realize how wretched were our country roads.It is particularly important that the main thoroughfares leading through every city should be of ample width. That is why Rogers street should be widened and why some of the other thoroughfares that cannot be widened should be smooth paved.

WHY SOME PEOPLE DON'T GET ALONG

There are always a great many people who can't get along. Indeed the number of such is greater than the number of those whose efforts are crowned with success. But while there are conditions that militate against certain classes, as a rule the real reason is some weakness or defect in the people themselves. Everybody who succeeds has to overcome adverse conditions of one kind or another. With some of those who fail it is the will power that is lacking; with others it is the willingness to work. It is surprising how numerous are the people who have a real aversion for hard work. Hard work under right conditions will never injure anybody except those who are physically unfitted for it. It is remarkable, too, how readily some people arrive at the conclusion that a little hard work would prove their undoing. So much do some people abhor hard work that they would rather go to jail or to the institution recently dignified by a new name than do what they might ordinarily be expected to do as a means of self-support.
Is it any wonder that these people, lazy, shiftless and habitually idle do not get along? Of course there is a large number who from ill health or adversity through no fault of their own become worthy objects of charity and sympathy.There is a large class very anxious to get along and even to attain success; but all they do to reach the goal is to wish and hope for something to turn up. They forget that success is not attained all of a sudden—in a day, a week or a year—but as a result of long years of struggle. Yet they imagine that by some dispensation of fate a miracle should be wrought in their favor that would pile the rewards of a life of toil into a day. When we want to reach the summit of a high mountain it is useless to wish ourselves at the top. The only way we can get there, as a rule, is by climbing, step by step. That being so the sooner we begin to climb the better. And so it is with the attainment of success. We must set to work and climb slowly, it may be, but steadily upward if we would ever reach the top.
Thus the indolent and the inactive do not get along, and the reason is plain.
But there are people who are neither lazy nor idle who fail to get along.
They are the improvident who spend their money as fast as they earn it, making no provision for the "rainy day," so to speak. The general experience is that it is almost as hard to save money as to earn it. Yet the inductions and the frugal find it easy from force of habit. For a similar reason the spendthrift considers it most difficult to save anything.
Unfortunately it is also true of the last named character that he is no more unapt at enriching himself than at impoverishing his friends.It would be well if those who cannot get along would remember this old maxim of Seneca which is the condensation of all wisdom—
"Be mindful of things past, careful of things present and provident of things to come."

SEEN AND HEARD

ANOTHER CARD CLUB.

They're friends today, they smile and kiss
When'er they meet, and frequently
They count it joy and count it bliss
To ask each other up to tea.
Together oft they shopping go,
Each helps to pick the other's hat;
They tell each other all they know,
And friendship can't do more than that.
But soon, too soon will come the sneer,
The hasty word so much despised;
There's trouble in the atmosphere,
A card club they have organized.I've warned them, so they can't blame me.
I'm an old stager at the game;
I've seen card clubs start merrily,
And everyone turned out the same.
The best of friends I know must part,
And loved ones oft must disagree,
We can't avoid the aching heart.
Nor miss the sorrows that will be.
"But," as I said to her last night,
"Be happy while you may, and don't
Deliberately seek the fight
A card club brings," said she, "We won't.""You fought in other clubs," said I;
"I didn't," holly she replied;
"If not," I asked her, "tell me why."
So suddenly they faded and died?
And tell me why you do not speak
To Mrs. What's-her-name today?
You entertained her once a week
But now she never comes our way.
Then tell me again why it is That Mrs. Thimblebooby you snub?
Time was you called her "Darling Liz,"
But that was ere she joined your club."And then there's Mrs. Funnyname,
You used to think her very sweet
Until you found she played a game
That honest methods couldn't beat.
That raised an awful rumpus, too,
And sent the club upon the rocks.
If I had time I could review
Some other things that furnished shocks.""Don't worry, we'll not quarrel," she Replied in tones that icy fell,
"Don't throw those old fights up to me,
We didn't know those women well."

hard to tell apart," he said. "Take

ist. He was surely a little insane.
There was a touch of insanity, too, in

"As a matter of fact," concluded Dr.Reeves, smiling, "we might say that the chief difference between genius

Whose banner bore the strange device,
Excelsior!In happy homes he saw the light Of household fires gleam warm and bright,
"Till quench all these," he said with glee,
"And throttle this prosperity!"
Excelsior!"The people then to me will turn
And laws and constitutions spurn; I'm having a corking time," said he,
"And soon will your Dictator be."
Excelsior!In the twilight of election day, Weary and conquered, he will say:
"The voters here are good for nix;
They scratch my men and vote for Dix."
Excelsior!

THE HALLOWE'EN

Parties Held in Church
Vestries Last NightThe parish room of St. John's church was the scene last evening of a Halloween party by the Swastika club. The tables were picturesquely decorated and there was an entertainment program that was thoroughly enjoyed. The opening number was given by the Imperial orchestra. Following came a solo by William Wilson; a reading by Miss B. Connell, and songs by Mr. Wilson accompanied by the Imperial orchestra. Refreshments were served by the young women of the club. Games were enjoyed during which many pleasing selections were given by the Imperial orchestra.William Van Steenburg was announcer of the evening. The latter part of the evening was spent in dancing, the music being furnished by the orchestra. The affair was a success from every point of view, and was in charge of the following: Chairman, Miss Mabel Wilson; Misses P. Jefferson, E. Robertson, J. Gilmore, H.
Coggshall, F. Reynolds, B. Connell and

HOW TO KEEP THE HEAD CLEAN

Frequent washing with a shampoo composed of pure soap, coconut oil, glycerin, white of eggs and salicylic
acid imparts a feeling of cleanliness and invigoration that is hard to describe. This opens up the pores lending to the hair roots, removes dandruff and scales, and puts the scalp in such a healthy condition that the loss of hair is naturally stopped. Birt's Head
Wash is made of the above ingredients.
It contains no free alkali, as is the case with some soaps and shampoos. It contains no alcohol, which is one of the principal ingredients in many so-called hair remedies. Free alkali is deadly in its effects, and alcohol turns the hair gray. Be on the safe side.
Use Birt's Head Wash. The full formula is printed plainly on every tube.

By the Superior General of the Oblate Order

Very Rev. T. Wade Smith, O. M. I., has announced several important appointments in the Oblate order. Rev. Lawrence F. Tighe, O. M. I., pastor of the Immaculate Conception church, is made first provincial assistant, a position next to that of the provincial. Rev. Fr. Lefebvre, O. M. I., becomes second provincial assistant. Rev. Fr. McKenna, O. M. I., who has charge of Tewksbury novitiate, third provincial assistant, and Rev. Fr. Watelle, O. M. I., fourth provincial assistant. The announcement of the appointments was made last night.

The appointments were made by the superior general of the Oblate order and notice of them was received by Very Rev. T. Wade Smith, O. M. I., in a message which he received from Rome. The honor bestowed on Rev. Fr. Tighe came entirely unexpected and in fact the same may be said of the other appointments. Fr. Tighe is the first native of Lowell to be elevated to such a position and the people of the Immaculate Conception parish will be pleased beyond measure at this signal recognition of their young pastor.

PARCELS DELIVERY

Col. Carmichael Pledges Himself to Business Men

Col. James H. Carmichael is proving to be the busiest congressional candidate that either party has produced in the fifth district in many years.

He is devoting his entire time to his campaign and is covering much ground. The best evidence that he is taking well with the public and that there is an unusual interest in his candidacy that reaches beyond the limits of his party is the fact that he is being invited to address meetings nightly, not rallies promoted by his own campaign managers, but by men of high parties who believe that the country needs a change in the administration of national affairs, and needs it at once. He has invited the colonel to present to them his views on the needs of this district and whatever remedy for the existing conditions he may have to offer.

A striking instance of this feeling of the necessity of a change was given last evening when after addressing a rally before the voters of upper ward seven held in front of Gage's ice houses, Col. Carmichael on invitation of a party of prominent business men, of both parties addressed a gathering of about 50 in a downtown business establishment. This meeting came about through statements made by Col. Carmichael relative to his position on the important subject of "Parcel Deliveries" under government supervision. As will be recalled the board of trade recently got after the local express companies with the exception of the Manchester and Concord relative to its delivery in the outlying districts, and a hearing was held which brought about some changes. Col. Carmichael was on hand last evening with facts and figures relative to the enormous profits of these companies wrung from the pockets of the farmers and the business men who are obliged to use them.

Col. Carmichael quoted figures showing that in 1908 the Adams Express company declared a 200 per cent dividend amounting to $24,000,000, while the Wells Fargo company declared a dividend of 300 per cent, aggregating an equal amount.

"In England and other countries," said Col. Carmichael, "the system of a parcels delivery conducted by the government at a nominal expense in the business man has not only proved a grand success and a boon both to the business man in the delivery of his wares, but to the farmer in sending abroad his products. I have looked deeply into this important matter and pledge myself if elected to congress to further any movement toward the establishment of such a system in this country. This parcels delivery movement is more far-reaching and means more to the ordinary business man than one can possibly realize at first thought. It affects every business man in every community, every business man in Lowell from the big department store down to the little corner grocery. At the present time a most extravagant and unnecessary share of the business man's profits is eaten up by the express rates. While a republican congress is in power there can be no hope for a betterment of conditions. Therefore, as one pledged to relieve the business men of the fifth district from this unnecessary and exorbitant raid upon their profits I ask the support of all business men of this district."

Pawtucket Street Rally

After addressing a noon day meeting at the Hamilton mills on Thursday he spoke to another large gathering at the Jackson street entrance of the Lowell Machine shop. At these rallies Col. Carmichael devoted himself to the high cost of living and his opponent's record as a member of the Massachusetts legislature.

On the invitation of many neighbors and residents of the upper part of ward seven, Col. Carmichael addressed a gathering of about 300 last evening, including 150 employees of the Daniel Gage company.

After referring to the fact that most of the express companies had to be forced by the board of trade to deliver goods in Pawtucketville and the outlying sections, Col. Carmichael spoke on the matter of parcel deliveries under government control. He then dwelt upon the matter of reciprocity with Canada, and stated that a Lowell business man who had just returned from Three Rivers, Que., had informed him earlier in the day that the best butter is selling for 22 cents per pound, while the strictly fresh eggs are bringing only 18 cents a dozen against 53 cents only 300 miles south of Three Rivers, but over the border. "Reciprocity with Canada means among other things," said Col. Carmichael, "that the Canada producer will be enabled to send his butter and eggs to this vicinity and compete with the trusts that now control these commodities and keep their price beyond the reach of poor working people."

DOGS THAT FIGURE IN A DIVORCE SUIT

In regard to the suit for divorce brought by Charles G. Kershner, now of Kitsap county, Washington, against his wife, Mrs. Laura A. Kershner, of this city, the latter states that while she denies the allegations made by the libellant in the said suit, she will be unable to go to the state of Washington to defend the suit and fight for the vindication of her character.

As one of the counts in the divorce refers to the silk toy poodle dogs kept by Mrs. Kershner, it may be stated that they are the prettiest little pets in the city. Mrs. Kershner called at The Sun office yesterday with a few of the little beauties. We give herewith a picture of the present family, showing "Dandy Babe" and "Queen," the fourth and sixth respectively in the family group in the middle of the picture.

A LIVELY BLAZE

In a Shed in Pawtucketville

An alarm from box 27 at 1:15 o'clock this afternoon summoned a portion of the fire department to a lively blaze in a shed in Coburn avenue, off Mammoth road, Pawtucketville, belonging to the heirs of the estate of Peter S. Coburn.

The shed is used for the storage of wood and coal for several tenants and was practically destroyed before the blaze was discovered. Huge volumes of smoke poured through the street, giving every indication of a large blaze.

When the department arrived on the scene the fire had scorched a tenement block and cottage nearby.

The cause of the fire is unknown, but it is thought that the person who delivered wood in the shed this morning probably accidentally dropped a match of a spark from his pipe ignited the wood and it smoldered.

The insurance on the property was carried through the agency of Fred C. Church.

FOUND HELPLESS

Man Had Been Injured by Fall

A man whose name is thought to be Frank Lacouture was found in an unconscious condition in a doorway in a building in Salem street this morning by Patrolmen Gennell and Kelly. It was thought at first that the man was drunk but when he was brought to the police station it was decided to call the city physician and after he had examined him decided that the man should be sent to the hospital.

The ambulance was called and Lacouture was taken to St. John's hospital where it was found he was suffering from a slight concussion of the brain. In all probability the man fell down a flight of stairs.

FOR NEW PUMP

Water Board Asks Loan of $56,000

At a meeting of the water board last evening it was voted to send a communication to the city council asking for a loan of $56,000 for a new pump.

"I have traveled about a good bit, for a countryman, but I do not recollect seeing a Savings Bank and a Poorhouse in the same street."

Without in any way intruding in the legitimate field of the SAVINGS BANK THE Middlesex Trust Co.

Pays interest on deposits at rate of 2 per cent, same credited first of every month, on average daily balances of $500 or more. This comprehends the business man's account, the individual account, all accounts. Money goes on interest at once and is subject to check without notice. Individuals with funds awaiting investment find the Middlesex a useful depository.

The SAFETY BOX Department will speak out loud for itself to any one who will call and be permitted to examine. There is nothing stronger so far as security is concerned, while the system lending to quiet and privacy is the best. The vaults are fireproof construction, and as a matter of fact, in case of fire, the CENTRAL FIRE STATION is across the street. Boxes cost from $5.00 to $50.00 per year. Boxes are handled only by the box holder and he or she holds the only key to box. Their control is absolute at the Middlesex. With rental of box is accorded free privilege of storage of household silver, small trunks, etc., etc.

The MIDDLESEX TRUST CO. is on Merrimack street at the corner of Palmer street, the corner where all street cars pass, but never pass without stopping. The Middlesex business hours are from 8.30 to 5 and from 1 to 2 Saturday night.

The Boxholder is always a man or woman of system and careful methods. Thrift and system go hand in hand. Slipshod people as a rule are not boxholders. Some mean to rent a box when their "ship comes in." "If wishes were horses beggars might ride." "A wishbone don't amount to much unless attached to a backbone."

OFFICERS CHOSEN

By the Bunting Cricket Club

Henry Robertshaw was elected president of the United States Bunting Cricket and Athletic association at a meeting held last night at Elks hall. There were about 250 members present and the meeting developed into one of the most exciting contests held since the organization of the association.

During the early part of the night a business meeting was held, but the principal business was the election of officers. The contests for the principal officers were warm, but friendly and the meeting proved to be a harmonious one despite the rivalry.

The following is the list of officials who will occupy chairs during the ensuing term:

President, Henry Robertshaw.
Vice president, Philip F. McNulty.
Corresponding secretary, Albert T. Anson.
Treasurer, Fred G. Humphries.
Financial secretary, Thomas Wilde.
Directors, William Dickson, George Adams, Norman Atkinson, J. W. Foster, John Moss, Fred Chapman and J. R. Hoyle.

Municipal Departments Petition Appropriations Committee

"Blessed are they who expect nothing for they shall not be disappointed."

This beatitude in all probability will be quoted to the different heads of departments who may appear before the committee on appropriations next Monday evening when that important and much sought committee (at this time of year) holds its meeting.

In the first place the police department has selected the auto truck it wants and all that is now needed is an appropriation of $5,000, which it will request from the committee at the coming meeting.

The fire department also has the auto bug to the extent that it desires an appropriation of $13,000 for two auto combination wagons and a wagon for the chief. This department also wants $500 for additional fire alarm boxes.

Inspector Dow of the buildings department will appear before the committee and explain the need of the fire station at a cost of $900.

The committee also has before it requests from the health department for $25,000 for a new stable and for $7,700 for other expenses.

Recently Councilman Chapman introduced an order for $10,000 for the development of the new Shedd park in the Oaklands and the committee on appropriations to which the matter was referred has requested Chairman Pickman of the park commission to appear at the meeting to explain what the commission has in view relative to the development of the new park.

City Hall Meetings

The board of aldermen will meet at city hall Tuesday evening at 8 o'clock. The committee on convenience station will meet at 7:30 Tuesday evening.

The committee on claims has still about 20 petitions before it which will be considered on Wednesday evening at 7:30.

TEACHERS' MEETING

Cyrus W. Irish Chosen Member of Executive Committee

BOSTON, Oct. 28.—"Hot air in the houses is responsible for half the divorces," said W. E. Watt of Chicago yesterday at the annual meeting of the Middlesex county teachers' convention in Tremont temple. Mr. Watt is the principal of the Graham school at Chicago, where he has instituted the only open air kindergarten in the country.

"People who breathe bad air become enervated," he said, "then they become irritable. If there is bad air in the house there is irritability in the home. And where there is irritability there is divorce. You stand a chance of domestic happiness if you keep your windows open."

Mr. Watt said that many problems of education would disappear if there was more fresh air in the school-rooms.

"School children have more need of red corpuscles than they have of manual training or even of domestic science," he said. "I have found that the efficiency of the children has increased 50 per cent. in 24 hours where they are given proper air. Office discipline has been reduced 50 per cent. That is, the amount of restlessness, of twisting, turning and wriggling in their seats has decreased to that extent."

"There is no need of having contagious diseases in an open-air school. Some of the diseases caused largely by foul air are adenoids, pneumonia, grippe and tuberculosis. In the congested tenement districts many babies die simply by breathing bad air."

Three Hours for Fresh Air
He gives in his own school a recess lasting from 10 to 1 o'clock, that the pupils shall be given even more fresh air. It is divided into four periods, and only one-fourth of the pupils are in the yard at the same time.

"Every teacher goes with her own pupils," said Mr. Watt. "She organizes games and knows a lot about them. She trades knowledge of stunts and games with other teachers and with her pupils. She encourages the girls and boys to tell her games their fathers and mothers used to play, perhaps in the old country."

"The school recess, I feel, is one of the most important functions of a child's life. Its influences are more powerful than those of the classroom and more vital than any other that the child participates in. He is let loose out of a place of humdrum among his fellows, many of whom he fears and many of whom he desires to torment. In the country, recess is usually a time of activity, but in the crowded city school the child finds he cannot do anything unbridled. If he undertakes to use any plaything he loses it to some stronger fellow."

"An observation of about 500 boys and girls in one city schoolyard at recess showed that seven of the boys and no girls were really playing. Some were imprudent enough to walk about, but most of them were backed up against the building so that they could not be attacked from the rear."

Experience Needed
C. A. Prosser, deputy commissioner of education, spoke upon the "Relationship of the Elementary School to the Problem of Industrial Education." He urged that the elementary schools give something to the schoolboy of today, which will equal the training that he got a generation ago in doing chores on the farm. We are cramming our children's minds with facts out of a book when what they are really longing for is experience.

"We are closing the door of life in the face of many children," he said. "And this is because of the failure of our high schools to widen their entrance requirements to take care of the needs of all."

A separate discussion of problems of the high school was held in the morning at Lorimer hall, where Enoch G. Adams presided. David Snedden, commissioner of education, gave an address on "The Function of the high school in the Movement for Industrial Education."

There is a large number of boys and girls, he said, going out into offices and department stores at the age of 14. This is not a good thing, because it interferes with the child's usefulness in his earning capacity is less than half of what it ought to be.

Dr. Marion Leroy Burton, president of Smith college, who was scheduled to give an address, sent word that because of another meeting he found that he could not come to Boston. In his place Prof. Walter Ballou Jacobs of Brown university spoke upon the subject, "Is Teaching a Profession?"

Election of Officers Between 2000 and 3000 attended the afternoon session, where the election of officers was the first business. They are:

President—Charles S. Clark, Somerville.
Vice-presidents—Charles H. Howe, Wakefield; John F. Scully, Arlington; Alice M. Sweet, Melrose; Bradford W. Drake, Waltham.

Executive committee—Fred H. Nickerson, Medford; Chester M. Bliss, Cambridge; Cyrus W. Irish, Lowell; Seth H. Chace, Braintree; Kenneth Winslow, Newton.

Secretary and treasurer—Arthur L. Doe, Somerville.
Auditor—Charles J. Emerson, Stoneham.

"Our Country: Its Dangers and Possibilities," was the subject of an address by Robert F. Glenn, ex-Governor of North Carolina. In touching upon the discussion over the placing of the statue of Gen. Robert E. Lee in Statuary Hall at Washington he said:

"If any one of you objects to putting Lee's statue in the Capitol at Washington, you do not know him as we of the south do. He was the last man to secede in his state, and he only did it when he was forced to believe it to be right. Washington would not have been ashamed to stand in the same hall with him. Lincoln himself would be glad to have him there."

TAFT FOR LEWIS

He is Determined to Appoint Colored Man to Office

WASHINGTON, Oct. 29.—Persons close to the president say he has fully made up his mind to appoint W. H. Lewis of Boston to be an assistant attorney-general of the United States, or if that is impossible, to give him a place almost equally as good, the alternative position suggested being that of assistant treasurer of the United States at Philadelphia, provided Senator Penrose of Pennsylvania will consent to a "carpet bag" appointment. Inasmuch as Mr. Lewis is a Massachusetts man and not a Pennsylvanian, Mr. Penrose, who has his own troubles just at the present time, owing to the tangled state of the republican party in Pennsylvania, may make vigorous objection to such a fat federal plum as the assistant treasurer going to an outsider. Senator Penrose is coming to Washington in a few days to talk over matters with the president. There is opposition to the appointment of Mr. Lewis as an assistant attorney-general because of his color, and the president has been told that it would lead to embarrassments. Assistant attorney-generals rank in the official table of precedence with assistant secretaries of departments, and as such are invited to official functions at the White House.

It would be distasteful to southern senators and members of congress, the president has been told; for them to have to meet Mr. Lewis socially and more or less friction would be sure to follow.

Already there are intimations that if the president persists in appointing Mr. Lewis an assistant attorney-general, efforts will be made to defeat his confirmation, but the president will not be deterred by these threats. Southern senators could of course delay the confirmation, as senatorial courtesy requires that every senator shall be permitted to talk to the limit, and as the coming session is very short, a vigorous opposition might prevent action on the nomination before March 4. In that case the president could recommit Mr. Lewis as a recess appointment and the nomination would then be taken up on its merits at the following session.

If it could be shown that Mr. Lewis was without the requisite fitness for the place or that he was not a proper man for the appointment, it would be easier to defeat his nomination, but no such suggestion is made. On the contrary, it is conceded that Mr. Lewis is a man of ability and character and fully qualified to be either an assistant attorney-general or assistant treasurer at Philadelphia or elsewhere.

Atty.-General Wickersham, in whose department Mr. Lewis would have an office if he should be appointed an assistant attorney-general, said again yesterday that he knew nothing about the appointment, adding: "I do know Mr. Lewis. He is a good man, a good assistant district attorney and a good football player."

On the recommendation of Representative Gardner Dr. F. E. Coffin has been appointed pension examining surgeon at Haverhill to succeed Dr. M. D. Clarke, resigned.

THE SUFFRAGISTS

Closed Campaign With Open Air Meeting

The woman suffragists closed their campaign in this city last night with an open air meeting, on the South common. The campaigners had a few strenuous days in Lowell, and those who came in contact with them could not but admire their persistency and their enthusiasm.

The young women talked to a large crowd on the common and the crowd listened attentively and respectfully. The meeting was probably the largest held during the week. The four young women who conducted the campaign were Miss Annie Withington, Miss Margaret Foley, Miss Alice Carpenter and Miss Florence Luskcomb, and last night was a busy night for them.

After addressing the crowd on the common, Miss Margaret Foley and Miss Withington spoke before the Plumbers association. The young women made many friends during their stay in Lowell.

CHELMSFORD

The annual fair of the Unitarian society took place in the town hall on Thursday afternoon and evening, and was a grand success. The fair was managed by the Ladies' Circle and Alliance, of which Mrs. Amasa Howard is president. From 4 to 6 an excellent supper was served and a large gathering assembled about the tables. The hall was decorated prettily and the tables adorned with yellow and white chrysanthemums and autumn foliage.

The tables furnished a variety of attractions and were liberally patronized.

Before and after the entertainment, beginning at 8 o'clock, the Adams orchestra gave enjoyable selections. The entertainment, arranged by Richard Davis, consisting of a one-act farce, entitled "Chums," was given a good presentation by young people of the society. The cast was as follows: Mr. Breed, a Vermont squire, Fred Chandler; Harry Breed, A. R. Harv., his son, Hosmer Sweetser; Thom. Burnham, leading lady of the Pl. 21a Theatre, Richard Davis; Flora Strong, Mr. Breed's niece, Rachel Marshall; Mrs. Breed, Eliza Spaulding.

The committee and those in charge of the various tables were as follows: Candy table, Mrs. A. T. Hill, chairman; Mrs. W. H. Hall, Mrs. A. C. Farnham, Mrs. Y. L. Parkhurst, Fancy table, Mrs. J. E. Warren, chairman; Miss B. A. Parkhurst, Miss Celia Richardson, Mrs. Susie Robbins, Mrs. Emma Hutchins, Miss A. C. Stevens, Mrs. J. H. Wilson, Mrs. M. J. Cummings, Mrs. A. E. NEEDLESS ALARM
BROUGHT FIRE DEPARTMENT TO WEST SIXTH STREET
An alarm from box 132 shortly before five o'clock last night gave a portion of the department a needless run. The box is located in the vicinity of the pumping station of the Lowell water works in West Sixth street and when the apparatus arrived on the scene there was not the least sign of the fire. It is thought that some boys "pulled" the box just for fun.

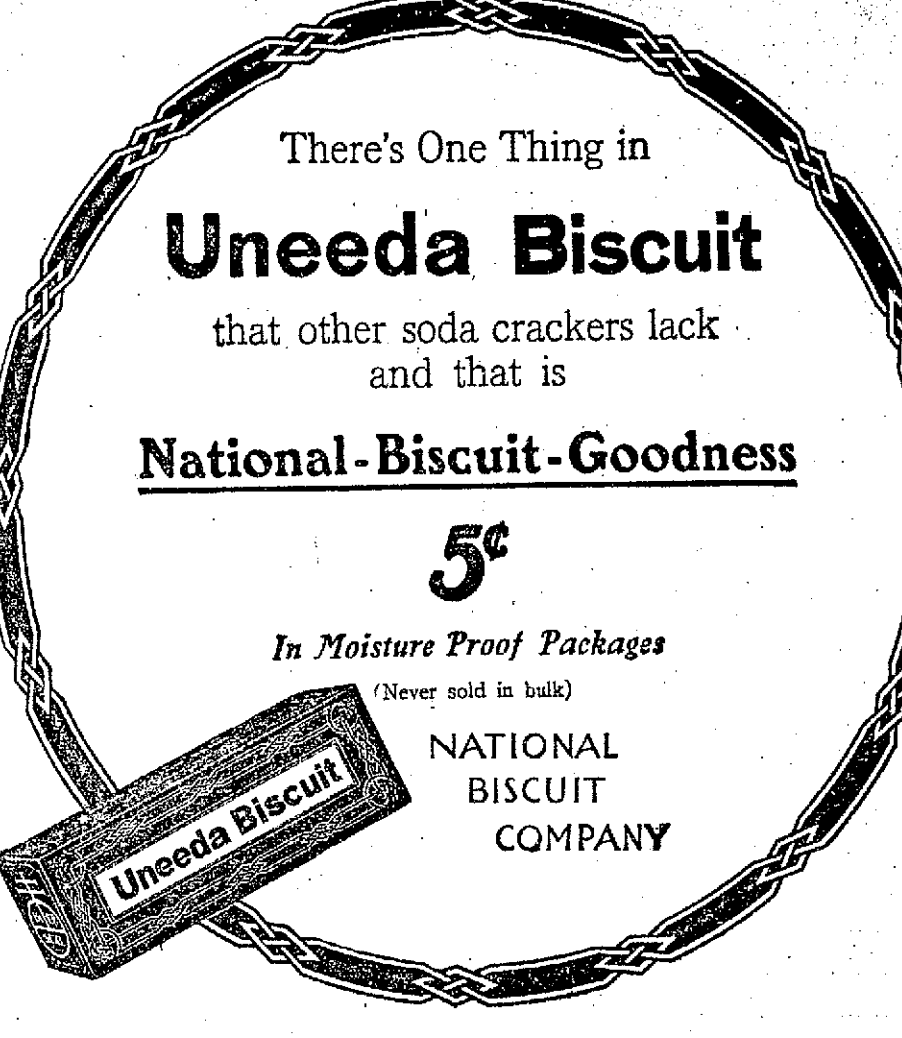

DRACUT
The warrant for the special town meeting which is to be held Monday night at the Grange hall in Dracut Centre has been posted and includes the following articles:
Article 1. "To choose a moderator."
Article 2. "To see what action the town will take in the matter of the suit of Ora M. Saelle vs. inhabitants of the town of Dracut."
Article 3. "To see if the town will vote to pay J. Edwin Kennedy, Philip Grant and Melvin Richardson the sum of $52.50 for services rendered as building committee of the East Dracut school."

Under the second article of the warrant, the action of O. M. Saelle against the town is to recover the amount of a bill contracted for the surveying and other civil engineering work done by him on the site of the state highway now under construction along the Merrimack river on the Lawrence road, so-called.

PATROLMAN ALONZO J. PAGE

Patrolman Alonzo J. Page, of the police department and whose duties are to look after the keeping of the

the department, both in point of service and age.

While it is a common thing to meet a patrolman on duty during the day or night, the writer's attention was attracted to Mr. Page because the latter was wearing eight blue stripes on either sleeve of his uniform. Each one of those stripes signified that the bearer had been in the service of the department for two years and when a man spends over 40 years in any position it is certain that it is only exemplary conduct that keeps him there.

Patrolman Page is very unassuming and thinks that he is only doing his duty when he makes important arrests. He is considered one of the best members of the department despite his advanced age. Of course he is not as active as in previous years, but his reputation as a trustworthy and faithful officer is known and he is now resting on his laurels as it were.

Patrolman Page was born in East Livermore, Maine, in August 1839 and came to this city in June, 1860. He was appointed a patrolman in January, 1870, by Mayor Jonathan E. Poinsett and the board of aldermen, who were in office, at that time the members of the department being elected by the mayor and board of aldermen.

Mr. Page has patrolled almost every portion of the city, his principal endeavors being in the Belvidere, Centralville and Highland districts, although he spent considerable time in patrolling Merrimack street.

Two years ago in July he was assigned to city hall work and since that time he has looked after the interests of the public to the general satisfaction of everyone.

One of the most important arrests that Patrolman Page ever made was that of Miss Blank who in the early 70's shot and killed Charles Ricker.

The above are the outlines of class work for the season until February 1st. From time to time entertainments are given to the pupils and their friends, and after February first a series of public entertainments will be given.

BOWLING GAMES

Last Night

There were several close and exciting games played on the alleys last night. In the Electric Light league the Office and Station teams clashed, the former team being too strong for the boys who work in Perry street. The Cotton Side and Print Works of the Merrimack mills met, and the latter team demonstrated its accuracy by winning the game by a margin of 27 pins.

The Helms and Butler Vets of the Minor league managed to put up high scores, but the victory fell to the former team.

The Tigers and Cubs met in a friendly contest, but there was very little excitement, for the Tigers gave their opponents an awful trouncing.

BOSSES WIN

After a very lively game between two teams from the Lowell Bleachery on Les Miserables alleys the Bosses won from the Shop team by 42 pins. Tom Fox was high with 103.

OUR GRAMMAR SCHOOLS

VARNUM SCHOOL

Its History, Principal and Graduates

The Varnum school is situated in Myrtle street, Centralville, and is one of the largest schools in the city. It has little to boast of so far as architectural beauty is concerned but its 17 class rooms are well lighted, and all of its appointments are modern and up to date. It holds the record for Carney medal scholars in the High school and it embraces enterprises that have attracted the attention of educators. These enterprises include cobblering and the cane seating of chairs. These have been introduced as a part of the manual training of the school.

The cobblering is under the direction of Miss Rose A. Dowd and Miss Agnes T. Fay has charge of the cane seating. These two women have the distinction of being the only public school teachers to give instructions in this practical work. About 200 pairs of shoes are repaired and 15 chairs are rescated during the year.

The little cobblering buy their own stock from the wholesalers and take great pride in mending the footwear of their friends and neighbors. As a

himself. At the municipal election the following December, the large vote he received as a candidate for the office of school committeeman from old ward two attested the esteem in which he was held by his fellow citizens.

He was successful in October, 1878, by Mr. A. K. Whitcomb, who brought to his work the good health, strength and energy that come from a well spent boyhood on a farm, and a mental grasp and understanding of educational needs and principles far above the ordinary. With a singleness of purpose that knew no diversion, he applied himself to the work so well begun by Mr. Galloupe of educating the boys and girls of Centralville. To such good purpose did he labor that his talents received the recognition so justly their due and he was elected to the position of superintendent of schools in 1891, a position which fortunately for the schools of Lowell he still holds.

To take his place, Mr. George W. Howe was transferred from the Colburn school and well did he fulfill his duties until summoned away six years ago by the still hand of death.

He was succeeded by the present incumbent.

If a school may be judged at all by the later records of its graduates, then the Varnum school has much to be proud of. Take any of the older families living in Centralville and you will find the names of its members upon the registers of this school. THE VARNUM SCHOOL

Centralville was annexed to Lowell, in 1851, a building known as the "Dracut academy" stood upon the site of the present Varnum schoolhouse. This academy building was taken and made an integral part of the public school system, and put in charge of a young graduate of Harvard college, Alonzo W. Boardman, who kept it two years, then, going back to the Harvard law school to fit himself for the honorable position in the state that he has since filled. Mr. Boardman was living in Melrose at the time he heard of the situation, and he well remembers the elation with which he hurried to harness a horse to drive to Wilmington to take the steam cars for Lowell, and also the bitterly cold drive home after his successful application for the place.

Mr. Boardman greatly endeavored himself to the people of Centralville during his two years' stay, and many have since followed with interest his later fortunes. He was a member of the Massachusetts senate in 1871 and 1872, and of the Boston board of health from 1873-1878, inclusive, and is now a successful lawyer in Boston. He was succeeded by one who for a quarter of a century impressed his character upon the school and gave it a standing second to none in the city. Daniel P. Galloupe was one of the best known figures in Centralville for more than 35 years. He took charge of the school in 1853 and soon began to agitate for a new schoolhouse to take the place of the old academy building which was inadequate to the needs. He was finally successful, and in 1856 the old building was moved away and devoted to manufacturing an entirely different product from educated boys and girls. It now stands on Bridge street near Sixth, and is occupied by Woods, Sherwood & Co. for the manufacture of wire goods and plating. A fine brick building took its place, for which the contractor, Josiah G. Peabody, received what seems but a small sum, $11,222.66, and which is not much more than was paid 30 years later for a two-room addition to the same building. But the prices of labor and materials were much less in the fifties than they are today. Mr. Galloupe in October, 1878, was obliged to resign on account of an affection in his throat which made it difficult for him to discharge his duties satisfactorily to Pearsons, the Reads, the Allens, etc. etc. To name them individually would require much space, but among them you would find such names as that of the first woman to be appointed to any municipal position in the city of Lowell, Mrs. Charles D. Palmer, of Capt. Warren Howe, of whose life and services in the War of the Rebellion there is an interesting sketch in the public library; of Col. Philip Read; of the Honorable Fisher H. Pearson; of Leavitt R. J. and Daniel H. Varnum; of Frank K. Stearns; Mrs. E. C. Brock; Edward M. Hucks, Esq.; Mrs. Thomas Nesmith; the late Mayor Courtney; Frederick W. Stickney, the architect who planned the heating and ventilating of the present building; Dr. George Perry; Col. Percy Parker; Mrs. E. M. Tucker; Mrs. Joe V. Meigs; Dr. G. Horvost; Martin; Mrs. Sylvester Howe; Edwin H. Cooke, superintendent of mails of the Lowell postoffice; the late Prentiss Webster; the late George B. Allen; the list could be extended for a long time.

And now a final word about the growth of the school. The first class to be graduated from the building in 1857 numbered 17, and the school was taught by the master and three assistants. There are now a master and 16 assistants. In 1886 the eight rooms in the old building were overcrowded, and two new rooms were added to the old structure, making 10 in all. In February, 1891, it was necessary to open an overflow on Lakeview avenue, and in 1893 a second overflow in the same building. In February, 1896, a thirteen room was opened in the Fourth street engine house; in February, 1897, a fourteenth in a store on Bridge street. At last the city council arose and met the growing needs of the district by putting up the present commodious and satisfactory addition, giving more yard and basement room, and the long wished for assembly hall. A fifteenth room was opened in February, 1898; and one month ago room was added to the kindergarten to provide for a sixteenth room. This makes five new rooms that have been added to the Varnum grammar school in the past six years. This schoolhouse is the largest grammar school in the city, containing 17 rooms in daily use. Architecturally from the outside, at least, the effect of the addition may not be pleasing, but within, the school is, with very few exceptions, conveniently arranged, and is giving satisfaction. Electric clocks, telephones and bells were put in all the rooms, whether new or old, and the building, according to the 1898 school report, "is one of the best and best equipped, in the city."

Principal Harris

Henry H. Harris, principal of the Varnum Grammar school, was born in Lowell in 1868. He attended the Varnum school two years and was graduated from the Green school in 1884. He graduated from the High school in 1888 and was a Carney medal scholar. He attended Harvard college and graduated in 1891 with the degree of A. B. and with special honors in natural history and in 1892 he took his A. M.

While in college he was Harvard correspondent for the Boston News, New Haven News, Cambridge Tribune and was editorial reader of the Youth's Companion.

Mr. Harris is a member of the board of trustees of the public library. He is a Knight Templar and 22nd degree Scottish Rite Mason and Past Sovereign Master of Lowell Council of Princes of Jerusalem. He has travelled extensively abroad, having been six times to different parts of Europe.

The record of the Varnum school in relation to the Carney medals at the high school is one to be proud of. Six of these medals have been granted each year for 42 years or 252 medals in all. In the whole time there have been 16 occasions when one medal was awarded a Varnum school graduate; 13 occasions when two received the honor, and five occasions when three received the honor. This makes a total of 66 medals out of 252, over 25 per cent, that are now being held by those who received their grammar school education at the Varnum school.

Varnum School Teachers

Principal Harris' assistants at the Varnum school are, Elizabeth C. Kennedy, Mary E. Wing, Agnes Bailey, Daisy B. MacBrayne, Grace W. Welch, Annie T. Donoghue, Mary A. Fay, Agnes T. Fay, Rose A. Dowd, Elizabeth P. Garra, Alice R. Kewee, Margaret E. Howe, Ada K. Hoole, Julia Williams and Mabel E. Motzall, who looks after the overflow from Tenth street school. The teachers in the Varnum Primary are Nettie M. Conant, principal and Clara M. Everett.

Woman Passed Away Suddenly Yesterday In East Merrimack St. is Completed

Mrs. Annie O'Hanlon, aged 45 years, wife of John O'Hanlon of 65 Livingston street, was found dead in her bed yesterday. Last night she awoke to bed apparently as well as ever and her husband and children were shocked to learn of her sudden demise without scarcely a moment's notice.

Medical Examiner Joe V. Meigs was called by the family physician and the members of the family, and heart failure seemed to be the cause of the sudden death.

She leaves to mourn her loss her husband, John, and four children, James, Annie, Mary and Margaret, and six sisters, Mrs. Mary McArdo, Mrs. Margaret Fagin, Mrs. Sarah Kelly, Mrs. Kate O'Loughlin, Mrs. Elizabeth Montgomery and Miss Nellie Donnelly, and a brother, Michael Donnelly, all of this city. Friends are requested not to send flowers.

CORNELL STUDENT DID NOT DIE OF FOOTBALL INJURIES

ITHACA, N. Y., Oct. 23.—That Lauren B. Palnc of Duluth, Minn., the freshman who died at the Cornell infirmary Thursday night, did not die from injuries received in football practice, was made known last night after an autopsy upon the body by Dr. Charles A. Bentze, the Buffalo pathologist.

MINERS DROWNED

Steamer Wrecked at Shoal Bay

NORTH SYDNEY, N. S., Oct. 29.—Six passengers were drowned with the crew of 10 men when the steamer Regulus was wrecked at Shoal Bay, N. S., last Sunday, according to statements by passengers on the steamer Bruce, which arrived here yesterday from New Foundland. Previous reports stated the loss of life was confined to the crew. The passengers drowned were miners.

In Sudden Emergencies

like illness, it is often necessary quickly to raise the temperature of a room. For instance, in those hours between midnight and dawn, when the day temperature has been allowed to drop, if you are called upon to get up, the room is chilly and cold. It takes a long time to start up a furnace or fire and raise the temperature by ordinary means.

You can instantly heat a room to any desired temperature with a

PERFECTION

Absolutely smokeless and odorless

It quickly gives heat, and with one filling of the font burns steadily for nine hours, without smoke or smell. Has automatic-locking flame spreader which prevents the wick from being turned high enough to smoke, and is easy to remove and drop back, so the wick can be cleaned in an instant. It has a cool handle and a damper top.

An indicator always shows the amount of oil in the font. It has a filler-cap which does not need to be screwed down; it is put in like a cork in a bottle, and is attached to the font by a chain.

The burner body or gallery cannot become wedged, because of a new device in construction, and consequently it can always be easily unscrewed in an instant for reworking.

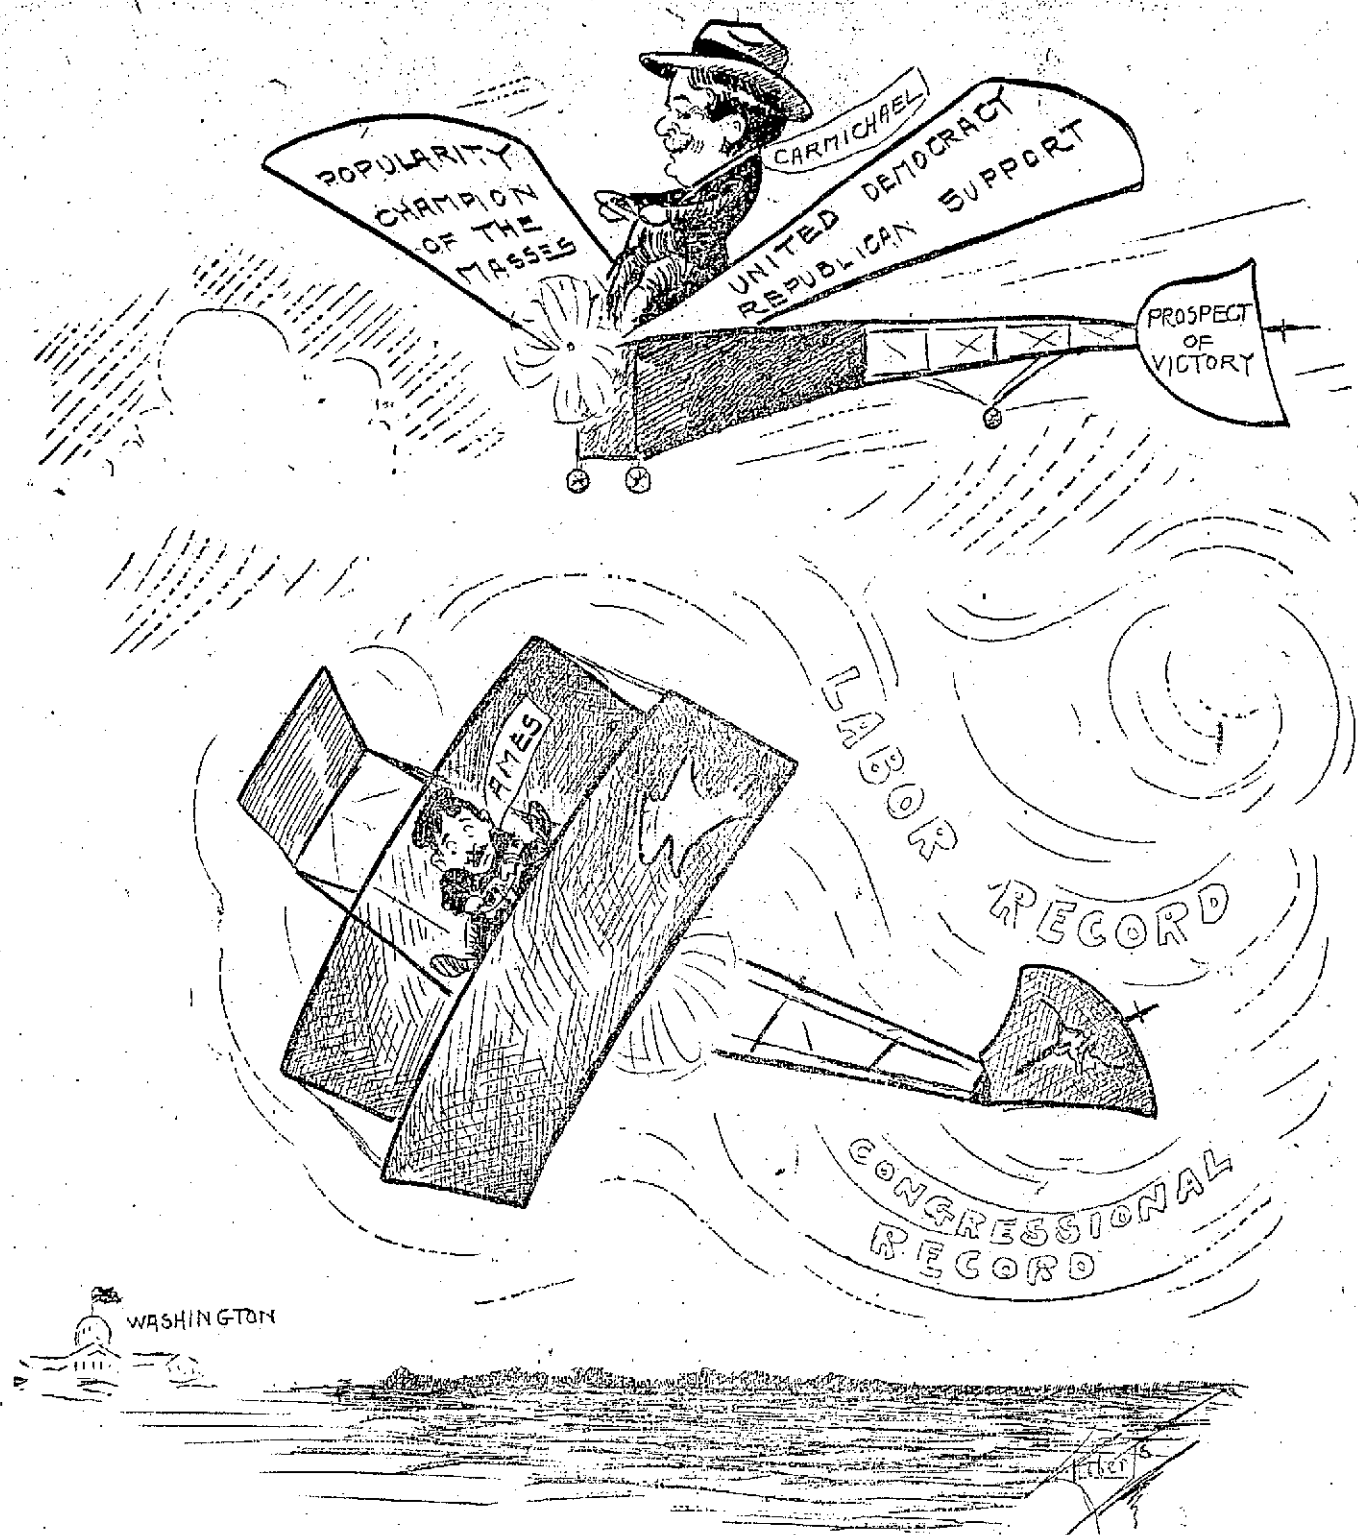

The Perfection Oil Heater is finished in Japan or nickel. It is strong, durable and well made, built for service, yet light and ornamental.

FARR PARDONED

But He Will Stay in Prison

ROCKLAND, Me., Oct. 29.—I am truly grateful to everybody who has helped me get this pardon, which makes it possible for me to spend my few remaining years in freedom. I hope nothing in my future conduct will ever cause anybody to regret that the governor and council have been so kind. I can say nothing more at this time.

Although free to go where he will after 23 years' confinement, Farr will not take immediate advantage of his opportunity. In fact, he will probably remain at the prison during the winter in the employ of Warden Norton. The warden says Farr has been one of the best prisoners in the institutions, needing neither reprimand nor punishment. He worked in the kitchen as long as he was able and cared for the prison flower garden and did other small jobs. He is now 69 years old and in far from robust health. Friends in another part of the state have declared that he shall never know want. Here in Rockland there has been much sympathy for him.

MORSE PARDON

Friends Find Way it May be Granted

WASHINGTON, Oct. 29.—Friends of Charles W. Morse believe they have found a way for President Taft to let the convicted New York banker out of the Atlanta penitentiary without actually pardoning him. In effect it would be to parole Morse, but that could not be accomplished by issuing a "conditional pardon."

CHARLES W. MORSE

The banker's friends claim precedent in their favor and point out that President Cleveland pardoned a federal prisoner conditionally, with the proviso that he report to the U. S. district attorney every year for five years.

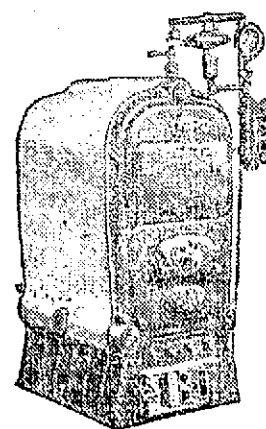

While the plans of Morse's friends are not known at the department of justice, it was said that there is nothing to prevent the president from issuing a "conditional pardon," and that in such an event the federal board of parole would be charged with the responsibility of looking after Morse.

Any proposition to parole Morse under the terms of the law passed at the last session of congress, as has been suggested, is out of the question, say the attorneys. The law says a federal prisoner may be paroled after having served one-third of his sentence. Morse was sentenced to 15 years and would not be eligible for parole under that statute, therefore, until January, 1915.

The Chief Difference Between Crawford Boilers

and other boilers is that they heat the houses they are rated to heat;—you don't have to get the "next larger size."

These Boilers give more heat per pound of coal than others and cost less in repairs. They are simplicity itself in operation, are guaranteed for zero weather efficiency and to save fuel, labor, worry and money to those who use them.

There are no packed joints, sheet iron parts or brick linings in these Boilers, and the "Heat Ribs" cast on the interiors are found in no others.

They are a gilt edge investment for those who want heat and plenty of it at the minimum of expense and care.

WOMAN INDICTED CHAIRMAN HUPPUGH

Accused of Murder of Husband

ST. ALBANS, Vt., Oct. 29.—Mrs. Frank C. Averill of St. Albans town was indicted, charged with the murder of her husband, by the Franklin county grand jury late yesterday. The jury, which had been especially summoned to consider the case, had been hearing testimony since Thursday afternoon.

Mrs. Averill has been under arrest since Saturday last, when she was held following an investigation by State's Atty. Johnson.

Averill died at a hospital in this city, Oct. 21 from gunshot wounds. He was taken to the hospital late the night before, and in his few moments of consciousness told the officers, who had been called in, that he had been shot accidentally.

The Averills were well known residents of St. Albans town. Mrs. Averill since her arrest has maintained her innocence, and no motive for anyone to have shot Averill is known.

HELD IN $5000

YOUNG MAN IS CHARGED WITH FORGERY

BOSTON, Oct. 29.—Waiving examination in the municipal criminal court, Frank J. Swenderman, 22 years old, who had for several months maintained an elaborately furnished suite in Roxbury, was yesterday held in $5000 bail on the charge of forgery and uttering.

Since last February he had been employed by the Hub Wire company of 178 Washington street. His employers made the complaint, alleging that they have lost heavily through his peculations.

According to the police the young man received a salary of $40 a month, but maintained a suite in a Roxbury apartment house that cost him $15 a month for rent and had other heavy expenses.

He is charged with having forged the name of the treasurer of the concern to checks received from customers. These checks he is alleged to have deposited to his own account in the South End national bank, drawing against them whenever he needed extra pocket money.

ALL DRUGGISTS

Replies to Statement Made by Candidate Stimson

NEW YORK, Oct. 29.—Chairman

Huppuch of the democratic state committee issued the following statement last night, together with what he said was a copy of a letter written to the directors of the American Sugar Refining company by its counsel, John G. Johnson, John B. Stanchfield, James R. Sheffield and Henry B. Closson:

"In view of the statement made by Mr. Stimson yesterday that he had collected from the sugar trust all that was due to the government when he consented to take from the company about $2,000,000 in full settlement of all claims against them it is very interesting to read the letter addressed to the trust's directors by their counsel, who were thoroughly familiar with the facts and who admit a liability to the government of about nine millions of dollars."

The letter was dated April 26, 1909, is addressed "to the directors of the American Sugar Refining company."

It follows, in part:

"A compromise having been made by which the government has agreed to accept in full of its claim against the company, the sum of $2,000,000, in addition to payment of the judgment, viz: $134,000 already entered, we think it proper, in view of the very large amount that has been made the reason which so induced us to advise."

Here the letter reviews the history of the case, and continues:

"While we thought, and still think that no forfeiture could be sustained unless the company itself, or its board of directors, or its executive officers, had been aware of the fraud, Judge Holt entertained a different opinion and charged the jury that if the fraud was known to the then superintendent of the dock on which were located the scales, the company was responsible. "Since the trial, the government, acting through its special attorney, Mr. Stimson, has filed reliquidations of importations between 1901 and 1907 by which the company has been brought in further debt to it to the extent of $1,239,000."

"Relinquidations of importations to the same refinery from 1904 to 1907 were threatened and also importations to Jersey City which would have brought the company into debt to the government, if sustained, to the extent of upwards of $1,000,000 additional, making a total of about $3,000,000."

"In addition to this, the government also threatened to bring forfeiture proceedings for all importations during the last three years, outside of those involved in the suit which had been tried. The claim under these forfeitures would have amounted to about $5,000,000."

"If the government was right in its contentions of fact and law, it was entitled to collect not only the amounts involved in the reliquidations, but also additionally the forfeitures for the value of the goods imported."

"The total amount for which the government threatened to sue amounted to nearly $9,000,000."

Y. M. C. A. CONVENTION

TORONTO, Ont., Oct. 29.—The afternoon session of the International convention of the Young Men's Christian Association of North America, was taken up with the reports of officers and clubs, all showing a healthy growth in the work and outlining a campaign to carry it forward in foreign lands.

The triennial report placed the endowment fund on January 1, 1910, at $1,174,855. This report said the associations of North America now have a membership of 496,000 men and boys, a gain of 13 per cent. since the last convention.

It further showed the value of all association property in America to be over $50,000,000.

THREE DOLLARS PER YEAR. TWENTY-FIVE CENTS PER MONTH

The sworn daily average circulation of The Lowell Sun for the year 1909 was 16,828

Sworn to by John H. Harrington, proprietor, Martin H. Reidy, business manager, and Alfred Pilotte, pressman, of The Sun, before me, January 1, 1910. J. JOSEPH HENNESSY, Notary Public.

This is by far the largest average circulation of any newspaper in Lowell.

The Greek letter fraternities still flourish at Tufts and other colleges. While they may be permissible at colleges, they should be barred from high schools where such secret societies can accomplish only harm for the members and the school.

It appears that the purchase of an opposition, "plant" by the United Shoe Machinery company has not ended the troubles of that concern, as another party is getting ready to attack the monopoly. It is not likely, however, that the company will buy up every rival that enters the field.

GIVE US WIDE PUBLIC THOROUGHFARES

The narrow public thoroughfare constitutes an irreparable injury to any progressive city. Of this Boston is a striking example. In order to relieve some of the principal streets in that city, subways were constructed that the car traffic might be put under ground.

The same may be true of Lowell at some time in the future when it is found necessary to relieve congestion on such streets as Gorham and East Merrimack which, owing to the location of large buildings close to the sidewalks, can never be widened unless these buildings and a great many others be ruined. There is the most urgent need of widening Rogers street from the junction of Nesmith to Boylston street.

The construction of the new park along that line makes this improvement doubly imperative. At present there is barely room for a wagon to pass safely on either side the car tracks.

To allow this street to remain at its present inadequate width would be to discount the advantages of the beautiful park that will attract multitudes in the near future.

There should be some authority in the city to insist that all new streets shall be of liberal width. It is well to have plenty of room. There is no scarcity of land, and it would be better for a city to purchase land for wide streets than allow them to be laid out on a scale that will prove too narrow when buildings are located on either side, when sidewalks are cut off and car tracks laid in the middle.

Any movement for the "City Beautiful" should include in its program wide streets, wide sidewalks, spacious squares and occasional street parks to relieve the monotony.

Our city is steadily being beautified in all these directions, and our street department should lose no opportunity of favoring wide streets wherever possible.

Since the arrival of the automobile the demand for wide public thoroughfares is greater than ever before. We want more state highways, more boulevards. Indeed it may be said that while the high speed auto is injurious to roads, we never had good roads until the demands of the autoists were heard all over the land, and the whole people began to realize how wretched were our country roads.

It is particularly important that the main thoroughfares leading through every city should be of ample width. That is why Rogers street should be widened and why some of the other thoroughfares that cannot be widened should be smooth paved.

WHY SOME PEOPLE DON'T GET ALONG

There are always a great many people who can't get along. Indeed the number of such is greater than the number of those whose efforts are crowned with success. But while there are conditions that militate against certain classes, as a rule the real reason is some weakness or defect in the people themselves. Everybody who succeeds has to overcome adverse conditions of one kind or another. With some of those who fail it is the will power that is lacking; with others it is the willingness to work. It is surprising how numerous are the people who have a real aversion for hard work. Hard work under right conditions will never injure anybody except those who are physically unfitted for it. It is remarkable, too, how readily some people arrive at the conclusion that a little hard work would prove their undoing. So much do some people abhor hard work that they would rather go to jail or to the institution recently dignified by a new name than do what they might ordinarily be expected to do as a means of self-support. Is it any wonder that these people, lazy, shiftless and habitually idle do not get along? Of course there is a large number who from ill health or adversity through no fault of their own become worthy objects of charity and sympathy.

There is a large class very anxious to get along and even to attain success; but all they do to reach the goal is to wish and hope for something to turn up. They forget that success is not attained all of a sudden—in a day, a week or a year—but as a result of long years of struggle. Yet they imagine that by some dispensation of fate a miracle should be wrought in their favor that would pile the rewards of a life of toil into a day. When we want to reach the summit of a high mountain it is useless to wish ourselves at the top. The only way we can get there, as a rule, is by climbing, step by step. That being so the sooner we begin to climb the better. And so it is with the attainment of success. We must set to work and climb slowly, it may be, but steadily upward if we would ever reach the top. Thus the indolent and the inactive do not get along, and the reason is plain. But there are people who are neither lazy nor idle who fail to get along. They are the improvident who spend their money as fast as they earn it, making no provision for the "rainy day," so to speak. The general experience is that it is almost as hard to save money as to earn it. Yet the industrious and the frugal find it easy from force of habit. For a similar reason the spendthrift considers it most difficult to save anything. Unfortunately it is also true of the last named character that he is no more unapt at enriching himself than at impoverishing his friends.

It would be well if those who cannot get along would remember this old maxim of Seneca which is the condensation of all wisdom—

"Be mindful of things past, careful of things present and provident of things to come."

SEEN AND HEARD

ANOTHER CARD CLUB.

They're friends today, they smile and kiss. Whether they meet, and frequently they count it joy and count it bliss. To ask each other up to tea. Together off they shopping go. Each helps to pick the other's hat; They tell each other all they know. And friendship can't do more than that.

But soon, too soon will come the suer. The happy word so much despised; There's trouble in the atmosphere. A card club brings them organized. I've warned them, so they can't blame me.

I'm an old stager at the game; I've seen card clubs start merrily. And everyone turned out the same. The best of friends I must part. And loved ones off I must dispart. We can't avoid the aching heart. Nor miss the sorrows that will be. "But," as I said to her last night, "Be happy while you may, and don't deliberately seek the light. A card club brings," said she: "We won't."

"You fought in other clubs," said I; "I didn't," hotly she replied. "If not," I asked her, "tell me why. So suddenly they failed and died? And tell me why you do not speak to Mrs. What's-her-name today? You entertained her once a week. But now she never comes our way. Then tell me also why it is. That Mrs. Thimblebobs you snub? Time was you called her 'Darling Liz.' But that was ere she joined your club."

"And then there's Mrs. Dummynome. You used to think her very sweet. Until you found she played a game. That honest methods couldn't beat. That raised an awful rumpus, too. And sent the club upon the rocks. If I had time I could review Some other things that furnished shocks. "Don't worry, we'll not quarrel," she replied in tones that lay full. "Don't throw those old fights up to me. We didn't know those women well."

HOW TO KEEP THE HEAD CLEAN

Frequent washing with a shampoo composed of pure soap, cocoanut oil, glycerin, white of egg, and salicylic acid imparts a feeling of cleanliness and invigoration that is hard to describe. This opens up the pores leading to the hair roots, removes dandruff and scales, and puts the scalp in such a healthy condition that the loss of hair is naturally stopped. Birt's Head Wash is made of these ingredients. It contains no free alkali, as is the case with some soaps and shampoos. It contains no alcohol, which is one of the principal ingredients in many so-called hair remedies. Free alkali is deadly in its effects, and alcohol turns the hair gray. Be on the safe side. Use Birt's Head Wash. The full formula is printed plainly on every tube. At drug and dept. stores, 25c and 50c.

vored with them. Here are one or two:

A certain preacher, discoursing upon Bunyan and his work, caused a titter among his hearers by exclaiming: "In these days, my brethren, we want more Bunyans."

Another clergyman, pleading earnestly with his parishioners for the construction of a cemetery for their parish, asked them to consider "the deplorable condition of 39,000 Christian Englishmen living without Christian burial."

Still more curious was this clerical slip:

A gentleman said to the minister, "When do you expect to see Deacon S. again?"

"Never," said the reverend gentleman, solemnly, "the deacon is in heaven."—Tit-Bits.

EXCELSIOR

The shades of night were falling fast As through the up-state cities passed A youth who hated snuff and vice, Whose banner bore the strange device, Excelsior!

In happy homes he saw the light Of household fires gleam warm and bright, "I'll quench all these," he said with "And throttle this prosperity." Excelsior!

"The people then to me will turn And laws and constitution spurn; I'm having a corking time," said he, "And soon will your Dictator be." Excelsior!

In the twilight of election day, Weary and conquered, he will say:—"The voters here are good for nix; They scratch my man and vote for Dix." Excelsior!

The affair was a success from every point of view, and was in charge of the following: Chairman, Miss Mabel Wilson; Misses P. Jefferson, E. Robertson, J. Gilmore, H. Cogshall, F. Reynolds, B. Connell and William Van Steenburg, William Ward and S. Hall.

The first prize for this work went to Little Hannah Adams, while Charlotte Chase captured the second prize. The judges were Mrs. Fred Russell, Mrs. A. M. Hutchins and Mrs. Arnold Potham.

Ruth Horton gave several delightful piano solos, as did Gladys Long. The cast of the Mother Goose reception playlet: Mother Goose, Marion E. Evans; Boy Blue, Donald Batabrink; Bo-Peep, Helen E. Batabrink; King

HELD IN $1500 THE AWAKENING OF SOUTH AFRICA COMES WITH OPENING OF FIRST PARLIAMENT, NOV. 4

On Charge of Using
Mail to Defraud

MANCHESTER, N. H., Oct. 29.—Pres. John A. Doherty, Treas. Thimble Boudreau of the Oxford Gold Mining company, with an office at 21 Amory street, McGregorville, and Leo Richard, a former secretary of the company, were given a hearing before U. S. Commissioner John S. Crawford yesterday afternoon, charged with using the U. S. mails in a scheme to defraud.

The hearing lasted several hours and resulted in each of the respondents being held in $1500 for the next term of the U. S. circuit court.

The trio was arrested last night by U. S. Marshal E. P. Nute of Farmington, assisted by Inspector Eldred and Officer Hampson of the Manchester police.

Charles W. Holt of Nashua, U. S. district attorney, was ready to open the prosecution yesterday, but the inspectors wanted a postponement in order that they might visit the office and seize documents and papers which might be found there. After a conference of an hour or more this delay was granted and the hearing was postponed until afternoon. The inspectors, with Marshal Nute, drove to McGregorville and returned with five mail sacks filled with books, papers and stationery.

It was alleged at the hearing that the respondents purchased 240 acres where the mine is located for $1200, and it was asserted that they had sold back from 10 cents a share to $3.00, and altogether had received $108,094 from the sale of stock. It was alleged that a sample of ore sent to smelters in New Jersey showed it to be worthless. The respondents pleaded not guilty and furnished bail.

BOARD OF HEALTH

Considers Several Matters of Sanitation

The matter of granting a permit to the American Hide & Leather company for the erection of a tanning plant in Ferry street was not touched upon at the regular meeting of the board of health held yesterday afternoon. Previous to the meeting it was stated that action relative to the granting of the permit would be postponed until the stenographic report of last Friday night's meeting is before the board. The report will be ready on Tuesday. That the board will grant the permit, however, there is little doubt as the board seems inclined to accept the statement of the company's officials that the plant will be odorless and inoffensive. That thought the board members brought back with them from Milwaukee after visiting a plant in that city. The respondents do not believe any such thing and have suggested that if the company means what it says, it should furnish a bond as a guarantee of good faith.

The board at its meeting yesterday afternoon received reports of conditions in certain Merrill street houses with reference to the question of sanitation. It was voted to order vaults out of certain houses there.

Dr. Huntress spoke of a complaint from Alderman Owen Brennan as to conditions in Hale's brook near Chambers street and it was agreed that an inspection should be made at an early time.

The board voted permission to Mrs. Renoult and Mrs. Regina Desrosiers to take care of infants.

Lubert Porter and W. A. Shinklin received small licenses.

Irwin Barlow was granted a permit to collect decayed fruit.

The milk license of Louis Lampros was revoked. Mr. Lampros having recently sold out his milk route. Inspector of Milk Melvin Master submitted a report of his recent visit to Amherst Agricultural college, where a meeting of the state association of milk inspectors was held. Inspector Master gave an interesting summary of information obtained by attending the meeting, and as it came from recognized experts, the board agreed to consider it later at greater depth. Suggestions to both milk producers and health boards were contained in Inspector Master's abstract.

A NOBLE RECORD

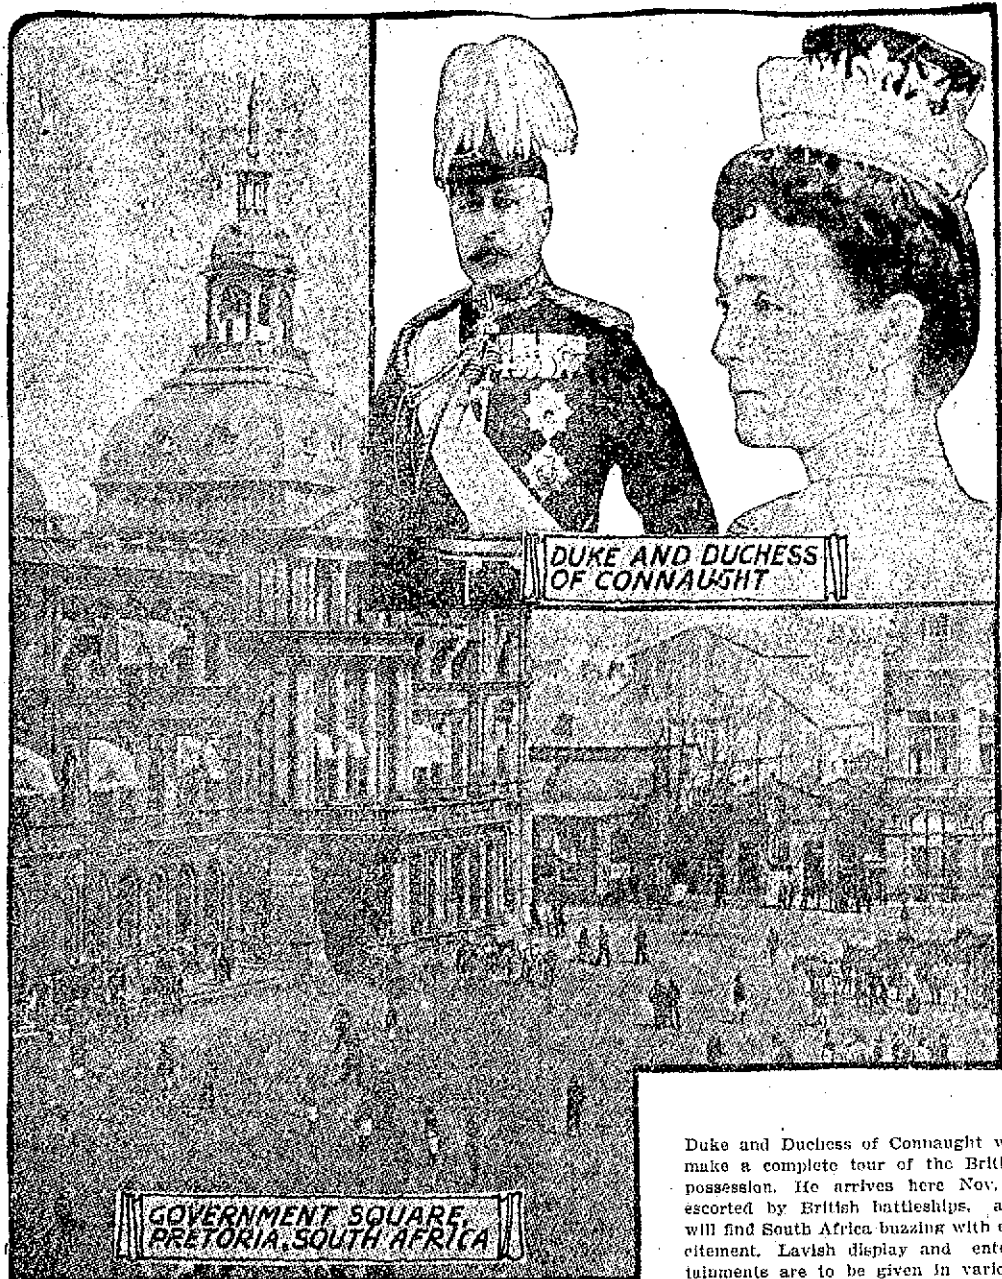

Of many hundreds of thousands of cures forms a well sustained basis for every claim put forth by the makers of DR. PIERCE'S GOLDEN MEDICAL DISCOVERY as a remedy for many of the troublesome affections which afflict mankind; yet it is not extolled as a "cure-all" by any means. No extravagant promises are flaunted before the public to arouse false hopes in the afflicted. Your neighbors probably know of some of its many cures; ask them.

Through strengthening and arousing the stomach, liver and bowels into vigorous action, digestion is promoted, whereby the blood is enriched and purified, disease-producing bacteria destroyed and expelled from the body, and thus a long list of skin, scrofulous and kindred affections are overcome and sound, vigorous health established.

The "Discovery" contains no alcohol and no habit-forming drugs, and has its every ingredient printed on its wrappers. This OPEN PUBLICITY places it in a class distinct from the ordinary secret nostrums with which it has no relationship. Physicians, therefore, do not hesitate to prescribe it in bad cases of indigestion, torpid liver or biliousness and in skin and blood affections. People of intelligence and keen discernment employ it. The "Discovery" is a pure glyceric extract of native medicinal roots of great curative potency, and can in no case do harm to either child or adult. The aged find it a great invigorator.

You can learn more about this time proven and popular "Discovery" from the People's Common Sense Medical Adviser, by Dr. R. V. Pierce, a newly revised, up-to-date edition of which is now offered, in cloth covers, post-paid, for 31 cents in one-cent stamps, to cover cost of mailing only; or in paper covers 21 cents. CULVERT GAVE WAY

Five Cars Took a Plunge at Durham, New Hampshire

DURHAM, N. H., Oct. 29.—The culvert over the Oyster river about a quarter of a mile from New Hampshire college, over which the partially constructed track of the new line of the Boston & Maine railroad from Durham to Newmarket lies, caved in yesterday afternoon, precipitating five freight cars into the bed of the river and endangering the lives of workmen, four New Hampshire college students and a professor.

The railroad is putting in a double track over which trains will not run for at least a year. A portion of the new track has been laid below Durham ward Newmarket and necessitated the building of a new culvert 50 feet long and 20 feet wide across the Oyster river, just opposite the old one over which trains run now. The culverts are end to end.

An Italian workman jumped as the culvert began to sink and escaped injury. The locomotive was in the danger. The rail of the track disintegrated and made it impossible to take off two other cars on the rails in the middle of the culvert. This accident happened at noon.

About 2 o'clock some New Hampshire college students and a professor came down to inspect the ruins. They went beneath the culvert and were looking upward when they heard a low rumble. They ran from beneath the culvert and some feet away, just escaping about three tons of sand and cement and the other two standing freight cars laden with sand. The roof of the culvert had fallen in and almost caught the students and the professor. The loss is estimated at $10,000. The traffic on the division was not delayed, although trains went at a slower rate on the rails across the old culvert.

COL. ROOSEVELT

Admits That He Was in Error

ROCHESTER, N. Y., Oct. 29.—Theodore Roosevelt last evening gave out a copy of another letter which he has written to Judge Simon E. Baldwin, democratic nominee for governor of Connecticut, in which he discusses further the attitude of Judge Baldwin regarding labor legislation, which Col. Roosevelt criticized in his speech at Concord, N. H., last week as "retrogressive."

The first letter of Col. Roosevelt to the judge was based on reports of the letter from Judge Baldwin to him. When the Baldwin letter reached Mr. Roosevelt he found that in some respects his (Col. Roosevelt's) information had not been entirely accurate. Meanwhile he had obtained fuller information from other sources, and on this he wrote the letter of yesterday.

But the colonel makes no hint of apology nor of regret that he has found his former letter "based on statements in the public press, as now appears, not wholly correct."

FOSS TO DRAPER

Democratic Candidate Says That Reciprocity is Not Fake Issue

EASTHAMPTON, Oct. 29.—Eugene N. Foss at the democratic rally here last night said in part:

"Gov. Draper said last night that he has been governor for two years and he knows what that office has to do with the tariff and reciprocity. Mr. Foss is using reciprocity as a fake issue and he knows it."

"Now Gov. Draper means to be fair. I think, and will be as fair as he can when blinded by partisan politics. Will he not take us into his confidence and tell us why he appointed a commission on the cost of living, had the state spend $15,000 on it, and print its report, a report that advocated as strongly as I ever advocated reciprocity with Canada, untaxed food supplies and a lower rate of taxation on the necessities of life? Why did he waste the state's money if the information arrived at couldn't be used or in any way influence national action as it must in order to be effective?"

"A fake reciprocity? Will Gov. Draper explain the fake in my proposition? While I believe that we ought to have absolute free trade between the United States and Canada, I have suggested that we ought immediately to lower our rates to the level of Canada's, as an earnest of our good intentions, and expressed the belief that Canada would be fair and would be willing to meet our advances in good faith."

"For years we have rebuffed Canada, until now she has secured other markets and we have lost much. Every day's delay makes it harder to come to an agreement. Boston ought to be the clearing house for most of the business of Canada. Instead it goes elsewhere."

"To show how much 'fake' there is to my reciprocity arguments I want to call Gov. Draper's attention to the speech of Sir Frederick W. Borden member of the Canadian cabinet, to the members of the Intercolonial club in Roxbury last night.

"His statements tally exactly with my public utterances for the past 10 years, Canada in spite of our ill-treatment of her would welcome any fair move that we might make. His suggestions are exactly in line, are, in fact, identical with mine. I suppose that in Gov. Draper's eyes it is a 'fake' reciprocity that Sir Frederick Borden suggests, but sometimes Gov. Draper doesn't see just straight."

"Gov. Draper wants to talk about state issues and I am going to accompany him."

"I want to talk to him about some of these various commissions that seem to consider themselves as above the law and certainly so beyond the reach of the public that they pay no attention to public sentiment and adopt the Vanderbilt policy of 'The public be damned.' And these other little matters of perhaps a more personal nature—I am willing to submit to honest criticism honestly made, but not to unfair criticisms made to misrepresent. I fight in the open. I call a spade a spade and stand responsible for my public utterances. I deal not in innuendoes nor in hidden suggestions, and I don't propose to let any man deal that way by me. It will force them out into the open and ask them to make good their insinuations."

"But just now there are other matters of greater importance. I will deal with the things that are in the minds of the people first for I do not forget that I am fighting their battles for them, aided by my associates most heartily."

"The republican campaign seems to have broken down. They are running wild trying to find something on which to base a campaign and check the rising tide that is burying them as it

"I look in vain for any intelligent discussion of the great questions of the day. Congressman Gardner babbles up long enough to want to know something about that old fake letter of last year, thinks on the whole he'll send out what purports to be a fac simile letter. Why, that was all over long ago, only of course he hasn't found it out."

"They don't want to discuss the tariff. They make sneering allusions to what Foss can do on the tariff, and they try to dodge all honest, candid, intelligent discussion of it. They don't want it touched, and they bring up this fake tariff board into view and say let us revise the tariff scientifically some time in the future."

"But the people want it settled now, and they are going to force a settlement by their votes this fall."

"It matters little if a man's wage be $3 per day, if the cost of sugar and flour, potatoes and meat is so high that his $3 can't procure sufficient for the comfort of his family and those dependent upon him, or if the cost of woolen clothing and cotton goods is so high that he cannot afford to suitably protect himself and family from the rigors of the climate."

"You are to decide this question, my friends. The responsibility rests on you. I can point out the way. It is new up to you, and I know that you will vote and vote right on the 8th of November."

FIRST TRINITARIAN CHURCH

The third illustrated lecture in the series by Rev. George F. Kennegott will be given in the First Trinitarian Congregational church, Dutton street, Tuesday, November 1st, at 8 p.m. The subject of the lecture is "Where Hollis the Oregon." Mr. John F. Sheehan, baritone, of Boston, will sing "The Lord is my Light," by Allister, and "Cross and Crown," by Adams, on Sunday at 6.45 p.m. in the First Trinitarian Congregational church, Dutton street. Pink Pajamas Favorite Night Wear of Small Girls

MOTHERS of small girls are finding out that their little daughters prefer for their night apparel pajamas like those worn by the boys rather than the more usual lingerie garments. The just before bedtime romp, the hour of all hours beloved by the young folk, is "lots more fun," said a small girl recently, if you're not bothered with flappy skirts. "It's goodby to the nightie for me," finished this very up to date maiden.

The pajamas for girls are cut exactly like those which brother wears, but the materials are daintier in coloring and often in weave. And they're much more comfortable, too, in cold weather, for the restless youth in its sleeping hours is apt to live over some of the exciting sports of the day, and in these dreams the bed covers are tossed about with the probable result of bad colds from exposure. Now, when the pajamas are worn there is much less chance of the wearer catching cold in this way.

The pretty pajamas worn by the two little girls in the illustration are made from the new printed duckling fleece and are trimmed with bands of the same material.

One pair of pajamas is of tan colored fleece edged with a band of the fabric decorated with printed Teddy bears, and the other pair is in an attractive shade of pink beautified with a border displaying imprints of Mother Goose and her geese.

Mothers who approve of silk underwear and can afford such luxuries for their children as silk pajamas have a fascinating selection of these suits from which to choose. The shops are carrying this year juvenile pajamas that are not unlike the clothes worn by a high caste Chinese woman—the same wide trousers of heavy silk and hip length jacket embroidered in exquisite floral designs.

But the majority of mothers are satisfied with making for their children suits of duckling fleece, and, by the way, this material is very popular this year for kimono and dressing sacks, both for young and old girls.

The comfortable little sack seen among the cuts is of this fleece in a charming shade of pale pink. On the material are printed polar scenes and bears. The sack is trimmed with a band of wash satin in a matching shade of pink.

Turban With Muff to Match

TURBAN MUFF SET OF BERRY TONED MOIRE SILK AND FOX FUR.

ONE of the sights of Paris is the Ritz tea room at the fashionable tea hour. There the modish women of all nations assemble, drink the cheering cup and look each other over sartorially. The illustration shows a smart turban and muff to match which were worn there recently by an American woman.

There are lots of possibilities in this combination of materials for the amateur milliner who has bits of fur and silk on hand.

When Decorating the House

"It won't scale, madam," said a house decorator to a woman patron recently. "Won't scale?" she reiterated. "What on earth do you mean?"

"Scale," my dear lady, is the technical term in wall decorating for correct proportions. For instance," he explained, "if a paper of a very large design is chosen for a small room it does not 'scale.' If the pattern is small—that is, proportionate to the room—then 'scale' has been observed, and the effect is better."

It is a good lesson in decorating for every woman to learn that in going from one room to the next the eye should not be disturbed by too sharp a change in wall colorings. The best way to impress this lesson is to tell the error just made by a woman who is papering a new house. The reception room on the right side of the lower hall is small and has a paper showing small fruit. Across the narrow hall is the living room, 12 by 15 feet, and that, too, has a paper of a small pattern. Opening from this room is the dining room, almost similar in size to the living room, and on its walls is a gray paper with a large colonial pattern. The result is no "scale" whatever.

If the dining room were large a large design would not have jarred even with the small living room walls, but when it is the same size as the other room and can be seen from the living room the walls should correspond in every respect.

This does not mean that either the pattern or coloring should be the same, although in many cases it is advisable, but merely that the general proportion is to be observed.

When one room opens from another colors which accord must be chosen, for both. It would get on one's nerves horribly were the coloring a positive red in one room and in an adjoining room pink, for instance. It is only when rooms are entirely cut off from one another that such liberties may be taken.

As every room on a floor opens from a hall a tone for that part of a house must be one that will harmonize with all. A dull—not bright red—goes with almost everything; so, too, does green or dull yellow, and one of these three colors is apt to be safe. But the hall paper should be chosen last, that there may be no mistake in it.

The safest choice for hall papers is self tones which are combinations of soft shades showing only one color or foliage which are combinations of soft tones of the same colors. A hall paper whose background is one color with a positive pattern of another entirely different rarely works out well.

Oriental Trend In Gowns

CHARMING HOUSE COSTUME.

THIS pretty gown shows the strong oriental tendencies in coloring and cut. The material in which it is developed is royal blue permo. Like all the dresses of the winter, it is elaborately trimmed with rich Turkish embroidery with bands of moleskin. The low Dutch collar of the fur is particularly new and becoming.

Egyptian Jewelry Scores This Winter

TO possess quaint and historic jewels is the ambition of every woman who keeps abreast of the fads and fancies of the hour. And the timepiece of jewelry fashion points this winter to Egyptian ornaments. The woman, therefore, who has in her jewel cabinet treasures of this sort is envied of all her friends. Wanderers in the country of the Ptolejews, which include the superb necklace and ear pendants illustrated. They belonged to a woman of the middle class in ancient Egypt.

The necklace of queer looking shells which she wears in one picture adorned the satiny brown throat of a belle of centuries ago who belonged to the lowest caste in Egyptian society. Today ladies of high degree are glad to

And in connection with quaint jewelry, the famous zodiac jewelry is to be extremely popular this season as Christmas, wedding and birthday gifts.

All kinds of quaint articles are to be found in this new fad, some of them wonderfully beautiful with precious or semiprecious stones set in gold, silver or platinum.

Among the zodiacal articles made are misses have splendid opportunities for picking up rare specimens—often to the depletion of their letters of credit—of the gem bangles that adorned, perhaps, the women of Cleopatra's time or of adding to their jewel cabinet gems worn by some high priest or princess.

Miss Helen Ware, the popular young actress who is stirring New York and London to heights of enthusiasm in her military play "The Deserters," is a collector of ancient Egyptian jewelry. Miss Ware has posed for the camera in some of her most charmed Egyptian foils, pins, pendants, necklaces, amulets, etc. The wearing of this kind of jewelry is said to bring good luck.

An entire horoscope represented upon a scarf is a striking novelty. The astral colors are seen in enamel, the metal by the mounting, the birth stones providing the setting, while the realistic and astronomical signs are carried out in the metal work.

The exchange of zodiac rings between fiance and fiancée is usual either at the time of engagement or at the marriage.

NOW'S THE TIME TO REUPHOLSTER.

When the summer covers have been taken off the upholstered furniture the permanent covers are apt to have a dingy and worn appearance in a number of cases. Upholstered chairs and even sofas which have wooden frames need have no terrors for the woman who would recover them herself. If the old cover is removed so that it is not torn it becomes a perfect pattern from which the new one may be cut. One must remember with the new material the thread must run the right way and always be in a straight line, and when necessary to piece it the pattern, if there is one, must be made to match perfectly.

Stitching to be firm enough to wear well should be done on the machine and the seam smoothly and heavily pressed open. It is always better to use wide material when the stuff is equally satisfactory in effect, for then the amateur avoids many seams and consequent labor.

If the material is such that the edge will not turn under neatly and smoothly guimping may be made to cover a multitude of sins in that direction, and there will be no difficulty in putting in brass and headed tacks evenly if a tape measure is pinned along the edges and the tacks put at regular intervals. If new springs or actual repairing of the inner structure of a chair is needed this must be done by a professional, but the furniture may then be returned for the owner to put on the covering.

BATHROOM TIPS.

A can of borax should be in every bathroom, and the pipes should have a daily flushing with hot water in which borax has been dissolved. Do not use sand soap for cleaning a porcelain tub or washbowl. It will mar the surface and make it look like ground glass. Then if the porcelain becomes discolored you cannot make it white again.

Use ammonia in the water, but if dirt or grease requires an extra cleanser dampen the scrub cloth with kerosene and later wash the tub with warm water. If the tub is enameled scrub with a cloth made of a salt bag which has been thoroughly moistened with turpentine and polish with a clean cloth.

A LINGERIE HINT.

When using a bodkin to run ribbon through a beading tray running the eye end of the needle through the beading first instead of the usual end. This prevents very narrow ribbon from twisting.

DELICIOUS HOT BREADS.

Virginia Rolls.—Take one pound of flour, one pint of milk, one egg, one ounce of butter, two tablespoonfuls of yeast, or quarter of a cake of compressed yeast and a teaspoonful of salt. Heat the milk, butter and salt together to the scalding point and let cool. When lukewarm beat all together and set to rise in a warm place not less than three hours before being used. When light form into rolls with as little handling as possible. Let stand half an hour, or until the rolls are double their original size. Bake in tins until a nice brown.

Potato Biscuit.—Warm half a cupful of milk and pour over two tablespoonfuls of butter to melt it. Then stir into two cupfuls of hot washed potatoes (they may be used cold or reheated over hot water). Season with a tablespoonful of salt, two dashes of white pepper and two eggs beaten light. Add enough sifted flour to make a moderately soft dough. Turn out on the biscuit board and roll out lightly to the thickness of an inch. Cut out with a cookie cutter and bake in a moderate oven for about twenty minutes. Split open and butter while they are hot.

Scotch Shortcake For Tea.—Make a good pie crust. Roll it out and spread with butter, sugar and a little nutmeg or cinnamon. Fold over and put the butter, sugar and spice on top. Bake for about fifteen minutes in a quick oven. This shortcake is very good for luncheon as well as supper.

Ojaidas.—This is a delicious bread to serve with coffee or cocoa. Take a pint of sifted flour, put it on the bread board, make a well in the middle and drop in an unbeaten egg yolk and a heaping tablespoonful of lard or butter. Add slightly salted cold water, working the egg, shortening and water into the flour until you have a stiff paste. Then knead this well and lift from board, throwing it down again with a snap every few minutes until you have a velvety dough full of blisters. Roll very thin and cut into fancy shapes with pastry cutters and cut several slits in the middle of each cake or biscuit. Fry in deep hot fat like doughnuts. When served they should be crisp.

WALKING FOR HEALTH.

If you are one of those people who go in for walking for the sake of health and beauty, don't allow yourself to walk carelessly.

Keep the shoulders well back and throw the chest out so that you can breathe naturally.

Don't set off for a long walk immediately after a meal or when you are feeling tired.

JOHNSTONE'S FLIGHT

He Reached an Altitude of 8471 Feet in Yesterday's Trial

NEW YORK, Oct. 28.—The crowd at Belmont park yesterday was all for Ralph Johnstone when from Middle Island Village, Long Island, 55 miles off the coast, he brought back a new American record of 8471 feet for altitude—the second he has added to his string in the international aviation meet. But the interest of the aviators was centered on the action of the Aero Club of America, which after a midnight session, chose Hamilton, Drexel and Brookins, early yesterday morning, to defend the Gordon Bennett international speed trophy. Audemars, in a Demoselle, suffered the first accident of the tournament yesterday. It came with no hurt to himself, and only minor damages to his machine.

Just before the passenger carrying cross country race was started at 1 o'clock yesterday afternoon a note in the sky was seen far to the south. It was Johnstone, repeating just where he had begun in Thursday's race. He circled the field and settled in front of the judges' stand, while the crowd waved, cheered and stamped. For once he had the center of the stage and Hoxsey had to take the back ground.

"Tell you what, boys," said the hero, "it was just the mercy of providence that saved my neck. When I thought I was within touching distance of a new world's record, I kind of forgot all about the wind and began to reach out for more height. Then I suddenly said to myself, 'young man, you better see how much gas you've got.' The truth is I had just begun to carry over the two propellers. When I kept her nose up, the juice ran down into the engine and she coughed. The minute I pointed down I lost my fuel and she began to miss.

"It was just like shooting the chutes. First I'd take a header, with the power off, and when I began to carry over the out of control, I'd point up a bit, get a little headway, run level for a hundred yards, then dive again. I wasn't much scared till I got down to earth and saw what a gale there was. Then I was frightened for fair. The only spot I could find to land in was little patch not three times bigger across than the stretch of my wings from tip to tip. If I went farther I was afraid I'd wipe out the entire village of Middle Island. If I didn't come down the village would wipe me out. While I was tossing pennies to myself the wind turned me clean around and landed me front end backwards, but that was just what saved me. If I'd come down headfirst, the wind would have picked me up, tipped me over and smashed me to pieces."

The American Team

What stirred the hangars far more, however, than the new record of Johnstone's narrative, was the selection of an American team to defend the Gordon Bennett international speed trophy. It had been intended to narrow the choice by elimination trials, but when the time came, and with the limit named under the international rules for the entry of a team approached, it was necessary to substitute an election. Hamilton, with his 150 horsepower Hamiltonian; Drexel, with a 50 horsepower Bleriot, and Brookins in the Wright racer were named.

Christie, who brought the cup to this country, thus has no part in defending it and his new racer remains untied. It and other dark horses will have a chance to show what they can do in the Grand speed trials, which carry prizes of $3000 for first place and $1000 for second. There was some chagrin over this outcome, but on the whole the American aviators acquiesced in the action of the Aero Club and took its decision as a necessity. The French team consists of Latham with a 100-horsepower Antoinette; LeBlanc with a 100-horsepower Bleriot, and Aubrun with a 50-horsepower Bleriot. Simons and Barvier, both with 50-horsepower Bleriot are substitutes.

Audemars, one of the two men in the world who dares to drive a tiny Demoselle, took his butterfly out in too strong wind and was capsized. His machine was slightly damaged.

EXTRA GOOD CAPTURE

Officer Stephen Castles Gets An Unknown Offender

Who Was Later Identified by Inspector Walsh as Eben J.
Woodbury With a State Prison Record

Eben Woodbury, an elderly man with a long state prison record was arrested this afternoon as a suspicious person and afterward identified at the police station by Inspector Walsh. Woodbury was found prowling through a house in Little Canada by a woman who lived there. Upon seeing him she screamed and he ran away. Officer Castles was in the vicinity and hearing the cries put after the man and caught him at the Allen street bridge. He refused to give his name to Officer Castles who sent him to the station as a suspicious person. Here also he refused to give any name and was about to be booked as "John Doe, otherwise called by a name to the complaint unknown," when Inspector Walsh happened along and immediately recognized him as Eben Woodbury, an old time offender with a bad record.

The man under arrest denied that his name was Woodbury, whereupon Inspector Walsh beat it for the rogue's gallery in the inspector's room where he produced a picture of a man who looked enough like the stranger to be his twin brother and the picture was marked, "Eben Woodbury."

The unknown was then put through a rigid cross-examination and he finally admitted that he was Eben J. Woodbury and that he had served two years in state prison, from Lawrence; one year in jail at Haverhill and two terms of three years and two years each in the New Hampshire state prison.

WATER SCARCE JUDGE BALDWIN

The Local Mills Require More Steam Power

Because of the scarcity of water the local mills have had to resort to more steam power than usual to operate their machinery. It was stated at the office of the Locks and Canals this afternoon that, for this time of year, the water is exceptionally low in the Merrimack river. "We need rain and lots of it," said the man at the office of the Locks and Canals.

PLEADED GUILTY

Minon Gets 3 Years
for Larceny

BOSTON, Oct. 29.—Joseph F. Minon, a wealthy resident of Natick, former assistant cashier of the New York and Boston Despatch Express company, who came into prominence in his flight in the famous Lake Cocchituate case, was sentenced to the house of correction for three years for larceny, in the superior court yesterday, by Justice Stevens.

Minon yesterday pleaded guilty to stealing about $4000 from the New York and Boston Despatch Express company, in the superior court. The thefts were of large sums of money on different occasions through the year 1909. After an investigation by the officials of unexplained shortages, Minon was indicted for larceny by the grand jurors last January. There were 12 counts in the indictment.

At the time of the larcenies Minon had been employed in responsible positions by the same company at its offices at 108 Arch street, for more than 13 years. It is understood that the money was taken each month by means of padded payrolls. After a secret investigation of the books of the company and a long-continued watching of his work, Minon was arrested on the night of Dec. 10, at his home in Natick, by Capt. Armstrong and Inspector Waite of the Boston police headquarters, assisted by Chief Clive and Policeman Fennell of Natick. The arrested man came to this city in an automobile with the officers and with bondsmen, and was immediately bailed out in $5000. He pleaded not guilty when arraigned, but yesterday as the trial of his case became imminent he concluded to plead guilty and take his medicine. It is understood that some restitution has been made.

YOUNG GOLFERS

TO ORGANIZE INTER-COLLEGIATE GOLF CHAMPIONSHIP

CHICAGO, Oct. 29.—With the actual playing season over, the main thing which attracts the young golfers in Chicago is the organization of a western inter-collegiate golf championship. Western open champion "Chick" Evans has started communication with golfers in the western universities and hopes to make arrangements whereby he will get a representative gathering which will have authority to go ahead with the work of organization. The project has been discussed for several years.

It is expected that the western inter-collegiate will be officially recognized and sanctioned by the Western Golf association, the same as the eastern is taken in by the United States Golf association.

THAYER ARRESTED

He is Charged With Setting Fire to a Theatre

NEWBURYPORT, Mass., Oct. 29.—Charged with maliciously setting fire to the Orpheum theatre of which he was the owner, Lee E. Thayer was arrested in Haverhill today and held for the police of this city. Thayer is about 65 years old and a resident of Boston. He is reputed to be wealthy. The Orpheum theatre was burned early on the morning of Sunday, Oct. 24. Circumstances pointed to incendiarism and the state police were called upon to interview the matter. Fire Marshal Rice reported that although it was evident that the fire was caused by an incendiary there was no evidence in his opinion, to warrant the prosecution of Thayer.

GRAHAME-WHITE

Figures That Already He Has Won the Big Race

DELMONT PARK, N. Y., Oct. 29.—Two contestants—Alfred Leblanc of the French team and Walter Brookings of the American team—were injured in the wrecking of their aeroplanes shortly after the start today of the race for the James Gordon Bennett cup, the international event of the aeroplane meet here.

Claude Grahame-White of the English team covered the course of 621 miles or twenty times around the Belmont course, in one hour, one minute and 4.3 seconds, flying in a northwest wind from 10 to 15 miles an hour. Alexander Ogilvie of the English team essayed the flight but gave up the contest and came down after covering several laps.

Grahame-White counted the race already won and told his story of the race after he landed. "I thought the race was no difficulty at any time," said he "except in the 15th round, when I thought I was on fire. It was a false alarm, I learned afterward, but the prospect of hurrying through the air at sixty miles an hour like a rocket was not agreeable. I thought the wooden frame supporting the engine had caught fire from the exhaust and feared that if the flames spread to

The SAFETY BOX Department will speak out loud for itself to any one who will call and be permitted to examine. There is nothing stronger so far as security is concerned, while the system lending to quiet and privacy is the best. The vaults are fireproof construction, and as a matter of further safety, in case of fire, the CENTRAL FIRE STATION is across the street. Boxes cost from $5.00 to $50.00 per year. Boxes are handled only by the box holder and he or she holds the only key to box. Their control is absolute at the Middlesex. With rental of box is accorded free privilege of storage of household silver, small trunks, etc., etc.

THE MIDDLESEX TRUST CO. is on Merrimack street at the corner of Palmer street, the corner where all street cars pass, but never pass without stopping. The Middlesex business hours are from 9.30 to 3 and from 7 to 9 Saturday night.

The Boxholder is always a man or woman of system and caretaking methods. Thrift and system go hand in hand. Slipshod people as a rule are not boxholders. Some mean to rent a box when their "ship comes in." "If wishes were horses beggars might ride." "A wishbone don't amount to much unless attached to a backbone."

APPOINTMENTS MADE

By the Superior General of the Oblate Order

Very Rev. T. Wade Smith, O. M. I., has announced several important appointments in the Oblate order. Rev. Lawrence F. Tighe, O. M. I., pastor of the Immaculate Conception church, is made first provincial assistant, a position next to that of the provincial. Rev. Fr. Lefebvre, O. M. I., becomes second provincial assistant. Rev. Fr. McKenna, O. M. I., who has charge of Tewksbury novitiate, third provincial assistant, and Rev. Fr. Watelle, O. M. I., fourth provincial assistant. The announcement of the appointments was made last night.

The appointments were made by the superior general of the Oblate order and notice of them was received by Very Rev. T. Wade Smith, O. M. I., in a message which he received from Rome. The honor bestowed on Rev. Fr. Tighe came entirely unexpected and in fact the same may be said of the other appointments. Fr. Tighe is the first native of Lowell to be elevated to such a position and the people of the Immaculate Conception parish will be pleased beyond measure at this signal recognition of their young pastor.

LINCOLN PENNY FOR NEW PUMP

No. Dakota Man Knew Nothing About It

WASHINGTON, Oct. 29.—From an isolated North Dakota town an inquiring citizen has sought light from the postoffice department concerning a Lincoln penny that has fallen into his hands. "In a letter to the postmaster general the North Dakotan, ignorant of the thousands of newspaper articles that dealt with the country-wide commotion raised last year by the issue of the Lincoln penny with its designer's initials 'V. D. B.' in relief, wrote: 'I enclose a penny that I do not know anything about. Is it what we call a false piece of money? If you know anything about the penny please tell me.' The department will tell him.

SENATOR'S WIFE

Defied Tramp in Her Home

DALTON, Oct. 29.—The charming young wife of Senator V. Murray Crane is regarded as quite a heroine here among her neighbors, who learned yesterday afternoon of the self-possessed manner in which she confronted an unkempt and burly tramp when she nearly collided with him standing beside the table in the dining room just before dinner Thursday night.

Although Mrs. Crane was startled when she found the tramp in her home, regarding the array of silver upon her table, just set for dinner, she did not lose her nerve.

"Was there anything you wanted?" asked Mrs. Crane, bravely cheerful.

"Why—or—I was looking for some—," said the tramp, as he looked at her with a scowl.

"I'm sorry, but he isn't here," said Mrs. Crane, and before the tramp had time to appreciate the fine point of that remark she asked him how he got in the house.

"Why, I just walked right in. It was easy enough," he answered.

"Then it will be equally easy to walk right out," suggested Mrs. Crane, still smiling, and the tramp, too dazed by Mrs. Crane's self-possession to demur, turned about and walked out of the front door, followed closely by Mrs. Crane, who did not lose her courage for a moment.

The tramp had evidently told the truth about walking in, as Mrs. Crane found the front door unbolted.

Men employed on the Senator Crane estate said they saw the tramp from a distance, but thought from the manner in which he approached the house without hesitation he was some resident of the village who was calling on business.

Nothing was taken from the house by the tramp.

COLLEGE ELEVENS

To Engage in Some Interesting Football Battles Today

NEW YORK, Oct. 26.—Eastern college teams meet today in what promises to be exceptionally interesting battles on several gridirons. The Harvard-West Point and the Princeton-Dartmouth games, the first at West Point and the second in New York, were the "big" games of the day among the eastern aggregations, with much interest as well as watching the Pennsylvania-Carlisle game at Philadelphia and the showing of Yale against Colgate at New Haven. East and West clash at Syracuse, N. Y., in which was expected to be a gruelling battle between Syracuse and Michigan. Brown plays Tufts at Providence and the Navy meets Western reserve at Annapolis.

YALE VS. COLGATE
NEW HAVEN, Oct. 26.—Two games on Yale field interest Yale men today, the varsity game with Colgate being preceded by the annual contest between Phillips Andover and the Yale freshmen. Several changes have been made in the varsity line-up since the game with Vanderbilt, the most striking being the placing of Howe, for two years considered the best varsity quarterback, in as fullback. Scully has been shifted from right to left tackle, taking the place of Paul, who is on the injured list, and McDavitt has replaced Francis at left guard, the latter having a dislocated arm. Colgate was defeated last year 36 to 0 and while such a large score is not looked for today the Yale team is confident of winning by a good margin.

The line-up:
Yale: Kipatrick, le; Scully, lt; McDavitt, lg; Morris, c; Fuller, rg; Tomlinson, rt; Brooks, re; Strait, qb; Baker, lb; Daily (Capt.), rlb; Howe, rh.
Colgate: Le, Loeber; St. Slipp; Lennon; Dockstader; Parker; Thurbur (capt.); Sullivan; Huntington; Ramsey; Patterson; Cook.

PRINCETON AND DARTMOUTH
NEW YORK, Oct. 26.—The New Yorkers today had the chance of the season to see a big college football game at home in the meeting of Princeton and Dartmouth at the polo grounds. All indications were that a large crowd would be on hand to watch the struggle between the Jersey men and the New Englanders. Dartmouth tied Princeton last year and best the Tiger team the year previous. The New England team has made a good showing this year and her supporters were full of confidence today. Princeton's fighting ability has been well demonstrated and her fast backfield was expected by the Tiger adherents to display ability that would culminate in scoring. The probable lineup:

Princeton: White, le; Hart, lt; Wilson or McCormick, lg; Bluthenthal, c; Sean, rg; McGregor, rt; Dunlap, qb; Ballou, lb; Brown, rlb; Spinks, rlb; Spalden, rh.
Dartmouth: Le Daly; Lovejoy; Elcock; Needham; Whitman; Schurwin; Cottrill; Ingersoll; Mowry; Ryan; Baranda.

CARLISLE INDIANS' GAME
PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 26.—What is considered by the Carlisle Indians as their most important game of the season will be played on Franklin field this afternoon with the University of Pennsylvania. The Indians would rather beat the Pennsylvania eleven than any other on the gridiron and in consequence the red men are trained to the minute for today's contest. Whatever new tricks Coach Glenn Warner has taught the Indians under the new rules are expected to be seen today and an interesting game is expected.

BEHAVIORAL ATHLETICS
The Belvidere Athletic club defeated the Chelmsford grammar school team on the gridiron yesterday afternoon by a score of 10 to 0. The game was played in Chelmsford and was attended by several hundred people.

CLANGRANTO S.C. PRESENTED GOLD FELL FROM TREE Observed Halloween With Entertainment

Halloween was observed by Clan Grant, No. 141, as only that jolly lot of clansmen can observe such an event, with song, story and the dance of bonny Scotland, in Prescott hall, last evening.

Most of the entertainers came from the lowlands of Lawrence, but they possessed rare talent and gave one of the most enjoyable programs heard in this city in a long time.

A feature of the evening was the Lowell debut of Miss Jeannette McGregor Cuthill, a graduate of the New England Conservatory of Music, who charmed the large audience. Miss Cuthill's numbers were "O for the Bloom of My Ain Native Heather," "Comin' Thro' the Rye," "The Scottish Bluebell" and "The Land o' the Leal." William Moodie entertained with "Gae Bring Me a Pint o' Wine" and "Lass o' Ballochmyle." Misses Ivy and Vina Keppie aroused the enthusiasm of the audience by their graceful dancing. They gave the sword dance, the Highland fling and the sailors' hornpipe, and are among the best exponents of Scottish dancing in New England. The comedian on the program was John Neel, also from Lawrence, and John was there with the goods. He gave "The Hotel Bed," "Sandy Going to Kirk," "Is Marriage a Failure?" and "The School Inspector." He received much applause. The pipes figures in the list of good things, too. Piper P. M. Rennie contributed a fantasia of Scotch airs. The pipe program closed with the singing by the audience of "Auld Lang Syne."

Following the concert there was dancing, which continued until midnight. The committee on arrangements consisted of the following named: Chairman, Chief John H. Tait; secretary, Donald A. MacFadden; treasurer, John Breckenridge; assistants, Neil Walters, John Livingston, Alexander Campbell, Andrew Mowatt, John Brown and George E. McLean. The floor director for dancing was William Brown, and his assistant was George McNeil. The aids were Robert Ritchie, John Reid, Gavin Holt and James Johnston.

HAMILTON WALL

May Give Way to Business Block

The famous old Hamilton wall, some perhaps would place the letters "in" before famous, is soon to come down for the Hamilton Mfg. Co., has placed the space outlined by the wall, on the market.

Several offers already have been received and it is not improbable that a modern business block will soon be erected on the site.

It was the plan of the Hamilton company when the print department of the mill was sold to the Pacific mills of Lawrence, to build a business block in Central street, but since that time several offers have been made for the property, and it is learned from an authentic source that the Hamilton company has decided to dispose of the property if the right figure is submitted.

The plans of the Hamilton company with reference to building for manufacturing purposes will be carried out, and a weaving mill will be built with capacity for the employment of a greater number of operatives than were employed in the old print works.

It will be 250 feet in height, including the cap, and the flue will be 15 feet in diameter. The highest chimney in Lowell is that of the Merrimack Mfg. Co., built in 1852. This chimney is 232 feet, 8 inches in height with a 12-foot flue. The Merrimack chimney is built of common brick, while that of the Massachusetts is constructed of perforated radial brick, fashioned specially for chimney construction.

The highest chimney in the world is located at Great Falls, Montana, and is 313 feet high.

Taft for Lewis

He is Determined to Appoint Colored Man to Office

WASHINGTON, Oct. 29.—Persons close to the president say he has fully made up his mind to appoint W. H. Lewis of Boston to be an assistant attorney-general of the United States, or if that is impossible, to give him a place almost equally as good, the alternative position suggested being that of assistant treasurer of the United States at Philadelphia, provided Senator Penrose of Pennsylvania will consent to a "carpet bag" appointment. Inasmuch as Mr. Lewis is a Massachusetts man and not a Pennsylvanian, Mr. Penrose, who has his own troubles just at the present time, owing to the tangled state of the republican party in Pennsylvania, may make vigorous objection to such a federal plan, and the assistant treasurership going to an outsider. Senator Penrose is coming to Washington in a few days to talk over matters with the president.

There is opposition to the appointment of Mr. Lewis as an assistant attorney-general because of his color, and the president has told that it would lead to embarrassments. Assistant attorney-generals rank in the official table of precedence with assistant secretaries of departments, and as such are invited to official functions at the White House.

It would be distasteful to southern senators and members of congress, the president has been told, for them to have to meet Mr. Lewis socially and more or less friction would be sure to follow.

Already there are intimations that if the president persists in appointing Mr. Lewis an assistant attorney-general, efforts would be made to defeat his confirmation, but the president will not be deterred by these threats. Southern senators could of course delay the confirmation, as senatorial courtesy requires that every senator shall be permitted to talk to the limit, and as the coming session is very short, a vigorous opposition might prevent action on the nomination before March 4. In that case the president could recommend Mr. Lewis as a recess appointment, and the nomination would then be taken up on its merits at the following session.

If it could be shown that Mr. Lewis was without the requisite fitness for the place or that he was not a proper man for the appointment, it would be easier to defeat his nomination, but no such suggestion is made. On the contrary, it is conceded that Mr. Lewis is a man of ability and character and fully qualified to be either an assistant attorney-general or assistant treasurer at Philadelphia or elsewhere.

Atty-General Wickham, in whose department Mr. Lewis would have an office if he should be appointed an assistant attorney-general, said again yesterday that he knew nothing about the appointment, adding: "I do know Mr. Lewis. He is a good man, a good assistant district attorney and a good football player."

On the recommendation of Representative Gardner Dr. F. H. Coffin has been appointed pension examining surgeon at Haverhill to succeed Dr. M. D. Clarke, resigned.

DOWLING GAMES

Last Night

There were several close and exciting games played on the alleys last night. In the Electric Light League the Office and Station teams clashed, the former team being too strong for the boys who work in Perry street.

The Cotton Side and Print-Works of the Merrimack Mills met, and the latter team demonstrated its accuracy by winning the game by a margin of 27 pins.

The Helms and Butler Vets of the Minor League managed to put up high scores, but the victory fell to the former team.

The Tigers and Cubs met in a friendly contest, but there was very little excitement, for the Tigers gave their opponents an awful trouncing.

BOSSSES WIN

After a very lively game between two teams from the Lowell Brewery on Les Miserables alleys the Bosses won from the Shop team by 42 pins. Tom Fox was high with 103.

OUR GRAMMAR SCHOOLS

VARNUM SCHOOL

Its History, Principal and Graduates

The Varnum school is situated in Myrtle street, Centralville, and is one of the largest schools in the city. It has little to boast of so far as architectural beauty is concerned but its 17 class rooms are well lighted and all of its appointments are modern and up to date. It holds the record for Carney medal scholars in the High school and it embraces enterprises that have attracted the attention of educators. These enterprises include cobblering and the cane seating of chairs. These have been introduced as a part of the manual training of the school.

The cobblering is under the direction of Miss Rose A. Dowd and Miss Agnes T. Fay has charge of the cane seating. These two women have the distinction of being the only public school teachers to give instructions in this practical work. About 200 pairs of shoes are repaired and 75 chairs are re-seated during the year.

The little cobbler boys buy their own stock from the wholesalers, and take great pride in mending the footwear of their friends and neighbors. As a himself. At the municipal election the following December, the large vote he received as a candidate for the office of school committeeman from old ward two attested the esteem in which he was held by his fellow citizens.

He was succeeded in October, 1878, by Mr. A. K. Whitcomb, who brought to his work the good health, strength and energy that come from a well spent boyhood on a farm, and a mental grasp and understanding of educational needs and principles far above the ordinary. With a singleness of purpose that knew no diversion, he applied himself to the work so well begun by Mr. Galloupe, of educating the boys and girls of Centralville. To such good purpose did he labor that his talents received the recognition so justly their due and he was elected to the position of superintendent of schools in 1891, a position which fortunately for the schools of Lowell he still holds.

To take his place, Mr. George W. Howe was transferred from the Colburn school, and well did he fulfill his duties until summoned away six years ago by the still hand of death.

If a school may be judged at all by the later records of its graduates, then the Varnum school has much to be proud of. Take any of the older families living in Centralville and you will find the names of its members upon the registers of this school. THE VARNUM SCHOOL

Centralville was annexed to Lowell, in 1851, a building known as the "Dracut academy" stood upon the site of the present Varnum schoolhouse. This academy building was taken and made an integral part of the public school system, and put in charge of a young graduate of Harvard college, Alonzo W. Boardman, who kept it two years, then, going back to the Harvard law school to fit himself for the honorable position in the state that he has since filled. Mr. Boardman was living in Melrose at the time he heard of the situation, and he well remembers the alacrity with which he hurried to harness a horse to drive to Wilmington to take the steam cars for Lowell, and also the bitterly cold drive home after his successful application for the place. Mr. Boardman greatly endeared himself to the people of Centralville during his two years' stay, and many have since followed with interest his later fortunes. He was a member of the Massachusetts senate in 1871 and 1872, and of the Boston board of health from 1873-1878, inclusive, and is now a successful lawyer in Boston. He was succeeded by one who for a quarter of a century impressed his character upon the school and gave it a standing second to none in the city. Daniel P. Galloupe was one of the best known figures in Centralville for more than 25 years. He took charge of the school in 1853 and soon began to agitate for a new schoolhouse to take the place of the old academy building which was inadequate to the needs. He was finally successful, and in 1858 the old building was moved away and devoted to manufacturing an entirely different product from educated boys and girls. It now stands on Bridge street near Sixth, and is occupied by Woods, Sherwood & Co. for the manufacture of wire goods and plating. A fine brick building took its place, for which the contractor, Josiah G. Peabody, received what seems but a small sum, $11,222.66, and which is not much more than was paid 30 years later for a two-room addition to the same building. But the prices of labor and materials were much less in the fifties than they are today. Mr. Galloupe in October, 1873, was obliged to resign on account of an affection in his throat which made it difficult for him to discharge his duties satisfactorily to at least, the effect of the addition may not be pleasing, but within the school is, with very few exceptions, conventionally arranged, and is giving satisfaction. Electric clocks, telephones and bells were put in all the rooms, whether new or old, and the building, according to the 1898 school report, "is one of the best and best equipped, in the city."

Principal Harris

Henry H. Harris, principal of the Varnum Grammar school, was born in Lowell in 1858. He attended the Varnum school two years and was graduated from the Green school in 1884. He graduated from the High school in 1888 and was a Carney medal scholar. He attended Harvard college and graduated in 1891 with the degree of A. B., and with special honors in natural history and in 1892 he took his A. M.

While in college he was Harvard correspondent for the Boston News, New Haven News, Cambridge Tribune and was editorial reader of the Youth's Companion.

Mr. Harris is a member of the board of trustees of the public library. He is a Knight Templar and 32nd degree Scottish Rite Mason and Past Sovereign Master of Lowell Council of Princes of Jerusalem. He has travelled extensively abroad, having been six times to different parts of Europe.

The record of the Varnum school in relation to the Carney medals at the High school is one to be proud of. Six of these medals have been granted each year for 42 years or 252 medals in all. In the whole time there have been 13 occasions when one medal was awarded a Varnum school graduate. 13 occasions when two received the honor, and five occasions when three received the honor. This makes a total of 45 medals out of 252, or over 17 per cent, that are now being held by those who received their grammar school education at the Varnum school.

Varnum School Teachers

Principal Harris' assistants at the Varnum school are, Elizabeth C. Kennedy, Mary F. Wing, Agnes Bailey, Daisy B. MacBrayne, Grace W. Bulch, Annie V. Donoghue, Mary A. Fay, James T. Fay, Rose A. The record of the Varnum school in relation to the Carney medals at the High school is one to be proud of. Six of these medals have been granted each year for 42 years or 252 medals in all. In the whole time there have been 13 occasions when one medal was awarded a Varnum school graduate. 13 occasions when two received the honor, and five occasions when three received the honor. This makes a total of 45 medals out of 252, or over 17 per cent, that are now being held by those who received their grammar school education at the Varnum school.

WAS FOUND DEAD BIG SEWER JOB

Woman Passed Away Suddenly Yesterday

In East Merrimack St. is Completed

Mrs. Annie O'Hanlon, aged 45 years, wife of John O'Hanlon of 65 Livingston street, was found dead in her bed yesterday. Last night she went to bed apparently as well as usual, and her husband and children were shocked to learn of her sudden demise without scarcely a moment's notice.

Medical Examiner Joe V. Meigs was called by the family physician and the members of the family, and heart failure seemed to be the cause of the sudden death.

She leaves to mourn her loss her husband, John, and four children, James, Annie, Mary and Margaret, and six sisters, Mrs. Mary McArdle, Mrs. Margaret Fagin, Mrs. Sarah Kelly, Mrs. Kate O'Loughlin, Mrs. Elizabeth Montgomery and Miss Nellie Donnelly, and a brother, Michael Donnelly, all of this city. Friends are requested not to send flowers.

CORNELL STUDENT

DID NOT DIE OF FOOTBALL INJURIES

ITHACA, N. Y., Oct. 29.—That Lauren B. Paine of Duluth, Minn., the freshman who died at the Cornell infirmary Thursday night, did not die from injuries received in football practice, was made known last night after an autopsy upon the body by Dr. Charles A. Bentze, the Buffalo pathologist.

The findings confirmed the opinion of the football coaches and remove all doubt as to playing the balance of the schedule this year. The findings were contained in a telegram sent by President J. G. Schurman to Franklin Paine, the boy's father, saying that the patient died of unavoidable acute dilation of the heart, associated with arterial disease and a gastro enteric colitis.

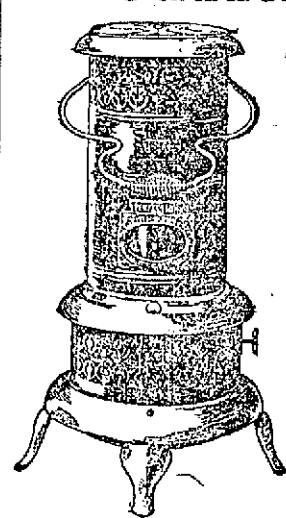

There were no signs of any football injury.

MINERS DROWNED

Steamer Wrecked at Shoal Bay

NORTH SYDNEY, N. S., Oct. 29.—Six passengers were drowned with the crew of 19 men when the steamer Regulus was wrecked at Shoal Bay, N. S. W. last Sunday, according to statements by passengers on the steamer Bruce, which arrived here yesterday from New Foundland. Previous reports stated the loss of life was confined to the crew. The passengers drowned were miners.

In Sudden Emergencies

like illness, it is often necessary quickly to raise the temperature of a room. For instance, in those hours between midnight and dawn, when the day temperature has been allowed to drop, if you are called upon to get up, the room is chilly and cold. It takes a long time to start up a furnace or fire and raise the temperature by ordinary means.

You can instantly heat a room to any desired temperature with a

PERFECTION
OIL HEATER
Absolutely smokeless and odorless

It quickly gives heat, and with one filling of the font burns steadily for nine hours, without smoke or smell. Has automatic-locking flame spreader which prevents the wick from being turned high enough to smoke, and is easy to remove and drop back, so the wick can be cleaned in an instant. It has a cool handle and a damper top.

An indicator always shows the amount of oil in the font. It has a filler-cap which does not need to be screwed down; it is put in like a cork in a bottle, and is attached to the font by a chain.

The burner body or gallery cannot become wedged, because of a new device in construction, and consequently it can always be easily unscrewed in an instant for reworking.

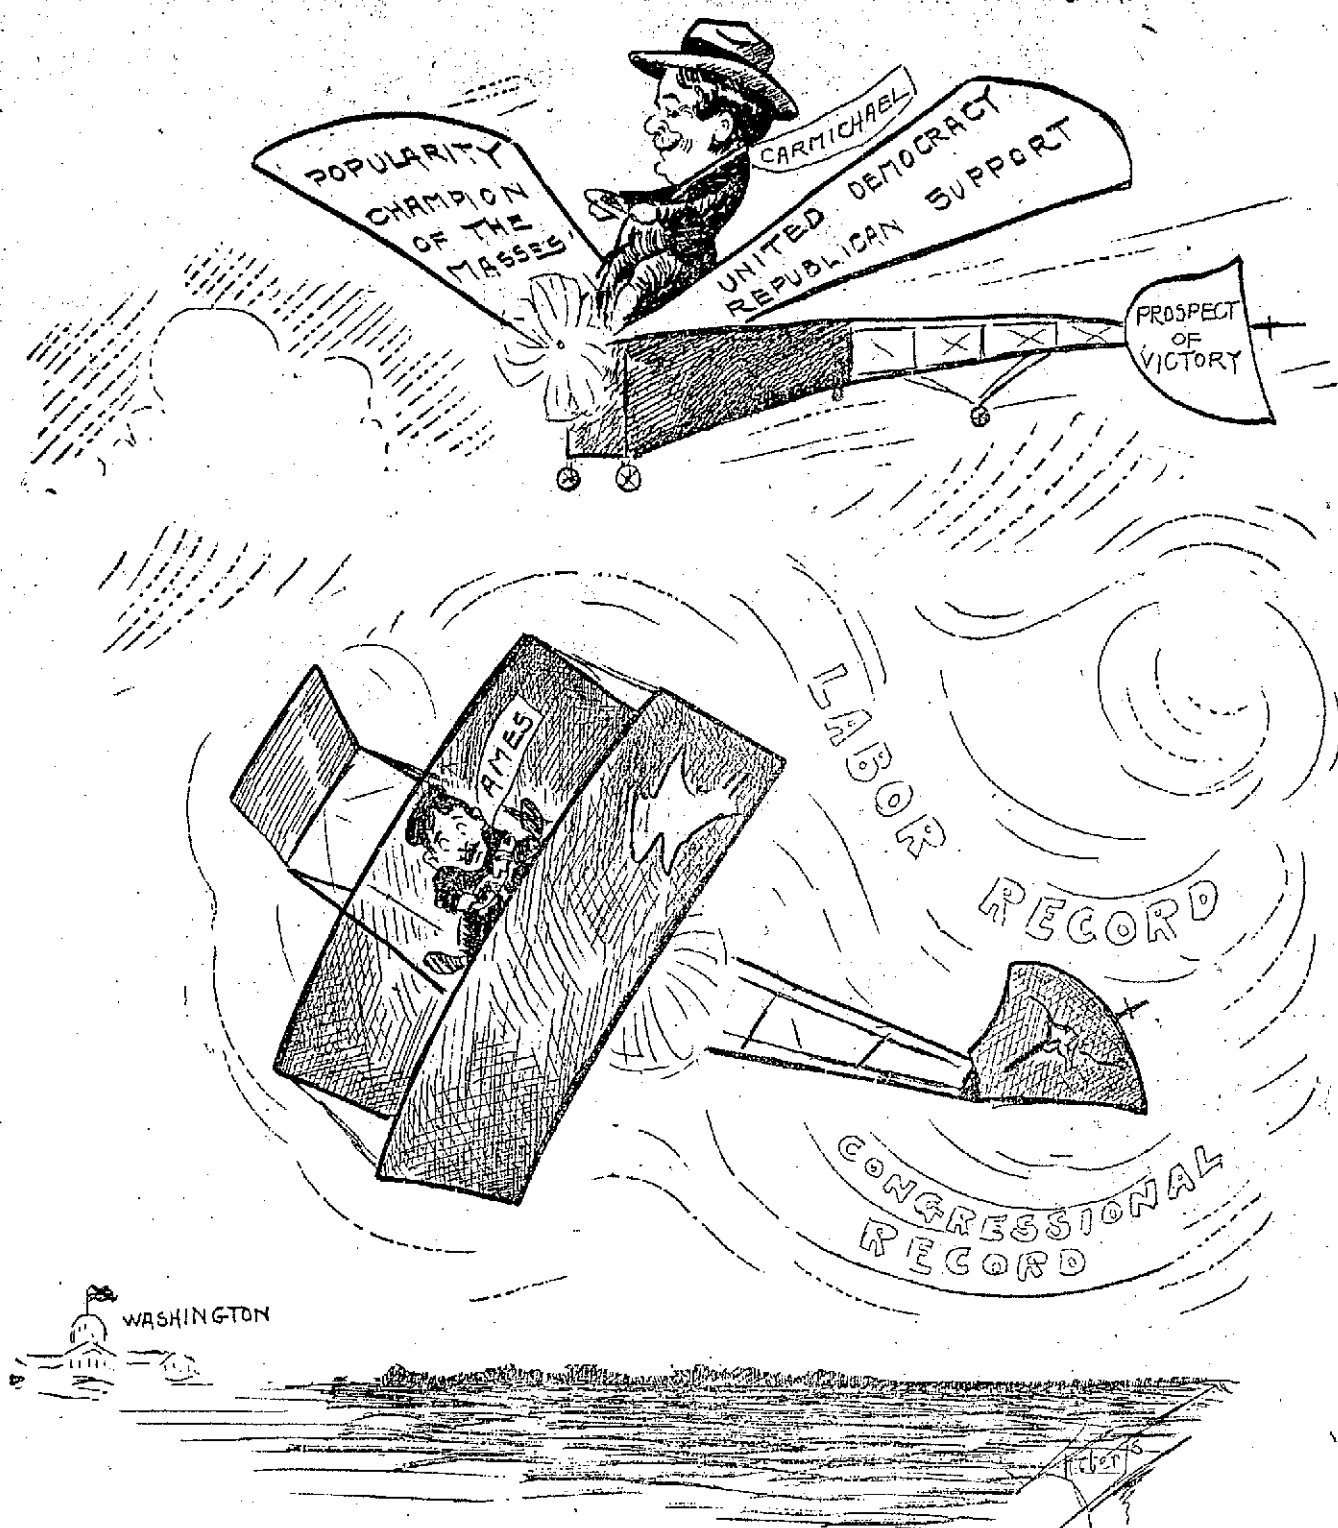

The Perfection Oil Heater is finished in Japan or nickel. It is strong, durable and well made, built for service, yet light and ornamental.

FARR PARDONED

But He Will Stay in Prison

ROCKLAND, Me., Oct. 29.—I am truly grateful to everybody who has helped me get this pardon, which makes it possible for me to spend my few remaining years in freedom. I hope nothing in my future conduct will ever cause anybody to regret that the governor and council have been so kind. I can say nothing more at this time.

This was the statement of John G. Farr, life convict, when informed by Warden Norton last night that the pardon had been granted. There was another pathetic scene upon the arrival of the venerable prison chaplain, Rev. C. A. Plummer, who had been before the governor and council yesterday earnestly pleading the prisoner's cause. The convict embraced his benefactor, sobbing his joy.

Although free to go where he will

after 29 years' confinement, Farr will not take immediate advantage of his opportunity. In fact, he will probably remain at the prison during the winter in the employ of Warden Norton. The warden says Farr has been one of the best prisoners in the institutions, needing neither reprimand nor punishment.

He worked in the kitchen as long as he was able and cared for the prison flower garden and did other small jobs. He is now 68 years old and in far from robust health. Friends in another part of the state have declared that he shall never know want. Here in Rockland there has been much sympathy for him.

MORSE PARDON

Friends Find Way It May be Granted

WASHINGTON, Oct. 29.—Friends of Charles W. Morse believe they have found a way for President Taft to let the convicted New York banker out of the Atlanta penitentiary without actually pardoning him. In effect it would be to parole Morse, but that end would be accomplished by issuing a "conditional pardon."

The banker's friends claim precedent in their favor and point out that President Cleveland pardoned a federal prisoner conditionally, with the proviso that he report to the U. S. district attorney every year for five years. While the plans of Morse's friends are not known at the department of justice, it was said that there is nothing to prevent the president from issuing a "conditional pardon," and that in such an event the federal board of parole would be charged with the responsibility of looking after Morse. Any proposition to parole Morse under the terms of the law passed at the last session of congress, as has been suggested, is out of the question, say the attorneys. The law says a federal prisoner may be paroled after having served one-third of his sentence. Morse was sentenced to 15 years and would not be eligible for parole under that statute, therefore, until January, 1916.

The Chief Difference Between Crawford Boilers

and other boilers is that they heat the houses they are rated to heat;—you don't have to get the "next larger size."

These Boilers give more heat per pound of coal than others and cost less in repairs. They are simplicity itself in operation, are guaranteed for zero weather efficiency and to save fuel, labor, worry and money to those who use them.

There are no packed joints, sheet iron parts or brick linings in these Boilers, and the "Heat Ribs" cast on the interiors are found in no others.

They are a gilt edge investment for those who want heat and plenty of it at the minimum of expense and care.

WOMAN INDICTED

ST. ALBANS, Vt., Oct. 29.—Mrs. Frank C. Averill of St. Albans town was indicted, charged with the murder of her husband, by the Franklin county grand jury late yesterday. The jury, which had been especially summoned to consider the case, had been hearing testimony since Thursday afternoon.

Mrs. Averill has been under arrest since Saturday last, when she was held following an investigation by Stiles Atty. Johnson. Averill died at a hospital in this city Oct. 21 from gunshot wounds. He was taken to the hospital late the night before, and in his few moments of consciousness told the officers, who had been called in, that he had been shot accidentally. The Averills were well known residents of St. Albans town. Mrs. Averill since her arrest has maintained her innocence, and no motive for anyone to have shot Averill is known.

HELD IN $5000

YOUNG MAN IS CHARGED WITH FORGERY

BOSTON, Oct. 28.—Waiting examination in the municipal criminal court, Frank J. Svendeman, 22 years old, who had for several months maintained an elaborately furnished suite in Roxbury, was yesterday held in $5000 bail on the charge of forgery and uttering.

Since last February he had been employed by the Hub Wire company of 175 Washington street. His employers made the complaint, alleging that they have lost heavily through his peculations.

According to the police the young man received a salary of $40 a month, but maintained a suite in a Roxbury apartment house that cost him $45 a month for rent and had other heavy expenses.

He is charged with having forged the name of the treasurer of the company to checks received from customers. These checks he is alleged to have deposited to his own account in the South End national bank, drawing against them whenever he needed extra pocket money.

CHAIRMAN HUPPUGH

Replies to Statement Made by Candidate Stimson

NEW YORK, Oct. 29.—Chairman Huppuch of the democratic state committee issued the following statement last night, together with what he said was a copy of a letter written to the directors of the American Sugar Refining company by its counsel, John G. Johnson, John B. Stanchfield, James R. Sheffield and Henry B. Closson:

"In view of the statement made by Mr. Stimson yesterday that he had collected from the sugar trust all that was due to the government when he consented to take from the company about $2,000,000 in full settlement of all claims against them it is very interesting to read the letter addressed to the trust's directors by their counsel, who were thoroughly familiar with the facts and who admit a liability to the government of about nine millions of dollars."

The letter was dated April 26, 1909, is addressed "to the directors of the American Sugar Refining company." It follows, in part:

"A compromise having been made by which the government has agreed to accept in full of its claim against the company the sum of $2,000,000, in addition to payment of the judgment, viz: $134,000 already entered, we think it proper, in view of the very large amount that has been made the reasons which so induced us to advise."

Here the letter reviews the history of the case, and continues:

"While we thought, and still think, that no forfeiture could be sustained unless the company itself, or its board of directors, or its executive officers, had been aware of the fraud, Judge Holt entertained a different opinion and charged the jury that if the fraud was known to the then superintendent of the dock on which were located

the scales, the company was responsible. "Since the trial, the government, acting through its special attorney, Mr. Stimson, has filed reliquidations of importations between 1901 and 1907 by which the company has been brought in further debt to it to the extent of $1,239,000."

"Reliquidations of importations to the same refinery from 1894 to 1901 were threatened and also importations to Jersey City which would have brought the company into debt to the government, if sustained, to the extent of upwards of $1,000,000 additional, making a total of about $3,000,000."

"In addition to this, the government also threatened to bring forfeiture proceedings for all importations during the last three years, outside of those involved in the suit which had been tried. The claim under these forfeitures would have amounted to about $6,000,000."

"If the government was right in its contention of fact and law, it was entitled to collect not only the amounts involved in the reliquidations, but also additionally the forfeitures for the value of the goods imported."

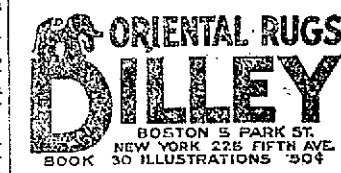

"The total amount for which the government threatened to sue amounted to nearly $9,000,000."

Y. M. C. A. CONVENTION

TORONTO, Ont., Oct. 29.—The afternoon session of the International convention of the Young Men's Christian Association of North America, was taken up with the reports of officers and clubs, all showing a healthy growth in the work and outlining a campaign to carry it forward in foreign lands.

The triennial report placed the endowment fund on January 1, 1910, at $1,174,885. This report said the associations of North America now have a membership of 496,000 men and boys, a gain of 13 per cent since the last convention.

It further showed the value of all association property in America to be over $60,000,000.

Sworn to by John H. Harrington, proprietor, Martin H. Reidy, business manager, and Alfred Pilotte, pressman, of The Sun, before me, January 1, 1910. J. JOSEPH HENNESSY, Notary Public.This is by far the largest average circulation of any newspaper in Lowell.The Greek letter fraternities still flourish at Tufts and other colleges.
While they may be permissible at colleges, they should be barred from high schools where such secret societies can accomplish only harm for the members and the school.It appears that the purchase of an opposition "plant" by the United Shoe Machinery company has not ended the troubles of that concern, as another party is getting ready to attack the monopoly. It is not likely, however, that the company will buy up every rival that enters the field.

GIVE US WIDE PUBLIC THOROUGHFARES

The narrow public thoroughfare constitutes an irreparable injury to any progressive city. Of this Boston is a striking example. In order to relieve some of the principal streets in that city, subways were constructed that the car traffic might be put under ground.The same may be true of Lowell at some time in the future when it is found necessary to relieve congestion on such streets as Gorham and East Merrimack which, owing to the location of large buildings close to the sidewalks, can never be widened unless these buildings and a great many others be ruined. There is the most urgent need of widening Rogers street from the junction of Nesmith to Boylston street.The construction of the new park along that line makes this improvement doubly imperative. At present there is barely room for a wagon to pass safely on either side the car tracks.To allow this street to remain at its present inadequate width would be to discount the advantages of the beautiful park that will attract multitudes
in the near future.There should be some authority in the city to insist that all new streets shall be of liberal width. It is well to have plenty of room. There is no scarcity of land, and it would be better for a city to purchase land for wide streets than allow them to be laid out on a scale that will prove too narrow when buildings are located on either side, when sidewalks are out off and car tracks laid in the middle.Any movement for the "City Beautiful" should include in its program
wide streets, wide sidewalks, spacious squares and occasional street parks
to relieve the monotony.Our city is steadily being beautified in all these directions, and our street department should lose no opportunity of favoring wide streets wherever possible.Since the arrival of the automobile the demand for wide public thoroughfares is greater than ever before. We want more state highways, more boulevards. Indeed it may be said that while the high speed auto is injurious to roads, we never had good roads until the demands of the autoists were heard all over the land, and the whole people began to realize how wretched were our country roads.It is particularly important that the main thoroughfares leading through every city should be of ample width. That is why Rogers street should be widened and why some of the other thoroughfares that cannot be widened should be smooth paved.

WHY SOME PEOPLE DON'T GET ALONG

There are always a great many people who can't get along. Indeed the number of such is greater than the number of those whose efforts are crowned with success. But while there are conditions that militate against certain classes, as a rule the real reason is some weakness or defect in the people themselves. Everybody who succeeds has to overcome adverse conditions of one kind or another. With some of those who fail it is the will power that is lacking; with others it is the willingness to work. It is surprising how numerous are the people who have a real aversion for hard work. Hard work under right conditions will never injure anybody except those who are physically unfitted for it. It is remarkable, too, how readily some people arrive at the conclusion that a little hard work would prove their undoing. So much do some people abhor hard work that they would rather go to jail or to the institution recently dignified by a new name than do what they might ordinarily be expected to do as a means of self-support.
Is it any wonder that these people, lazy, shiftless and habitually idle do not get along? Of course there is a large number who from ill health or adversity through no fault of their own become worthy objects of charity and sympathy.There is a large class very anxious to get along and even to attain success; but all they do to reach the goal is to wish and hope for something to turn up. They forget that success is not attained all of a sudden—in a day, a week or a year—but as a result of long years of struggle. Yet they imagine that by some dispensation of fate a miracle should be wrought in their favor that would pile the rewards of a life of toil into a day. When we want to reach the summit of a high mountain it is useless to wish ourselves at the top. The only way we can get there, as a rule, is by climbing, step by step. That being so the sooner we begin to climb the better. And so it is with the attainment of success. We must set to work and climb slowly, it may be, but steadily upward if we would ever reach the top.
Thus the indolent and the inactive do not get along, and the reason is plain.
But there are people who are neither lazy nor idle who fail to get along.
They are the improvident who spend their money as fast as they earn it, making no provision for the "rainy day," so to speak. The general experience is that it is almost as hard to save money as to earn it. Yet the industrious and the frugal find it easy from force of habit. For a similar reason the spendthrift considers it most difficult to save anything.
Unfortunately it is also true of the last named character that he is no more unapt at enriching himself than at impoverishing his friends.It would be well if those who cannot get along would remember this old maxim of Seneca which is the condensation of all wisdom—
"Be mindful of things past, careful of things present and provident of things to come."

SEEN AND HEARD

ANOTHER CARD CLUB.
They're friends today, they smile and
kiss.
When'er they meet, and frequently
They count it joy and count it bliss
To ask each other up to tea.
Together off they shopping go.
Each helps to pick the other's hat;
They tell each other all they know,
And friendship can't do more than
that.
But soon, too soon will come the sneer,
The hasty word so much despised;
There's trouble in the atmosphere.
A card club they have organized.I've warned them, so they can't blame me.
I'm an old stager at the game;
I've seen card clubs start merrily,
And everyone turned out the same.
The best of friends I know must part,
And loved ones oft must disagree.
We can't avoid the aching heart
Nor miss the sorrows that will be.
But, as I said to her last night,
"Be happy while you may, and don't
Deliberately seek the fight
A card club brings," said she: "We won't.""You fought in other clubs," said I;
"I didn't," hotly she replied;
"If not," I asked her, "tell me why
So suddenly they failed and died?
And tell me why you do not speak
To Mrs. What's-her-name today?
You entertained her once a week
But now she never comes our way.
Then tell me also why it is That Mrs. Thimblebobs you snub?
Time was you called her 'Darling Liz,'
But that was ere she joined your club.""And then there's Mrs. Punnyname,
You used to think her very sweet
Until you found she played a game
That honest methods couldn't beat.
That raised an awful rumpus, too,
And sent the club upon the rocks,
If I had time I could review
Some other things that furnished
shocks.""Don't worry, we'll not quarrel," she Replied in tones that icy fell,
"Don't throw those old fights up to me,
We didn't know those women well."

hard to tell apart," he said. "Take

There was a touch of insanity, too, in

HOW TO KEEP THE HEAD CLEAR

Frequent washing with a shampoo composed of pure soap, cocoanut oil, glycerin, white of eggs and salicylic
acid imparts a feeling of cleanliness
and invigoration that is hard to describe. This opens up the pores leading to the hair roots, removes dandruff
and scales, and puts the scalp in such a healthy condition that the loss of hair is naturally stopped. Birt's Head
Wash is made of the above ingredients.
It contains no free alkali, as is the case
with some soaps and shampoos. It contains no alcohol, which is one of the principal ingredients in many so-called hair remedies. Free alkali is deadly to the scalp, and alcohol turns the hair gray. Be on the safe side.
Use Birt's Head Wash. The full formula is printed plainly on every tube.

Col. Carmichael Pledges Himself to Business Men

Believes in Government Control of Express Deliveries—He Attacks Col. Ames' Congressional Record and Quotes Figures on High Cost of Living

Col. James H. Carmichael is proving to be the busiest congressional candidate that either party has produced in the fifth district in many years.

He is devoting his entire time to his campaign and is covering much ground. The best evidence that he is taking well with the public and that there is an unusual interest in his candidacy that reaches beyond the limits of his party is the fact that he is being invited to address meetings nightly, not rallies promoted by his own campaign managers, but by men of both parties who believing that the country needs a change in the administration of national affairs, and needs it at once, have invited the colonel to present to them his views on the needs of this district and whatever remedy for the existing conditions he may have to offer.

A striking instance of this feeling of the necessity of a change was given last evening when after addressing a rally before the voters of upper ward seven held in front of Gage's ice houses, Col. Carmichael on invitation of a party of prominent business men of both parties addressed a gathering of about 50 in a down town business establishment. This meeting came about through statements made by Col. Carmichael relative to his position on the important subject of "Parcel Deliveries" under government supervision. As will be recalled the board of trade recently got after the local express companies with the exception of the Mahoney and Concord relative to its delivery in the outlying districts, and a hearing was held which brought about some changes. Col. Carmichael was on hand last evening with facts and figures relative to the enormous profits of those companies wrung from the pockets of the farmers and the business men who are obliged to use them.

Col. Carmichael quoted figures showing that in 1908 the Adams Express company declared a 200 per cent dividend amounting to $24,000,000, while the Wells Fargo company declared a dividend of 300 per cent, aggregating an equal amount.

"In England and other countries," said Col. Carmichael, "the system of a parcels delivery conducted by the government at a nominal expense to the business man has not only proved a grand success and a boon both to the business man in the delivery of his wares, but to the farmer in sending up his products. I have looked deeply into this important matter and pledge myself if elected to congress to further any movement toward the establishment of such a system in this country. This parcels delivery movement is more far-reaching and means more to the ordinary business man than one can possibly realize at first thought. It affects every business man in every community, every business man in Lowell from the big department store down to the little corner grocery. At the present time a most extravagant and unnecessary expense of the business man's profits is eaten up by the express rates. While a republican congress is in power there can be no hope for a betterment of conditions. Therefore, as one pledged to relieve the business men of the fifth district from this unnecessary and exorbitant raid upon their profits I ask the support of all business men of this district."

Pawtucket Street Rally

After addressing a noon day meeting at the Hamilton mills on Thursday he spoke to another large gathering at the Jackson street entrance of the Lowell Machine shop. At these rallies Col. Carmichael devoted himself to the high cost of living and his opponent's record as a member of the Massachusetts legislature.

On the invitation of many neighbors and residents of the upper part of ward seven, Col. Carmichael addressed a gathering of about 300 last evening, including 150 employees of the Daniel Gage company.

After referring to the fact that most of the express companies had to be forced by the board of trade to deliver goods in Pawtucketville and the outlying sections, Col. Carmichael spoke on the matter of parcel deliveries under government control. He then dwelt upon the matter of reciprocity with Canada, and stated that a Lowell business man who had just returned from Three Rivers, Que., had informed him earlier in the day that the best butter is selling for 22 cents per pound, while the strictly fresh eggs are bringing only 18 cents a dozen against 50 cents only 300 miles south of Three Rivers, but over the border. "Reciprocity with Canada means among other things," said Col. Carmichael, "that the Canada producer will be enabled to send his butter and eggs to this vicinity and compete with the farmers that now control these commodities and keep their price beyond the reach of poor working people."

Col. Carmichael then attacked a statement in a local paper yesterday to the effect that owing to the high cost of living a dollar today is worth only 10 cents, and he stated that if that is true then the working people should receive double the pay they are now receiving. They should receive

In regard to the suit for divorce brought by Charles G. Kershner, now of Kitsap county, Washington, against his wife, Mrs. Laura A. Kershner, of this city, the latter states that while she denies the allegations made by the libellant in the said suit, she will be unable to go to the state of Washington to defend the suit and fight for the vindication of her character.

As one of the counts in the divorce refers to the silk toy poodle dogs kept by Mrs. Kershner, it may be stated that they are the prettiest little pets in the city. Mrs. Kershner called at The Sun office yesterday with a few of the little beauties. We give herewith a picture of the present family, showing "Dandy Babe" and "Queen" with a few of their more recent progeny. One count of the libel charges that Mrs. Kershner is so much devoted to the poodles that she shares her bed with them.

The little fellow on the extreme left is nine months old and weighs 4½ lbs. The one on the extreme right is "Gent McLeod" weighing five pounds. He took a prize at a show in Philadelphia. Both are sons of "Dandy Babe" and "Queen," the fourth and sixth respectively in the family group in the middle of the picture.

Peter H. Savage. Services were held at the Greek-Orthodox church yesterday for the late Fr. Demetrius officiating. Burial was in the Edison cemetery under the direction of Undertaker P. H. Savage.

OLD MAN BEATEN

Then He Was Robbed of $285

LEOMINSTER, Oct. 29.—Invading the house where he lives alone, two men brutally attacked George W. Camp, 80 years old, yesterday afternoon, choked and beat him into insensibility and robbed him of $285, the little fortune which represents his savings of a lifetime, he declares. Thomas Cahill, 58, and his son, Daniel F., 23, are in custody charged with the crime. Mr. Camp is suffering severely from shock, but will probably recover, physicians say.

Mr. Camp is a farmer, with the habits of a recluse. He sells cider, and the two Cahills are known as members of the "cider gang." The old man was alone in his home on Lindell avenue when the two robbers appeared. With little ado, they seized upon and demanded that he give up his money. Despite his age, Mr. Camp resisted them. After they had subdued him and thrown him unconscious into a corner, they ransacked the house, found the money and fled with it.

The police heard of the outrage from a chance visitor to the old man's home who arrived there not long after the robbery. Soon afterward, the Cahills were located and arrested by Chief of Police W. A. Lowell and Deputy Sheriff Geo. E. Lawrence.

MANY VACANCIES

State Candidates Who Are Unopposed

The time for filing vacancies caused by withdrawal of candidates nominated for district offices expired at 5 o'clock yesterday, with no changes made during the day. This means that in the 2d Essex senatorial district there will be no democratic candidate for senator, the regular nominee, William S. Hoyt of Lynn, having withdrawn. In all other senatorial districts in the state there will be a republican and a democratic candidate.

In the representative districts, there will be no regular republican candidates in these: 3d Barnstable; Dukes; 4th, 10th, 12th and 25th Essex; 3d, 18th and 31st Middlesex; Nantucket; 1st and 2d Essex; 2d, 5th, 6th, 7th, 8th and 9th Norfolk; 4th, 6th, 10th, 10th and 11th Plymouth; 2d Suffolk; 10th, 11th and 12th Worcester.

There will be no democratic candidates in these: 3d Barnstable; Dukes; 4th, 10th, 12th and 25th Essex; 3d, 18th and 31st Middlesex; Nantucket; 1st and 2d Essex; 2d, 5th, 6th, 7th, 8th and 9th Norfolk; 4th, 6th, 10th, 10th and 11th Plymouth; 2d Suffolk; 10th, 11th and 12th Worcester.

INTERESTING RACE

Between Horses of Morgan Breed and U. S. Cavalry Horses

MONTPELIER, Vt., Oct. 29.—An interesting horse race, in which half a dozen animals of the famous Morgan breed will be pitted against 20 or 30 United States cavalry horses, is being arranged by lovers of the type in this state with the co-operation of the war department, as a test of the comparative worth of the Morgan horse in cavalry service. It is within a few years only that the Morgan horse, perhaps the most famous of all the products of Vermont and one of the most noted equine types produced in the United States, has grown in popularity beyond the possibility of early extinction. The proposed test is one of several features of a general policy of education as to the qualities of the type designed to aid in perpetuating the breed.

Earlier plans to have the test run from Montpelier to New York have been abandoned. Instead, at the suggestion of Major General Leonard Wood, it is proposed to start from Fort Ethan Allen, beyond Burlington, and finish at Montpelier during the Vermont state fair in September next. All horses will carry the regulation cavalry equipment, the Morgans being ridden by Norwich university cadets and the government horses by army officers. The war department will be officially represented by a board of government experts, which will report its observations to the department. If the claims made by Morgan horse lovers for their type are sustained by the board's report it is understood the department has promised to give the type a more extensive trial in the regular service. This is the end desired. The efforts of the government to prevent the extinction, then seriously threatening the Morgan breed, prompted the establishment three years ago of the Morgan breeding station at Weybridge. The funds for the enterprise were furnished largely by Col. Joseph Battell of Middlebury, a Morgan enthusiast.

The movement has been successful thus far. From the original two score animals headed by the noted stallion General Gates nearly 100 horses have been foaled within the past three years, many having already been sold into active service. There they are exhibiting the tough, wiry qualities which have marked the Morgan horse as unsurpassed as a roadster and of no mean ability in the line of speed, despite its rather small size. In breeding, the effort has been to retain these qualities, handed down from the great father of the breed, Justin Morgan, foaled in 1793, and to improve slightly in the build of the animal. This is being accomplished, it is believed, instead of being threatened with extinction the Morgan horse today is increasing in numbers which promise a return to its former high standing.

HUSBAND WON SUIT

His Children Live on a Farm Near Lowell

BOSTON, Oct. 29.—"I don't love my mother any more, and I don't want her to come to live with me," said little Sarah Spencer, 9 years old, when put upon the stand in the divorce session yesterday to testify against her parent, Mrs. Carrie C. Spencer.

Justice Hardy asked her a few questions to test her credibility as a witness. After being told by her that she went to Sunday school, he said, "Well, then do you know what he comes of little girls who tell a lie?" "Yes, sir," she answered.

"Well, what will become of little girls if they tell a wrong story?" asked the justice.

"They won't go to heaven," quickly answered the girl.

"Well, then, you know more about it than I do," laughingly replied the justice.

She was called upon to testify as to the relation of her mother with a George Millican, who lodged at the Spencer home.

Alleging neglect, Robert J. Spencer of West Dedham testified that he married his wife in 1900 at Hampton, Me., and lived with her on Moore street, East Boston, for several years at 332 Meridian street there, and that he left her April 7 of this year. Spencer and other witnesses said Mrs. Spencer stayed out late nights and met other men and had them to her house when her husband was away. Mrs. Spencer, in contesting the case, said her husband once threatened to kill her and then ran upstairs and turned on the gas. She said she notified the police, and that it took three police officers to get him out of the house.

He stayed in the state hospital 30 days after the gas episode under observation, she said. The husband, on the other hand, said he did not try to commit suicide, but merely sought to secure his wife into taking better care of her two children. Mrs. Spencer said he once threatened her with a razor, and that she was saved only by the interference of a little boy.

As this stipulation was hotly contested by the husband, Justice Hardy said:

"If I were in your place, I hardly rather live on bread and water than have my wife an object of charity, a possible beggar in the streets, and have the children who were born to her know her condition." Mrs. Spencer is now in the Florence Crittenton Home in this city.

Spencer stated that he worked in an iron foundry in East Boston, earned $18 a week and spent $6 a week to keep his children on a farm near Lowell.

RAID PLANTATION

Manobos Tribesmen Burned Buildings

MANILA, Oct. 29.—Three hundred rebellious Manobos tribesmen today raided the plantation of Captain Barton in the sub-province of Bukidnon, province of Agusan, on the northern coast of Mindanao Island. They burned the buildings with their contents and killed the stock. Captain Barton was absent from home. His wife and son were rescued from the raiders by friendly natives.

Troops have started in pursuit of the outlaws. The raid follows the outbreak of outlawry among the Manobos in Davao, the southern province of Mindanao Island.

WANT MORE MONEY

Municipal Departments Petition Appropriations Committee

"Blessed are they who expect nothing for they shall not be disappointed."

This beautiful aphorism will be quoted to the different heads of departments who may appear before the committee on appropriations next Monday evening when that important and much sought committee (at this time of year) holds its meeting.

In the first place the police department has selected the auto truck, it wants and all that is now needed is an appropriation of $5,000, which it will request from the committee at the coming meeting.

The fire department also has the auto bug to the extent that it desires an appropriation of $15,000 for two auto combination wagons and a wagon for the chief. This department also wants $500 for additional fire alarm boxes.

Inspector Dow of the buildings department will appear before the committee and explain the need of the fire department for a boiler at the Central fire station at a cost of $900.

The committee also has before it requests from the health department for $25,000 for a new stable and for $7,700 for other expenses.

Recently Councilman Chapman introduced an order for $10,000 for the development of the new Shedd park in the Oakland and the committee on appropriations to which the matter was referred has requested Chairman Pickman of the park commission to appear at the meeting to explain what the commission has in view relative to the development of the new park.

City Hall Meetings. The board of aldermen will meet at city hall Tuesday evening at 8 o'clock. The committee on convenience station will meet at 7:30, Tuesday evening.

The committee on claims has set about 30 petitions before it which will be considered on Wednesday evening at 7:30.

TEACHERS' MEETING

Cyrus W. Irish Chosen Member of Executive Committee

BOSTON, Oct. 29.—"Hot air in the houses is responsible for half the divorces," said W. E. Watt of Chicago yesterday at the annual meeting of the Middlesex county teachers' convention in Tremont Temple. Mr. Watt is the principal of the Graham school at Chicago, where he has instituted the only open air kindergarten in the country.

"People who breathe bad air become enervated," he said, "then they become irritable. If there is bad air in the house there is irritability in the home. And where there is irritability there is divorce. You stand a chance of domestic happiness if you keep your windows open."

Mr. Watt said that many problems of education would disappear if there was more fresh air in the school-room.

"School children have more need of red corpuscles than they have of manual training or even of domestic science," he said. "I have found that the efficiency of the child has increased 10 per cent in 24 hours where there are given proper air. Office discipline has been reduced 30 per cent. That is, the amount of restlessness, of twisting, turning and wriggling in their seats has decreased to that extent."

There is no need of having contagious diseases in an open-air school. Some of the diseases caused largely by foul air are adenoids, pneumonia, grippe and tuberculosis. In the congested tenement districts many babies die simply by breathing bad air."

Three Hours for Fresh Air. He gives in his own school a recess lasting from 10 to 1 o'clock, that the pupils shall be given even more fresh air. It is divided into four periods, and only one-fourth of the pupils are in the yard at the same time.

"Every teacher goes with her own pupils," said Mr. Watt. "She organizes games and knows a lot about them. She trades knowledge of stunts and games with other teachers and with her pupils. She encourages the girls and boys to tell her games their fathers and mothers used to play, perhaps in the old country."

"The school recess, I feel, is one of the most important functions of a child's life. Its influences are more powerful than those of the classroom and more vital than any other that the child participates in. He is let loose out of a place of humdrum among his fellows, many of whom he fears and many of whom he desires to torment. In the country recess is usually a time of activity, but in the crowded city school the child finds he cannot do anything unbidden. He undertakes to use any plaything he loses it to some stronger fellow."

"An observation of about 500 boys and girls in one city schoolyard at recess showed that seven of the boys and no girls were really playing. Some were imprudent enough to walk about, but most of them were backed up against the building so that they could not be attacked from the rear."

Experience Needed. C. A. Prosser, deputy commissioner of education, spoke upon the "Relationship of the Elementary School to the Problem of Industrial Education." He urged that the elementary schools give something to the schooling of today which will equal the training that he got a generation ago in doing chores on the farm. We are cramming our children's minds with facts out of a book when what they are really longing for is experience.

"We are closing the door of life in the face of many children," he said. "And this is because of the failure of our high schools to widen their entrance requirements to take care of the needs of all."

A general discussion of problems of the high school was held in the morning at Lorimer hall, where Brook G. Adams presided. David Snodden, commissioner of education, gave an address on "The Function of the High School in the Movement for Industrial Education."

There is a large number of boys and girls, said Adams, going into offices and departments at the age of 14. This is not a good thing because later on the child's usefulness is impaired. By the time he is 26 years old his earning capacity is less than half of what it ought to be.

to give an address, sent word that because of another meeting he found that he could not come to Boston. In his place Prof. Walter Ballou Jacobs of Brown university spoke upon the subject, "Is Teaching a Profession?"

Election of Officers. Between 2000 and 3000 attended the afternoon session, where the election of officers was the first business. They are:

President—Charles S. Clark, Somerville. Vice-presidents—Charles H. Howe, Wakefield; John F. Scully, Arlington; Alice Atwell, Melrose; Bradford W. Drake, Waltham.

Executive committee—Fred H. Nickerson, Medford; Chester M. Biles, Cambridge; Cyrus W. Irish, Lowell; Seth H. Chase, Braintree; Kenneth Winslow, Newton.

Secretary and treasurer—Arthur L. Doe, Somerville.

Auditor—Charles J. Emerson, Stoneham. "Our Country: Its Dangers and Possibilities," was the subject of an address by Robert F. Glenn, ex-governor of North Carolina. In touching upon the discussion over the placing of the statue of Gen. Robert E. Lee in Statuary Hall at Washington he said:

"If any one of you objects to putting Lee's statue in the Capitol at Washington, you do not know him as we of the south do. He was the last man to secede in his state, and he only did it when he was forced to believe it to be right. Washington would not have been ashamed to stand in the same hall with him. Lincoln himself would be glad to have him there."

FOUND HELPLESS

Man Had Been Injured by Fall

A man whose name is thought to be Frank Lacouture was found in an unconscious condition in a doorway in a building in Salem street this morning by Patrolmen Gennell and Kelly. It was thought at first that the man was drunk but when he was brought to the police station it was decided to call the city physician and after he had examined him decided that the man should be sent to the hospital.

The ambulance was called and Lacouture was taken to St. John's hospital where it was found he was suffering from a slight concussion of the brain. In all probability the man fell down a slight of stairs.
